LODGE ACCEPTS 9 RESERVATION CHANGES, FOR ALTERED ARTICLE X. CONDITIONALLY, BUT HITCHCOCK SPURNS IT AS SURRENDER

OFFERS CHANGES IN SENATE

EXPECTS DEMOCRATIC HELP

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Senator Lodge today accepted the conclusions of the bi-partisan conferees on Peace Treaty reservations so far as they reached conclusions as part of his program by presenting in the Senate amendments on nine points covered by the preamble and the reservations.

Mr. Lodge intends to move these amendments to the Lodge reservations, thus making the work of the bi-partisan conferees the basis of discussion of the treaty.

The nine amendments relate to the preamble or resolving clause; the question of withdrawal from the League; domestic questions; Shantung; the selection of American representatives in the League Council, Assembly and commissions; appropriations for the United States share of the League expense; limitation of armaments; treatment by the United States of the nationals of a covenant-breaking State who reside in this country, and voting power.

Republican mild reservationists also announced the acceptance by Senator Lodge of a modification of the reservation on Article X., worked out by the mild group, aided by suggestions from Democratic Senators. The modified reservation is to be presented in the Senate by Mr. Lodge. Senators stated, if present plans are adhered to. It will have the support of practically all the Republican Senators who are not irreconcilables, the mild reservationists said confidently, and they expect it to command considerable Democratic support.

Hitchcock Rejects Proposal.

Senator Lodge and others were canvassing Senators of both parties today to learn how the proposed modification suited them. A leading Democratic Senator accepted it, Republicans stated, and said that he thought other Democrats would do so; but Senator Hitchcock, the acting leader of the Democratic minority, rejected it with the statement that "it is not a compromise, it is a surrender."

Mr. Lodge's acceptance of the proposal is understood to be conditioned upon the attitude of the middle-ground Republicans, who form the main body of support of the Lodge reservations.

The proposed reservation reads:

The United States assumes no obligation to preserve, by the use of its military or naval forces, or by the economic boycott, or by any other means, the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country, or to interfere in controversies between nations, whether members of the League or not, under the provisions of Article X., or to employ the military or naval forces of the United States under any article of the treaty for any purpose, unless in any particular case the Congress, which, under the Constitution, has the sole power to declare war, shall, by act or joint resolution, so provide.

The Lodge reservation on Article X. provides that the United States shall assume no obligation to preserve territorial integrity and political independence, but does not specify in that connection the use of military, naval or economic forces. The proposed substitute is different only in that it does specify that none of these forces nor "any other means" shall be employed.

Many Senators expressed great surprise that the mild reservationists should consider such a proposal. Senator Hitchcock said that he thought it went much further than the original Lodge reservation in repudiating the obligation. Besides declaring that it was not a compromise, but a surrender, he said:

"The use of the words 'or by any other means' eliminates every weapon we have under Article X."

For Change Adhered To by Wilson.

Mr. Hitchcock added that his personal idea of an acceptable compromise was the reservation which he submitted to President Wilson and to the substance of which the President wrote that he adhered, though he thought the form unfortunate.

The difference between that reservation and the one now proposed is that in the new one the words "or by any other means" have been added, and the position of the words "to preserve" is now the same. The reservation which Senator Hitchcock found acceptable, and upon which Senator Lodge and the other bi-

Gen. Wood for Peace Treaty With Lodge Reservations on League of Nations

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—General Leonard Wood, replying today to the request of Senator William E. Borah for the views of Republican Presidential candidates on the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty, said that he believed "we should accept the League of Nations as modified and safeguarded by existing Lodge reservations." The reply, made public tonight, reads:

I believe that we should accept the League of Nations as modified and safeguarded by existing Lodge reservations—reservations that Americanize it and safeguard our traditional policies, reservations which leave America absolutely free and untrammeled to follow the will of her own people in all questions of foreign and domestic policy.

I, of course, at all times favor getting the views of the people of the country where it is practicable. However, in view of the fact that the people have clearly indicated—as I see it—that they are in favor of the treaty if our traditional policies, interests, and freedom of action are fully safeguarded, it seems unnecessary to delay this most important question for a general election in which their views could hardly be more decisive, expressed than they have already been.

With reference to your question as to my views on the foreign policy of this Government, I am in favor of and shall continue to be in favor of the well-established foreign policy of this Government which conserves and promotes the interests of our own country. I do not think this treaty with the reservations impairs that policy. It does not entangle us, it leaves us free to exercise our own judgment, it is temporary. If we choose to have it so, we can retire on two years' notice.

One aim of America's foreign policy has always been the promotion of the peace of the world. In order to accomplish this end her people must be free in any situation to stand for righteousness according to their judgment. As an important means to that end, instrumentalities should be created and developed by which, consistently with this freedom, the momentum of the other free and peace-loving nations of the world, acting concurrently with us, can be added to our efforts.

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETS IN LONDON

MEMBERS' TASKS ASSIGNED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—With complete absence of formality, the Council of the League of Nations began today in the Picture Gallery of St. James's Palace its first business session. Members of the press and diplomats of all nations attended as spectators of a great historic event, but Ambassador Davis was absent. He had explained to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that he would not be there unless he received special instructions from Washington, and they did not come.

The absence of the representative of the United States did not pass unnoticed. Arthur J. Balfour, in his speech welcoming the Council on behalf of the British Government, referred to it as "the one great blot" on the occasion. It was not, he went on, in the least desirable that he should enlarge on the events that had brought it about, but in Paris it had been arranged that the Council should consist of representatives of the five great powers and four other States, and now the symmetry of the plan has been marred.

"I am sure," he said, "that none of my friends in America will think I am doing wrong in expressing my personal regret that for the moment, at all events, we have not reached our complete number."

Léon Bourgeois, the French representative, said he also wished to add his expression of regret that there were around the table eight instead of nine representatives.

The council table was placed at one end of a long room in the palace hung with portraits of Kings and Queens of England. The portrait of Henry VIII. was just above the delegates, and at the other end of the room was an early portrait of Queen Victoria. Otherwise the gallery was severely plain. A light oak paneling ran all around it, and the walls were papered in green. A cheerful fire blazed on the big hearth, and the centre was occupied by chairs for the invited guests.

The members of the council sat in gilded chairs covered with red morocco at a table covered with red cloth, and each was provided with a little ink bottle of the familiar office type. Half an hour before noon the secretaries and diplomats began to arrive and form in little groups. The council members dropped in singly without ceremony, and M. Bourgeois and Mr. Balfour apparently had an animated discussion as to which should preside. Mr. Balfour won, and M. Bourgeois took the chair, with Mr. Balfour and Baron Matsui of Japan on his right and Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary General, and Signor Ferraris of Italy on his left.

Next to Signor Ferraris around the corner were Paul Hymans of Belgium and Count Quinones de Leon of Spain, and facing these at the other end of the table were Casteo da Cunha of Brazil and M. Kaki Amanos of Greece.

Mr. Balfour's brief speech of welcome, breaking in on the chatter of the spectators, opened the proceedings, and after it had been interpreted M. Bourgeois replied. He outlined the Agenda, which included the hearing of certain repre-

N. Y. LIFE RUSSIAN BUSINESS SEIZED

$30,000,000 RESERVE GONE

Assets and Liabilities Taken Over by Bolsheviki—No Loss to Americans, Says Kingsley.

The New York Life Insurance Company has written off its entire Russian business, with the permission of the State Superintendent of Insurance, as a result of the taking over of its Russian assets and liabilities by the Soviet Government. The action of the Soviets was taken more than a year ago, but because of uncertainty here as to the exact status of the insurance company's Russian business the definite closing out of the account was delayed until the annual report for the year 1919 was compiled. This report will be made public tomorrow.

Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, explained last night that the writing off of these assets and liabilities would entail no loss to Americans, or those of any nationality other than Russian. What has happened, he said, is simply that the Soviet Government, following its practice of nationalizing all industrial and financial enterprises in Bolshevist Russia, had assumed the company's Russian liabilities, composed almost exclusively of about $64,000,000 in outstanding life insurance policies, and had acquired control of the reserve fund, which the company was required under the old Russian Government to keep in that country and which amounted to something like $30,000,000, all of which was invested in Russian railroad bonds guaranteed by the Imperial Russian Government.

The moneys which the New York Life had invested in these Russian securities all was obtained as premium payments by Russian subjects who had taken out life insurance through the company's Russian agencies. The Russian law required the company to maintain a reserve against its policy obligations there and specified that this reserve should be invested in Russian bonds.

After the overthrow of the Czar's Government the insurance company continued to transact its regular business in Russia. It maintained this policy under the first revolutionary Government and as long as Ambassador Francis remained at Petrograd. When the Bolsheviki came into control and relations with the outside world were broken off, the company suspended writing new insurance and virtually withdrew from the whole Russian field. Now, because of the continued uncertainty of affairs, it has decided to write off the whole business.

So far as is known this is the first insurance company to take this action. Some of the great American industrial companies, notably the International Harvester Corporation, however, have written off some large losses on Russian business. Fiduciary institutions, though, have been hesitant to do this, as it is believed that ultimately order will come out of the present chaos and that money credits will be regained. A number of large American banks which maintained Russian branches at Petrograd, Moscow and elsewhere have been informed that these branches have been taken over and are being administered by the Soviets, but it is felt that ultimately they will be restored to their American owners.

If the Soviets are recognized by the rest of the world, or if some other Government acceptable to the world is established, it is confidently believed that business relations speedily will be resumed and that American companies which have been forced to withdraw since 1917 will again pursue their pre-war activities.

Idaho's Legislature Ratifies Suffrage, Making Thirtieth State to Accept It

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 11.—Idaho's Legislature in special session today ratified the woman's suffrage amendment to the National Constitution by large majorities in both houses.

In the Senate the vote was 29 to 6, with six members absent or not voting. The vote in the lower house was unanimous.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 11.—Woman suffrage was dodged by the Republican State Central Committee this afternoon, the meeting doing little beyond fixing upon March 23 and 24 as the dates for the State convention at New Haven to elect delegates to the Chicago meeting.

Primaries for State delegates will be held March 6, and Chairman J. Henry Roraback, whose faction dominated today's gathering, was authorized to select the presiding officer of the convention. An invitation, according to Roraback, is already on the way to Senator Brandegee.

$38,000,000 OUTLAY FOR PHONE SERVICE

Plans for Improvements This Year Are Outlined by Vice President McCulloh.

$2,000,000 PAY INCREASES

Seven Automatic Exchanges and Four New Central Office Units to be Built.

J. S. McCulloh, commercial Vice President of the New York Telephone Company, referring to complaints of inadequate telephone service in New York City, said yesterday that $38,000,000 will be spent by the company this year for new buildings, extension and enlargement of old ones, installation of new switchboards and other necessary apparatus, including seven automatic telephone exchanges. There also will be an increase in salaries of operators of about $2,000,000. Last year's increases amounted to $3,250,000. The salaries of employes in other departments also will be raised.

Mr. McCulloh said he had received hundreds of letters and telephone calls commending the company's preparations, outlined in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, to eliminate unnecessary calls in case the public failed to respond to an appeal for co-operation in handling the problem of telephone service. He reiterated that the company admitted the service was bad, gave the reasons for it, and said it was hoped the public would not make it necessary for the company to take extreme action.

By Aug. 1, 1920, said Mr. McCulloh, the company hoped to have cause for complaint eliminated. The increase during the influenza epidemic to 22 per cent. of the ordinary shortage of 15 per cent. in operators has seriously hampered any attempt to approach perfect service, he added.

Equipment Inadequate.

The equipment of the company, he explained, is inadequate to take care of the demands upon it. This condition, he said, was brought about by the war, as nearly everything that entered into material for telephone apparatus was such as had to be used in connection with war work and could not be had for the purposes of the telephone company. During the war the Government classified the commercial telephone as a non-essential industry and the company was unable to get supplies and materials necessary for the development of the plant. Then came the period in which the Government had charge of the company, and, Mr. McCulloh emphasized, nothing was done toward expansion to meet the growing demand for service.

The remedy for the situation now faced by the company, it is said, lies in the construction of plant equipment as rapidly as possible and in obtaining enough operators. The work of the latter has been made so attractive, he said, that he believed an adequate number would be forthcoming.

Of the plans for construction work for 1920, the official said:

"Five new buildings are in process of construction. We have six additions to buildings in existence in progress. We have fourteen new sites to be acquired during the year 1920, and building work must then be started on them. We have sixteen additions to existing buildings on property already owned to be started in 1920.

Four New Central Officers.

"We will have four new central office units in process of manufacture and installation. Additions to 115 existing central offices now ordered are in process of manufacture or installation. Five new central office units will be ordered during 1920. Additions to seventy-four central offices will be ordered during 1920. On one side of installing what is known popularly as the automatic telephone we have sixteen ordered and in process of manufacture or installation, seven to be ordered during 1920."

The total improvements for buildings, exchanges, &c., will cost the company $38,000,000 for the year, in the opinion of Mr. McCulloh, and in addition there will be another expenditure for acquiring rights of way, outside equipment, cable and other supplies, that will bring the total to at least $10,000,000 more.

There has been a net increase in operators since Jan. 1, 1919, of 3,400, Mr. McCulloh said, but 30 per cent. of the operators now at work have been on the switchboard only six months. Thirty-five thousand orders for telephone connections are waiting to be filled. In 1918, while the Government had the lines, a total of 20,964 new stations were added, Mr. McCulloh said, while last year a total of 83,907 new connections were made. This means that 12 per cent. of the demand for new stations were met in 1919.

Over 4,000,000 Calls Daily.

Speaking of the increase in the number of daily telephone calls, Mr. McCulloh said that before the war the

SNOW PUTS CITY AT MERCY OF FIRE

MACHINES STALL IN STREET

Drivers Use Sidewalks—16,000 Shovelers at Work, 100,000 Needed—Traffic Still Crippled

New York is in greater danger of a conflagration today because of the street blockades from stalled traffic than it has ever been before in its history, Fire Chief Kenlon said last night after fire apparatus had been brought to a standstill and then forced to use the sidewalks on the way to put out a fire at 321 Broadway.

The fire started soon after 7 o'clock in a five-story building which is being remodeled. Because the windows and doors were out strong drafts drove the blaze rapidly through the interior of the building and sent flames high into the air, threatening adjoining buildings. Three alarms were turned in and fifteen pieces of apparatus were finally assembled. The fire was kept from spreading. It was the second in a week in the same building.

Nearly every driver of fire apparatus had a story to tell of great difficulties in getting through the crosstown streets, where automobiles and trucks were hopelessly bogged in snow at frequent intervals. Two fire fighting machines were held up within a block of the fire house. Several drivers had to take the risk of steering their ponderous machines up on the sidewalk to avoid being completely blocked.

Chief Kenlon said it was lucky that the fire occurred on Broadway, as most of the route to be traveled by fire apparatus was along the longitudinal streets, which are in comparatively good shape. He said, however, that a big fire on the lower west side or the lower east side would give the Fire Department the greatest problem it had ever been forced to face—if it became necessary to concentrate a large amount of apparatus in narrow streets at some distance from Broadway on either side.

Chief Appeals to Business Men.

Chief Kenlon made an appeal to business men to reduce the amount of traffic on the streets and to avoid sending trucks over routes on which they are likely to be stalled in the snow. It would have been entirely hopeless, Chief Kenlon said, to have attempted to fight a fire in the Third Battalion District had one occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock last night. This district extends from Fourteenth to Canal Street and from West Broadway to the Bowery. Most of the streets in this district were from time to time blocked with complicated traffic jams, while a dense mass of vehicles poured through the spaces that were clear.

"The menace by fire in this city," said Chief Kenlon, "was never so great as it is today. If the merchants and others realized the danger of the loss of life and property, they would voluntarily withdraw all nonessential vehicles, and especially trucks, from the streets until the condition is safer. It is far worse today than it was after the blizzard of 1888, because of the number of wrecked and abandoned cars which from barriers on cross-streets."

In responding later in the evening to a fire at 145 Spring Street some of the apparatus had to make wide detours, using the sidewalk for two or three blocks at a stretch in approaching the fire, and members of several companies carried ladders, hose, hooks and axes for blocks because of obstacles which finally brought their machines to a stop.

Engine Company No. 55, one of several which had to double back on its trail to get near the fire, left the fire house at Mott and Elizabeth Streets, went south one block to Grand, west to Broadway, then north again to Broome. Brought to a stop by stalled vehicles on Broome, the crew deserted the truck and carried three lines of hoses to the fire.

Stalled at Mercer and Prince Streets, the men of Truck Company No. 30 carried their picks and hooks and a 235-foot ladder for three blocks to the blaze.

Truck Company No. 9 found the crew to several labyrinths of blockaded streets, but was brought to a stop by a blockade on Spring, near Broadway, whence the firemen carried a 125-foot ladder and hose for three blocks to the fire.

The lives of several persons working overtime on the seventh and eighth floors occupied by the L. & T. Waist Company, were endangered for a time by this fire, which raged in the plant

PRESIDENT TO PASS ON WAGE DEMANDS OF 2,000,000 WORKERS ON THE RAILROADS; HINES AND UNION LEADERS FAIL TO AGREE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 11.—It is not an exaggeration to state that the Netherlands dockers and transport workers' strike, now imminent, is awaited with grave concern by the Government, not so much owing to the 10,000 men involved or the serious effect to the whole of the Netherlands shipping and foreign and domestic trade, but because it is considered that it is prompted by a Communist movement, bringing the seeds of much-dreaded Bolshevism.

That they thus hope to realize the revolution which failed so hopelessly in November, 1918, the leaders of the Netherlands Trades Union League openly state. The Socialist organ Het Volk says that it is not a question of a guilder more or less, but who is to be master in the harbor—the traffic employer or the labor organization.

This strike would hit the most vital ports, affecting the whole commercial world, for important shipping. Many American and other foreign vessels are arriving constantly. The great ports of Amsterdam and Rotterdam have assumed more than their pre-war activity during the last six months, especially noticeable after the war stagnation.

The strike now stands called for Feb. 16.

MADRID, Feb. 10.—Premier Salazar and Minister of Public Works Gimeno have been informed by the Railwaymen's Federation that a strike will be called March 1 unless the federation's demand for higher wages and improvement of working conditions is granted.

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 10.—Two hundred thousand men employed in chemical factories, including 60,000 workmen in pharmaceutical plants, are on strike here. At Florence, also, the glass workers went on strike today following the rejection of their demand for higher wages.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—A general strike has been called throughout Bulgaria, according to a Budapest dispatch to The Central News, received by way of Geneva. The railways have ceased operations, the dispatch says, and only a few special trains are being run by the military to supply essential foods.

COMMONS OPPOSES NATIONALIZATION

Declares Nation Will Fight to the Death Any Attempt to Force Soviet System.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—William Brace, President of the South Wales Miners' Federation, speaking in the House of Commons in behalf of labor today, moved an amendent to the reply to the speech from the Throne delivered yesterday by King George, expressing regret for "the absence of any proposal to nationalize the coal mines of the country along lines recommended by the majority of the member of the Royal Commission on the Coal Industry, which was appointed to advise the Government as to the best mehods of reorganizing the industry."

Vernon Hartshorn, a member of the National Executive Committee of the Miners' Federation, warned the Government that if the motion was rejected it would be the miners' business to decide whether to demand a big wage increase in order to get their share of wages or take steps to compel the Government to utilize the surplus profits of the mines to buy out the shareholders.

Mr. Brace's amendment was defeated by a vote of 329 to 64.

Mr. Brace, who was the first speaker when the debate on the speech from the Throne was resumed today, contended that the miners had been led to suppose that the Government would accept the recommendations of the majority of the Coal Commission. He declared that nationalization would not mean bureaucratic control. The Government might delay nationalization but, he predicted, it could not prevent nationalization coming.

In outlining his scheme for nationalization, Mr. Brace said there would be a committee to manage each pit and a committee for each of the fourteen districts into which Great Britain would be divided. Finally, there would be a body with a President of Mines as Chairman, to supervise all the coalfields of the country. The miners, the officials, and the general public would be represented, and each would be in the minority.

Mr. Brace declared that his plan was not one of confiscation, but of fair purchase. The Government would give the shareholders bonds for their present shares. He asked that a tribunal be established to fix a fair price for such shares and he would favor even a generous price. He said coal would be sold to exporters under the nationalization system as freely as at present, with the proviso that the exporter divide with the district mining council all the profits over a shilling a ton.

In replying to some of the arguments advanced Premier Lloyd George argued that it would be impossible to have nationalization without bureaucracy. It would be useless, he said, to establish another system unless Mr. Brace was able to prove that it would be better than the existing system. He declared there was no guarantee that under the plan proposed by the member the present output would be increased. The Premier ridiculed Mr. Brace's idea that the miners would work harder for the State than for private interests.

DECIDE TO PASS HIGHER FARE BILL

Legislative Leaders Will Support Permissive Increase Measure for Cities.

ALLOWS COST PLUS PROFIT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—The enactment of legislation authorizing higher fares on traction lines in New York City at the present session is practically assured. The announcement that such action was contemplated came this afternoon soon after the Senate had confirmed the nomination of Lewis Nixon as Transit Commissioner for New York City.

It was inferred that the Republican leaders would first sound Governor Smith with a view to ascertaining whether he still holds to his attitude of last year, when he declined to become a party to any move to legalize fares in excess of the rates stipulated in franchises or contracts where such agreements existed as they do in New York City.

Should they find him still in that attitude a plan will be submitted empowering cities to increase trolley fares above the contract rate, on a cost of service basis. A measure already drafted embodying this plan will be introduced by J. Henry Walters, President pro tem. of the Senate, and will have the support of Speaker Sweet and his Republican followers in the Assembly.

Under the Walters plan the gross earnings of companies benefiting from the permissive increase would go into a fund which would be administered by a special commission appointed by the city administration.

If, after the cost of service and a fair profit had been paid, there should be an excess the commission would have power to reduce the fares. The commission would have access to all books and records of traction companies coming within the scope of the measure.

In explaining what his bill would do Senator Walters said tonight:

"My bill will provide, among other things, for the creation of a surplus fund which will reflect at the end of the year whether or not a traction company has been operated at a profit or loss. In a word, the measure will be a permissive one and it will be left to the cities whether or not they desire to enter into an agreement with the traction companies to carry out this plan. This is the plan now being followed in Cleveland. The trolley situation in many cities is admittedly acute. If the Public Service Commission is unable to afford any relief, something should be done by the Legislature to permit cities and traction companies to agree on some basis as to the cost plan."

The confirmation of the Nixon nomination drew forth an attack on the Commissioner by Senator Thompson of Niagara, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Service. He asserted Mr. Nixon was unfitted for the post, because of his announced advocacy of higher fares.

Another measure introduced today calls on the Board of Estimate to investigate the need of bus lines to relieve the traction situation, and gives the city the right to operate its own bus lines, prohibiting more than a five-cent fare.

DIRECTOR FIRM IN STAND

NO SIGN OF GENERAL STRIKE

OFFICIALS EXPECT DELAY

Think Even Maintenance Employes Will Decide to Await Wilson's Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, announced tonight that he had not been able to agree with representatives of the unions of railroad workers as to how the problem of increased wages should be disposed of, in view of the termination of Federal control on March 1, and that the whole matter would be placed at once before President Wilson.

It is understood that Mr. Hines refused practically all the wage demands made by the workers, holding that radical readjustment should be withheld until arguments could be considered by boards to be set up by legislation pending in Congress.

Efforts to reach an agreement did not end until after 6 o'clock this evening, when it was apparent there was no hope of a settlement without appeal to the President.

Expected to Sustain Hines.

The representatives of the railway workers were dissatisfied, but decided to refrain from bellicose talk, at least until they had heard what President Wilson might have to say. The consensus here is that the President will sustain Mr. Hines in practically all, if not all, of the decisions he has made and ask the workers to await consideration of their claims by the wage adjustment boards which it is proposed to create pending legislation.

Minor readjustments may be made at this time for the benefit of some classes of maintenance-of-way workers, who are now among those lowest paid, but even if these are granted they will no tbe far-reaching.

There is little talk heard tonight of a general strike of railway workers. W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen, who has been one of the most insistent for increased wages, said that as far as he knew no general strike was being considered at this time.

A committee of the maintenance-of-way men, who have ordered a strike for Feb. 17, came today from Detroit to meet Director General Hines. They will await word from the President before making any further statement.

Many Await Legislation.

It is believed that the President will ask the men to remain at work, and promise that he will endeavor to have the arbitration boards, provided for in pending legislation, created as soon as possible. The workers as a whole have not shown much enthusiasm over the proposed legislation, and several branches have been open in opposition to some of its features.

If the anti-strike proposals are kept out of the legislation, it is now felt here, the workers will accept Mr. Wilson's decision and wait at least until arbitration boards have been able to give their claims consideration.

It is thought very doubtful if the maintenance-of-way men will carry out their strike plans unless they find that they have the backing of other organizations, and especially the four brotherhoods. As the situation now stands, it would seem doubtful that the brotherhoods would give this support.

Attorney General Palmer, who held a long conference today with Mr. Hines, said that he was confident that the troubles would be ironed out. He refused to discuss the possibility of having to bring injunction proceedings at this time.

Mr. Hines's Attitude.

This official statement was issued by Mr. Hines:

"Since Feb. 3 the Director General has had frequent conferences with the chief executives of the railroad labor organizations for the purpose of devising means for disposing of the pending claims for wage increases. During these conferences the executives of the labor organizations have expressed their views with great ability and frankness.

"The Director General has not been able to agree with them as to how the problem should be disposed of, in view of the early termination of Federal control, and is now laying before the President the representations of the executives of the organizations, and also his own report, for the purpose of obtaining the President's decision in the premises.

"In any event, the conferences have been decidedly helpful in bringing out a clearer development as to the real issues involved and as to the character of evidence pertinent to those issues, and the discussion throughout has been characterized by courtesy as well as

Main Obstacle in Negotiations.

The main obstacle in all the negotiations with the railroad workers at this time has been the termination of Government control on March 1, the Railroad Administration being thereby estopped from entering into any wage agreement dependent upon operations under private control.

In his negotiations Mr. Hines has also called attention of the labor leaders to the fact that the Railroad Bill soon to be enacted frames machinery for consideration of the employes' grievances, and his earnest recommendation has been that the demands which the workers have formulated be submitted to the Wage Adjustment Board as soon as it is organized.

Government officials tonight would make no predictions as to the effect of the Government's decision on the rank and file of the workers, but were confident that it would not result in a general strike. The principal leaders among the union men had made no threats throughout the conferences and made none tonight.

General Strike Unlikely.

W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was the principal spokesman for the railroad men's representatives. He made his statement after he read the announcement from Director General Hines:

"What the procedure of our committees will be I am not in a position to say just now, but it is of course obvious that no action will be taken until President Wilson has been heard from. It is to be expected that the President will make known his position in the matter within a few days. Whether we will send a committee to the White House or await a summons from some one in authority at the executive offices, I do not know. Some of our members will remain here several days to keep in touch with the Director General, who will inform us what the President's desire may be in the premises."

"What will be the effect of the Government's decision, if sustained by President Wilson, upon the unions?" Mr. Lee was asked.

"That is difficult to answer," he replied. "But I want to say this, that any reports about the possibility of a general strike, or strike talk from any sources, except the reports from Detroit, about the maintenance of way employes are absolutely absurd. Concerning the strike reported ordered by the maintenance of way men I know nothing.

"As for myself, I have never delivered an ultimatum to the Director General, nor have I ever said that a strike was threatened. Neither has my organization been urging a strike."

Desires to Avert Trouble.

Officials stated that the temper of the union leaders had been indicative of a genuine desire to avert serious trouble if possible. Some have made it clear that they were having difficulty in holding the radicals in some unions who have been insisting on higher wages, even if it should be necessary to strike. They have succeeded thus far in averting hostilities.

Government officials, however, have not been overlooking the possibility of a general strike and have been preparing to meet it. What weapons they will use have not been disclosed. Reports have been circulated that the Government would proceed as it did in the coal strike, with an injunction suit which proved embarrassing and rather ineffective. On this subject Mr. Palmer said today:

"You know what the law is and what is possible under the law," said the Attorney General, "but you must not conclude simply because I have been conferring with the Director General that we have decided upon a course of action in case of a strike. I have every confidence that there will be no strike and that the whole trouble will be adjusted."

The strike of the maintenance-of-way men, set for Feb. 17, is the only strike of which the Railroad Administration has been officially informed, and their committee will confer with him tomorrow.

HOPE TO AVERT STRIKE.

Maintenance of Way Leaders See Chance in President's Action.

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—The Railroad Administration's decision to lay the wage controversy before President Wilson today had been anticipated at headquarters of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers here, and, according to President Allen C. Barker, the union holds some hope of averting the strike of more than 300,000 members called for Feb. 17.

It was at President Wilson's request, Mr. Barker pointed out, that strike plans formulated last August were held in abeyance while the Government tried to lower the cost of living. "Having failed in this," Mr. Barker stated, "the President now is bound to give us the relief we have demanded."

Plans for handling the strike were completed here today when the entire country was divided into fifteen districts and officers of the international union placed in charge of each district. General supervision will remain with the President here, while Vice President J. B. Malloy heading the Executive Committee, will remain in Washington until the strike becomes effective, in the hope that the walkout may be averted through negotiations with President Wilson.

FARMERS OPPOSE STRIKE.

Deny Any Group of Organized Workers Has Right to Walk Out.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Denial that any group of organized workers possesses an inherent right to strike is contained in a memorial to Congress, formulated today at a conference here of representatives of four large farmers' organizations, the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Cotton States Board and the Association of State Farmers' Union Presidents.

Pointing out that the city population of the country is dependent on the farmer for food and that interruption of this supply can be brought about through strikes of railroad or other transportation unions, the memorial says:

"Those who believe that labor has an inherent right to organize a strike believe that such organizations have a right to starve the people of the cities to death, on the one hand, and to destroy the property of the farmers on the other. No such right has ever existed and no such right exists now."

Submarines Rode Storm Safely.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 11.—Undamaged and with their crews in good condition, the submarine group, composed of the L-2, L-3, L-4 and L-11, reported missing at sea in the recent storm, steamed into Hampton Roads today. Lieutenant L. P. Warren, commander of the group, said that the submarines, although severely buffeted by the high winds and seas off the Bermuda coast, managed to stick together, but were soon separated from the Eagle, their mother boat.

SAYS I.R.T. MAY EARN $11,000,000 IN 1920

Corporation Counsel Burr brought out through witnesses for the city yesterday at the continuation of the Board of Estimate traction inquiry in City Hall that the estimated earnings of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company above rentals and operation expenses of the subway this year would be in excess of $11,000,000, that the revenue was increasing faster than the expenses, despite higher wages granted last Summer, and that the railroad was carrying more passengers on fewer trains than a year ago.

James L. Quackenbush, General Counsel for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, developed that if the system were broken up, following a default in the next payment of interest on the outstanding bonds, there was no legal way of preventing the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company from charging a 15-cent fare from the Battery to Harlem River.

Criticising some of the Interborough's accountancy methods, Dr. John Bauer, special technical adviser to the Corporation Counsel on traction questions, asserted that the railroad had improperly claimed as subway investments under contracts one and two, items totaling $40,217,700.75. He described these charges as follows:

Excess cost of Brooklyn extension, $11,604,469.86; Belmont and Queens Borough tunnel, $7,739,739.24; cost of acquiring lease on contract No. 1, $6,323,000; stock issued to August Belmont & Co., for services and property, $1,500,000; excessive claims for working capital requirements, $6,300,000; contractor's expense account, $740,317.11; unamortised discount and expense, $6,588,174.54.

The witness testified that under the accepted rules of accounting the company should have charged off the excess cost of the Brooklyn extension out of any surplus at hand, or should have written the amounts off its books in five years. Dr. Bauer said the charge of $7,750,739.24, which represented the loss on the Belmont tunnel project, had been credited in capital account as an asset, whereas, in his opinion, it represented simply an excess cost over $3,000,000, the amount of the contract, and had nothing to do with the subway investment.

"Watered Stock" Charged.

The witness declared that the acquisition of the lease on contract was an example of watered stock. The $6,323,000, he contended, represented capital stock issued by the I. R. T. merely for the contract without any direct monetary investment. Had the contract been acquired from one independent corporation to another and a cash consideration paid, then the contract could have been carried on the books as an asset, he said; but in this case, the Rapid Transit Construction Company and the organization of the Interborough, which took it over, were all one, Dr. Bauer pointed out.

"By taking on $6,323,000, the company simply in a roundabout way put on its books an unearned profit, because it expected to make further profits," he said. "It was a capitalization of future profits."

The witness did not believe the capital stock issued to August Belmont & Co. was a legitimate charge on investment, as, from the facts brought out at previous hearings, it seemed to represent a basis of distributing the expected profits from the subway. He thought the services rendered were "rather slender." The witness gave detailed reasons for his conclusions that the other claims were improper charges.

Dr. Bauer testified that the Interborough carried on its books as assets worthless items aggregating $50,100,846.45. Among the charges that made up this amount, as cited by the witness, were temporary advances to associated companies, $6,149,063; the capital stock of the Rapid Transit Construction Company, the par value of which he said was $6,000,000 but was carried on the books at $12,000,000, and the preferred stock of the Bronx Exposition, Inc., $50,000.

I. R. T. Methods Criticised.

Summing up, Dr. Bauer said that the Interborough should have paid off at least $40,000,000 during its profitable days, with the result that instead of having that amount and more in book figures the railroad would have that sum in actual cash or equivalent property.

At the morning session Mr. Quackenbush produced a statement showing that Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough, had received $96,306 from the company since 1908 for his various patents. Corporation Counsel Burr estimated that it would take nearly 2,000,000 nickels to make up this amount. An interesting discussion followed the offering in evidence of a list of the holders of the 4½ per cent. bonds of the Interborough Consolidated Corporation. There were 6,295 names on the list and the average holding was shown to be $9,017.

The $35,000,000 of stock of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, it was recalled, was deposited to secure the payment of these bonds. Controller Craig wanted a list of the Interborough Rapid Transit stockholders participating in the total dividends of 187½ per cent. who still held their securities. Mr. Quackenbush said the task of complying with this request was impossible, and suggested that if the board wanted to question certain stockholders like August Belmont, Cornelius Vanderbilt and E. J. Berwind he knew those gentlemen would be glad to testify.

Object of Higher Fare.

Gaining an admission from Mr. Quackenbush that the object of the application for an increased fare was to get real cash instead of carrying forward deficits, Controller Craig asked why the railroad did not ask its stockholders to take script, if it was purposed to declare a dividend, payable when the loss was realized in cash.

"The first difficulty about it is that the stockholders will say that this enterprise ought to be on a sound economic basis and not carry passengers at more than it cost at their expense," Mr. Quackenbush replied.

The bondholders who had put in $200,000,000 in the property would probably insist, he pointed out, if their interest was not forthcoming out of the fare, that they have possession of the property thereby wiping out the stockholders.

"Well, how would any injury result to the public if the bondholder took over the property and operated it, replacing Mr. Hedley?" Controller Craig asked.

"The public would suffer first, because the chances are that there would be a default on the Manhattan Elevated lease and the would take over the property and operate it and it would immediately break up the connection between the subways and the elevated railroad system," Mr. Quackenbush said.

"The next thing that would affect the public would be that the Manhattan Elevated, if they took their property back from the Interborough, would be free from their contract arrangements, and under their old rights could charge fifteen cents from the Battery to Harlem River and the public would have to pay a higher rate of fare, as they contend it is beyond the power of the Public Service Commission or this board to interfere."

Question of Crowded Trains.

Then followed a ten-minute colloquoy between Mr. Quackenbush and Mayor Hylan, Borough President Riegelman of Brooklyn and William J. Flynn, Commissioner of Public Works in the Bronx, all of whom told of overcrowded conditions in the different boroughs. Mayor Hylan asserted that the headway between trains in Brooklyn was not as good today as twenty years ago, when he ran a locomotive on the elevated railroad in that borough.

The name of Raymond F. Almirall, foreman of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, was injected into the hearing again yesterday when Corporation Counsel Burr tried to connect him with the firm of Almirall & Co., which had a contract with the Interborough. It was brought out that Mr. Almirall was not associated with the firm of which his brother Juan was a member.

Wood V. Loudoun, Deputy Commissioner of Accounts, testified that the Interborough was operating at a profit, the net income at present showing an increase of $864,000.

James M. Reed, an engineer in the employ of the city, said that the percentage of operation to income for last December as compared with the preceding year was 55.24. In 1918 the percentage was 50.26. Quoting the figures for a six months' period, he said the income of the railroad was increasing faster than the expenses.

Mr. Reed estimated that the total revenue of the Interborough for this year would be $20,696,800. Deducting the rentals, taxes and operations, the company would earn not less than $11,300,000, he believed.

The hearing will be resumed next Wednesday morning.

sentations by Switzerland concerning the conditions of her entry into the League, the appointment of the Saare Basin Commission and of the High Commissioner for Danzig, and then he asked the Council to vote Mr. Balfour into the chair.

The British representative then explained that the actual deliberations of the Council would take place in private, but would be announced at a public meeting, probably on Friday. Then the meeting broke up as informally as it had begun.

LONDON, Feb. 11 (Associated Press).—The Council of the League of Nations formally opened its meeting here at noon today.

The council intrusted to M. Bourgeois the framing of a plan for the organization of the permanent court of international justice provided for by Article XIV. of the League covenant, as well as consideration of the proposed list of international jurists to be invited to form a committee to prepare plans for the constitution of the court.

It charged Count Quinones de Leon, Spanish Ambassador to France, with consideration of the duties of the League relating to transit, ports, waterways and railways; Dr. da Cunha, Brazilian Ambassador to France, with the constitution of an international body for dealing with health problems, and Baron Keishiro Matsui, Japanese Ambassador to France, with the framing of the League's guarantee with reference to the Polish minority treaty.

There was little show of public interest in the meeting of the council, few sightseers standing in the palace court.

partisan conferees were about to agree when their conferences were interrupted, read, in part:

"The United States assumes no obligation to employ its military or naval forces or the economic boycott to preserve, &c."

The Lodge reservation states:

"The United States assumes no obligation to preserve," &c.

Many Call it War of Words.

In the view of many Senators, the controversy over Article X. is becoming a war about words and nothing more. Those hoping for ratification feel encouraged, they say, in the belief that the great majority of Senators will soon become convinced that nothing is to be gained by haggling over the construction of a sentence, and that the thing to do is to unite on one reservation or another.

These Senators pointed to President Wilson's letter as proof that the whole question had become one of wording. They quoted the President's statement that it was the form and not the substance of the reservation submitted to him by Senator Hitchcock to which he objected. It should not be impossible to satisfy the President, these Senators thought.

Among leading Republicans the position is taken that the President has weakened on Article X., and has made the fight a fight about words. Among Democratic leaders, however, a contrary view is held.

Senator Hitchcock said tonight that he did not agree with those who thought the President had weakened on the question of principle. While he thought it dangerous to try to interpret the President's letter to him, Mr. Hitchcock said it seemed clear that the President had not accepted or indicated his willingness to accept any reservation on Article X. except the purely interpretative one included in the Hitchcock reservations, all of which Mr. Wilson accepted.

Mr. Hitchcock said that in his opinion many proposals for compromise upon Article X. would be submitted and threshed out before enough votes were obtained to accept any. He will offer some of the Hitchcock reservations, perhaps all of them, when the treaty comes before the Senate next week.

According to Mr. Lodge's statement, which followed the breaking of the bi-partisan negotiations, the conferees had agreed to the changes proposed in reference to the preamble, domestic questions, Shantung, the appointment of United States representatives to the League and disarmament, while no agreement was reached on withdrawal, League expenses, treatment of nationals and voting power.

Accepting Mr. Lodge's statement, which is disputed by Senator Hitchcock, five of the amendments proposed today should receive Democratic support, while on four of them neither Republican nor Democratic support has been pledged. It was made plain also during the bi-partisan conferences that any reservations evolved there would be merely suggestions to the Senate and would bind nobody. But Senators construed the presentation of the amendments today by Mr. Lodge as an acceptance on his part, and through him by his supporters, of the amendments as the Republican program.

These proposed changes were mdae public at the end of the bi-partisan conferences. The modification of the preamble consisted in the elimination of the requirement for an exchange of notes between the United States and the principal allied powers, the latter to accept the reservations affirmatively before the ratification became binding.

The change on withdrawal, which is one point on which the Democratic and Republican versions of the proposals differ, was, according to Mr. Lodge, the substitution of Presidential action or joint Congressional action on withdrawal for the original provision regarding a concurrent resolution. The resolution presented today would meet the point raised by President Wilson in his letter to Senator Hitchcock regarding the veto power, by providing for joint action, thus giving the President an opportunity to veto and Congress a chance to record its will on withdrawal by a two-thirds vote.

New Voting Power Reservation.

Senators were greatly interested in the amendment on voting power proposed today by Mr. Lodge. It reads:

Until Part 1, being the covenant of the League of Nations, shall be so amended as to provide that the United States shall be entitled to cast a number of votes equal to that which any member of the league and its self-governing dominions, colonies or parts of empire, in the aggregate shall be entitled to cast, the United States assuming no obligation to be bound, except in cases where Congress has previously given its consent, by any election, decision, finding or report of the council or assembly in which any member of the league and its self-governing dominions, colonies or parts of empire in the aggregate have cast more than one vote.

The United States assumes no obligation to be bound by any decision, report or finding of the council or assembly arising out of any dispute between the United States and any member of the league if such member or any self-governing dominion, colony, empire or part of empire united with it politically has voted.

This does not meet the situation of which Lord Grey complained in his letter on the subject, Senators said. They expect much of the treaty discussion to centre around voting power because of the Grey letter and the irreconcilables' decision to revive, if possible, the Johnson amendments.

to show that the Bolshevist experiment of nationalization in Russia had failed and that the Bolsheviki had been obliged to resort to conscription of labor. This brought forth excited shouts of: "Thanks to your fighting."

Mr. Brace's scheme, the Premier contended, would discourage the development of the mining industry, while it was impossible to eliminate the speculative incentive except by confiscation, and that was a dangerous game to begin.

The Premier argued that what the Miners' Federation really wanted was full control of the coal industries, and that to hand them over thus would be disastrous to the community and a misfortune to the miners themselves.

Referring to the Government's proposed bill, the Premier insisted that the Government was not opposing a blank negative to nationalization by its constructive scheme for improving the mining industry.

Referring to the address of William Lunn, a Labor member, who had spoken previously, demanding the nationalization of all industries, the Premier declared that if any attempt were made to convince the country by violence it would be a challenge to the whole fabric of free government. On such an issue, declared the Premier, "we will fight him to the death."

Such action, declared Mr. Lloyd George, would not be a strike for wages and betterment of conditions of labor, but for the establishment of a Soviet, and that would mean the end of constitutional government.

"This nation has ever fought for liberty, and will fight for it again," Mr. Lloyd George exclaimed.

Loud and prolonged cheering followed.

daily average number was 2,000,000. On Jan. 1, 1919, the number was 3,200,000, while for Jan. 1, just passed, the number was 4,000,000. This number, he said, was increased by at least half a million on days during the influenza epidemic.

The Vice President said the service can and must be improved, and suggested the public should be asked to be as patient as possible under the circumstances. Co-operation by the public, he said, would go a long way toward solving the problem.

The City Commission of Newark yesterday adopted a resolution calling on City Counsel Jerome T. Congleton to go before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and complain of the telephone service. The resolution stated that if the service is not improved the franchise may be taken away from the company. J. L. Swayze, general counsel for the New York Telephone Company, appeared before the Public Utility Commission and asked for an informal hearing to state conditions affecting telephone interests. His statement covered the condition of the service, what is being done to overcome this condition and when relief may be expected.

ASK FARE RISE FOR QUEENS.

Barrett Tells Chamber of Commerce Lines May Collapse Without It.

Deputy Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett, speaking at a meeting of the members of the Queens Chamber of Commerce last night, said that the entire trolley service of Queens Borough would probably collapse unless the city administration permitted an increased fare. The Transit Committee of the Chamber will ask the Board of Estimate to increase the fare on all Queens lines.

William O. Wood, President and General Manager of the New York and Queens County Railroad, stated that his company was not earning operating expenses and that if the road was to continue operation some other means would have to be found than those produced by a 5-cent fare. George A. Stanley of the North Shore Traction Company told the meeting that operation would have ceased some time ago if many patrons had not indicated their willingness to pay a higher fare.

John W. Rapp, head of one of the largest manufacturing concerns in College Point, said that if the New York and Queens County Railroad suspended operation some of the concerns at College Point would have to shut down because the 3,000 employes in the factories would find it impossible to get to and from their work.

FRENCH BLAME US FOR CURRENCY ILLS

ENGLAND SHOWS REMEDIES

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The exchange problem and the depreciation of the franc seem to be the leading topics of conversation in Paris. Three months ago these subjects were much discussed by business men, and the press had begun to take an interest in them; now the man in the street is wrestling with their mysteries under the sudden stimulus of the knowledge that they are closely connected with the high cost of living. It is a peculiar trait of the French that they must always find a reason for any state of affairs, and that if that state of affairs be unpleasant the reason they find throws the blame upon some one else. Accordingly, the mass of public opinion has accepted the theory that the depreciation of the franc and the evils resulting from it are all the fault of the United States.

Last November it was the popular thing to say that the fall in the value of French money was due to "speculation," although no one seemed to know how the wicked work was being done. Now it is heartless America, gorged with the fruits of victory, but refusing aid to those who helped her win it, who is blamed. Superficially, of course, French public opinion is right. The appalling drop in French currency—over 50 per cent.—in the past three months is the logical outcome of America's refusal last March to continue to uphold European credit from that period. The decline in the value of the franc, which has grown and will go on growing unless checked, becomes more rapid in accordance with economic laws.

Why the Franc Is Depreciated.

But no French economist, or indeed, any Frenchman who knows anything about exchange, attributes blame to America for her action. They know that the causes of the decline of the franc go far deeper and are, indeed, identical with those which are pushing the greater part of Europe toward bankruptcy. For, if the franc is worth only 6½ cents, conditions are much worse in Germany, whose mark is under one cent, and worse still in Austria and Poland, whose units of value are now worth less than a third of a cent.

Briefly, these reasons are: (1) Currency inflation, (2) an adverse trade balance, (3) bad financial methods, and (4) holes in the national budgets due to failure to raise by taxation enough income to meet expenditure.

Points Nos. 1, 3 and 4 are closely connected. To take the case of France, the country has been forced by the exigencies of war to increase the proportion of paper money from 14,000,000,000 francs against a gold reserve of 3,000,000,000, against a gold reserve of 4,500,000,000; and at that the additional billion and a half gold reserve is not really a gain, as it was already in the country and did not come from the outside. The enormous disproportion is alone enough to depreciate the franc.

Add to it five years of cowardly finance, during which no real effort was made to pay for the gigantic war expenditures by taxation, and you can understand why even most of the anti-American French economists cannot blame the United States for declining to build a dam of dollars against the flood of French financial instability.

Although three-quarters of the total French war expenditure was spent in France—that is, that amount of money just changed hands without leaving the country—and although the other quarter spent outside must have been made up by allied—chiefly American—purchases of war supplies here, to say nothing of the huge sums spent by a million British and American soldiers on French soil, the French financial policy has been consistently of the worst hand-to-mouth order. "Money is needed," they said. "Well, let's have another loan. We really don't dare add the weight of new taxation to the already terrible burden of the war."

England is pointing the only true way to financial stability: First, by eliminating the adverse trade balance by suspension of imports from abroad and increasing her own exports, no matter what sacrifices have to be made; secondly, by balancing the budget by rigidly curtailing expenditures and effecting an onerous increase of taxation. In the success of the latter measure is to be seen the only immediate means of reducing currency inflation, namely, by a new loan whose proceeds will be devoted to withdrawing an equivalent amount of paper from circulation.

This idea is very popular here just now; but, unless, as seems unlikely, the interest on the loan can be met by taxation, what will be gained on swings will be lost on roundabouts, and the whole operation will be a mere waste of time.

FRENCH DIVIDED ON EXPORT ISSUE

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—M. Isaac, French Minister of Commerce, has just issued an appeal to all Presidents of Chambers of Commerce in the country, drawing their attention to the low rate of exchange, and urging them to encourage manufacture for export among their members.

"The only way to re-establish our credit and get the country out of its present embarrassment," he says, "is to increase export trade. Whatever the difficulties in the situation, our manufacturers and traders must not allow foreign markets to be taken by others, and should reserve a large part of their output to this end."

Some criticism of this circular is expressed in the French press, as it is pointed out that the first duty is to supply home markets. The consequence of export, it is stated, will be short supplies at home and a consequent rise in prices. What both manufacturers and the public demand is, rather, a limitation of imports. Figures of imports from the United States during the first eleven months of last year, which reached a total of 7,381,270,000 francs, have led to the suggestion that the importation of certain articles of luxury, such as jewels and tobacco, be absolutely prohibited. The editor of l'Intransigeant, writing on this subject, says tonight:

"Our Allies could not take offense if we put a prohibitive tariff on luxuries for a period of six months, for we would still have to buy from them enormous quantities of wheat, steel and machinery for the work of reconstruction."

Figures of imports during last year show, however, that what are called luxuries form only a small part of the total. Cotton and cloth accounted for 1,250,000,000 francs, meat cost 380,000,000 francs, iron and steel 923,000,000 francs. The largest payment for what can be called dispensable goods was 19,000,000 francs for pearls. France also bought automobiles from America at a cost of 424,000,000 francs, while she exported only 957,000 francs' worth.

The bill for gasoline of 462,000,000 francs has brought suggestions from several writers that, as the American exchange rate is so high, purchases ought to be confined as far as possible to Rumania, where the exchange is favorable.

Importers, too, are watching with interest developments of the proposal to trade and perhaps make peace with Russia. On the Paris Bourse it is said that opening of the Russian markets would lead to an immediate rise in the value of the franc, and this point of view has been urged on the Government in case peace proposals should come before the Premiers' meeting in London.

BRITAIN WELCOMES A FINANCE PARLEY

Chamberlain Says She Is Willing to Take Part if Invited by League or a Neutral.

WON'T INCREASE DEBT HERE

He Serves Notice That His Government Will Back No Scheme Involving That.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—J. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced today that the Government was willing to participate in an international financial conference if invited by one of the neutral nations or by the League of Nations, on being satisfied that the conference would assume a really representative character.

The announcement of Mr. Chamberlain was made in reply to a recent memorial from bankers and others.

He recalled the notification of the Government in November of the impossibility of its sharing in measures of relief unless assured of the co-operation of the United States, and said the movement in foreign exchange since November had emphasized that difficulty. Therefore, to avoid possible misconception, it was desired to point out that if the conference recommended a grant of credits in any form the Government would be unable to support any scheme involving an addition to its liabilities or expenditures in the United States.

Mr. Chamberlain agreed that the picture drawn by the authors of the memorial was not exaggerated. He declared that the attitude of the American Government was a matter of first importance, as it seemed doubtful whether America's participation could be attained and this must gravely affect the influence and utility of such a conference.

The Government, however, was unwilling to omit any act calculated to alleviate the situation and therefore would participate on the stipulated conditions.

The Government, Mr. Chamberlain continued, was impressed with the futility of attempting to solve the problem by new borrowing, either by internal or external loans, the cessation of which had been laid down as the cardinal feature of its policy, nor could the Government grant further advances to other countries.

"The Government feels the need of contributing to the reconstruction of Europe," Mr. Chamberlain added, "and is inclined to make certain exceptions to the general principle that loans from Government to Government should cease. The Government at the present moment is engaged in discussions with the Governments of Canada, the United States and France and certain other countries, including some which did not share in the war, with regard to the provision of Government credits to Austria and Poland for the supply of foodstuffs and raw materials sufficient to enable these countries to avert famine and restart their industrial life."

Planning to Trade Without Gold.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 11.—According to the Nieuwe Courant, the Netherlands Bank and other great Dutch financial interests are planning an international exchange of goods at Amsterdam with the object of relieving the necessity for the use of gold. Direct exchange of goods will be made, and it is hoped in this way to aid in the resuscitation of Europe's financial and commercial ability.

King George Fixes End-of-War Day.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Announcement was made today that Jan. 10 was the official date upon which the war with Germany terminated. This date was fixed by a royal order.

STOKER IS SENTENCED FOR IMPERILLING 1,160

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—How the safety of the Cunard liner Carmania was imperilled at sea by the rash act of a member of the crew was told in the Liverpool Police Court today, where John Rigby, a stoker, was charged with shutting off a check valve on the ship.

Counsel for the prosecution said that on the voyage from New York to Liverpool the Carmania had 1,160 people aboard. By his act the prisoner stopped the water from entering the boilers, with the result that there was danger of an explosion. His offense might have meant the loss of the ship and 1,160 people aboard, the counsel said.

The prisoner, who had no explanation to offer, was sent to prison for six months.

ALL LYNCHING A CRIME, HAYS TELLS NEGROES

Merits Excoriation of Every High-Minded Citizen, He Says Before League in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Lynching, under any circumstances or conditions, is a crime, Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, said in an address tonight at the convention of the Lincoln League of America, an organization of negro Republicans.

"Lynching is a crime against judgment and justice, reason and righteousness, an assault on our most sacred institutions and is an affront to the accumulated wisdom of past ages," he declared. "It is a condemnation of Christianity and merits the excoriation of every high-minded citizen."

AIRPLANE TO REPLACE TORPEDO DESTROYERS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11.—A Martin airplane, designed to supplant the torpedo boat destroyers, received an official trial here today and exceeded all requirements of the Navy Department.

The machine had a speed of 114 miles an hour and climbed 4,000 feet in six minutes. Specifications call for 105 miles an hour and an ascension of 4,000 feet in ten minutes.

SHOOTS POSTMISTRESS.

Former Employe at Carman Then Attempts Suicide.

Abeson then attempted suicide.

Mrs. Snyder's husband immediately gave his blood by transfusion to his wife, but her death is likely. Abeson, who sent two bullets into his own side, below the heart, will live. Abeson, 24, formerly ran the Carman store, in which was the post office, and Mrs. Snyder, 32, was his clerk. He sold the store, left town and married. His return was accompanied by the exclamation, "I love you," as he faced Mrs. Snyder, and the shooting followed.

What kind of University is CORNELL?

The College of Arts and Sciences
The College of Law
The Medical College
The Veterinary College
The College of Agriculture
The College of Architecture
The College of Civil Engineering, including Hydraulic and Sanitary Engineering
The College of Mechanical Engineering and Mechanic Arts, including Electrical, Industrial and Mining Engineering
The Graduate School

NINE men, one from each of these nine colleges, set down on an island together, could start a modern civilization.

For civilization is neither machines nor wealth, but the skill and the training and the spirit of men.

And the difference in the productive power of those two groups is the measure of Cornell's annual contribution to America.

Surely in a time when the world cries out for more production, $10,000,000 will be found to enable Cornell to go on.

of the Colonial Waist Company on the sixth floor. The fire, however, was confined to the sixth floor and the men and women workers were helped down fire-escapes by the firemen.

With the lapse of a week since the beginning of the series of storms that crippled surface traffic in the city streets conditions yesterday were far from normal. Neither street railway officials nor municipal authorities would predict when full relief would be given.

Railways Make Progress.

Some progress was made by the surface car lines in freeing trolley slots from ice and extending the limited service, but officials threw up their hands and exclaimed, "God knows," when asked regarding the time of full resumption of service.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Arnold B. MacStay concentrated large gangs of men on several main arteries of travel, but admitted that in spite of the high tension and the long hours of work by the limited force at his disposal many streets would not be cleared until "nature took a hand."

Commissioner MacStay had approximately 16,000 men at work on snow removal. He said he required from 50,000 to 100,000 men for the work. He will go before the Board of Estimate this week and ask for additional funds to cope with the situation.

It would take $5,000,0000 to remove the 33,000,000 square yards of snow scheduled for clearing, according to Mr. MacStay.

Although the city is paying laborers 50 cents an hour for removal work and the contractors are paying 75 cents an $1, the city has been able to enlist the services of 11,000 emergency men compared to the contractor's 2,439.

Public Must Be Patient.

The public will have to be patient at the slow removal of ashes, Mr. MacStay said, but he declared that the removal of garbage had not been stopped for one moment since the storm, despite great difficulties in loading refuse on lighters and transporting it to the dumps.

Traffic on Lafayette Street from Brooklyn Bridge to Astor Place was closed yesterday and gangs of men were set to work there. It is hoped that this main artery will be open for traffic this morning. The south side of Delancey Street was also closed and the snow and ice removed. The north side will be closed today. Mr. MacStay said that South Street, for its entire length, and West Street to Fourteenth Street were open to traffic. One of the ultimate results of the storm may be motor equipment for the Street Cleaning Department. The Commissioner is at work on the estimates.

To illustrate the unusual climatic conditions in the last series of storms, Mr. MacStay made public the following communication he had received from the Weather Bureau:

United States Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
New York, N. Y., Feb. 10, 1920.

Dear Sir: I have the honor to report that rain began about 3 A. M. of the 4th and ended 3:25 A. M.; sleet began about 3:25 A. M., ended 7:20 A. M.; snow began 7:20 A. M., ended 10:50 P. M.; sleet began 10:50 P. M., continued at midnight and ended 1:45 P. M. of the 5th; rain and snow began 1:45 P. M., ended 5:30 P. M.; sleet began 5:30 P. M., ended 10:30 P. M.; sleet and snow began 10:30 P. M., ended at 6 A. M. of the 6th; rain began 6 A. M., ended 7:20 A. M.; rain began 10:40 A. M., ended 2:25 P. M.; snow and sleet began 2:25 P. M., ended 5:30 P. M.; rain began 5:30 P. M., ended 6 P. M.; snow and sleet began 6 P. M., ended 9 P. M.; snow began 9 P. M., continued at midnight and ended at 7:15 A. M. of the 7th.

The total snowfall, midnight to midnight of the 4th, was 5.5 inches; 5th, 10.5 inches; 6th, 6.5 inches, and 7th, .3 inch. The precipitation of water equivalent of the snow, sleet and rain was on the 4th 1.22 inches; 5th, 1.20 inches; 6th, 1.45 inches, and the 7th, .02 inch. Very respectfully,

JAMES H. SCARR, Meteorologist.

Plea from Produce Men.

A committee of fruit and produce men, members of the Downtown League, appealed to Mr. MacStay to permit resumption of traffic on Washington Street, between Franklin Street and Park Place, to prevent the loss of food products not being moved. The committee received a promise that a large force of men would begin work in this section.

On Broadway New York Railways men continued work to open traffic north of Fiftieth Street and south of Houston Street. It was hoped to have service resumed today between Fifty-ninth Street and Murray Street.

Progress was made in clearing the Third Avenue lines. Cars ran on Amsterdam Avenue between 137th and 125th Streets to Third Avenue and as far south at Sixty-fifth Street. One track was opened to Forty-second Street. The Grand Street, Fifty-ninth Street and 125th Street crosstown lines were opened, it was reported.

Only a thaw can make the lines of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company normal again, according to General Manager H. Hobart Porter. Officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company said that all lines were open yesterday.

Agitators were held responsible for the defection of seventy-five men in Brooklyn, who threw down their shovels and demanded $1 an hour. The police dispersed them when they became threatening. Mr. MacStay said he had been called to the telephone and a voice demanded that he pay snow shovelers $1 an hour. The man said he was walking delegate of the "Snow Shovelers' Union," but refused his name and address.

A gasoline flame-throwing device was tested yesterday and will be used today. Street Cleaning officials were not optimistic regarding the possibility of accomplishing very much with the device, and firemen who observed it work thought it had several elements of danger. A "baby tank" used in the war will also be pressed into service today to "push" one of the large tractors operated by the Street Cleaning Department.

The first answer to Mayor Hylan's call for volunteers from the city departments to aid in snow removal came from Nicholas J. Hayes, Commissioner of Gas, Water, and Electricity, who offered his entire force of several hundred men for the work.

Gets $3,000 for Broken Back.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 11.—A jury in the Supreme Court at Goshen, Justice Tompkins presiding, has awarded a verdict of $3,000 to Frank J. McGowan, of near this city, against H. Valentine & Sons of Newark, N. J. About two years ago McGowan was crushed under an auto truck, sustaining a broken back, from which he has now recovered, to the amazement of the medical fraternity. The case has been tried four times during the last two years.

POLICE KILL MAN IN ERROR.

Special to The New York Times.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 11.—James Graham of Connellsville is dead and Edward Cohee, a member of the State Constabulary, is in the Cottage State Hospital here as the sequel of a gun battle in the streets of Connellsville. Graham and the State Trooper fell together outside the former's home in East Francis Avenue last night, riddled with bullets from a revolver duel over a case of mistaken identity.

Graham died shortly before noon today. Cohee was not expected to live, but rallied this morning and may recover.

Cohee and other State Constables mistook Graham for Charles Cramer, an alleged Dickerson Run bigamist and highway robber, and opened fire on him when he refused to throw up his hands upon command. Graham, thinking he was the victim of another of the recent daring local holdups, refused to comply and, brushing past the cordon of State Police, darted into his house. Still believing the Troopers a gang of holdup men, Graham snatched a revolver in the hall of his home, jumped outside and started toward the State Constables. He was met with fire from several guns and instantly replied. More than twenty shots were exchanged and Graham was hit seven times and Cohee four times.

TRIED FOR KILLING FRIEND.

Ex-Maine Deputy Sheriff Accused of Slaying Well-Known Guide.

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Feb. 11.—John A. Burke, former Deputy Sheriff and Tax Collector, was placed on trial in the Supreme Court here today for the murder of Nelson W. Bartley, his friend and business associate. More than one hundred witnesses from the backwoods community in which Bartley was an influential figure were prepared to testify.

Bartley, who was a guide and proprietor of the Moose River House at Jackman Plantation, near the Canadian border, disappeared on Oct. 15. He was last seen leaving his hotel with Burke in an automobile. An hour later Burke announced he had been shot by Bartley. He had a bullet wound in one leg.

Three days later Bartley's body was found in a liquor smuggler's cache in the woods with bullet wounds in the front and back of his head.

Poles and Czechs Clash in Teschen.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A clash between Polish and Czech sympathizers in Orlova, Teschen, is reported in a cablegram received today by the Czechoslovak Information Bureau. According to the dispatch, Polish soldiers in civilian clothes were sent into the plebiscite area to stir up the population, and last Sunday, carrying banners and accompanied by a band, entered Orlova. In the conflict which followed many citizens were wounded, the message said.

MADE RESERVATIONS ON WILSON'S POINTS

Paris Paper Tells of Allies' Meeting at Which the 14 Principles Were Accepted.

EXCEPTIONS ON FREE SEAS

Lloyd George Also Held Reparations Clauses to be Subject to Modification.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—How the Allies accepted President Wilson's fourteen points in connection with the armistice negotiations was revealed for the first time by the Echo de Paris today. It was at a meeting in the office of Stephen Pichon, Foreign Minister, on Nov. 3, 1918.

Previous meetings at Versailles had fixed the military conditions of an eventual armistice and the Government chiefs had met for final deliberation. David Lloyd George, the British Premier, the Echo de Paris says, turned to Colonel House and said:

"If we have thoroughly understood President Wilson's thought, the armistice negotiations which the American Government is disposed to open with Germany in concert with the allied powers are subordinated by the acceptance by the said powers of the principles and conditions of peace defined by the President on Jan. 8 and in his subsequent speeches. In a word, we must give our assent to the fourteen points."

Colonel House is reported to have answered that this was true. Premier Clemenceau broke in:

"As for the fourteen points, I have not read them yet. Let me know what they are."

Colonel House began, but after he had read the first point (relative to "open covenants of peace openly arrived at") M. Clemenceau exclaimed:

"That cannot be accepted! You cannot negotiate in the middle of a public street."

A. J. Balfour, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, explained that this point meant only the publication of results and not the steps by which they were reached. The French Premier answered:

"In that case, my objections fall to the ground."

The reading of the second point, in which Mr. Wilson declared in favor of "the freedom of the seas," brought a reservation from Premier Lloyd George, but the important third point (regarding the removal of economic barriers) and others went through quickly. Only when the seventh (regarding the evacuation and restoration of Belgium), the eighth (declaring that all French territory must be freed and restored and that the wrong done to France by Prussia in 1871 relative to Alsace-Lorraine must be righted) and the eleventh (in which the future status of Rumania, Serbia and Montenegro was considered) were read there were further reservations, as the matter of reparations entered into the situation.

After all the points had been read M. Clemenceau turned to Colonel House, saying:

"In case we reject the fourteen points, what would happen?"

"President Wilson would consider the conversations in which he has engaged with the Allies on the subject of the armistice as ended," was Colonel House's reply.

"Would he also consider as ended the conversations he began with the Germans in October?" asked the French Premier.

"I can give you no assurance of that," replied Colonel House.

At this decisive moment Premier Clemenceau pronounced the declarations "adopted." Premier Lloyd George hastened the rapid decision by saying:

OPPOSE SUFFRAGE IN SPAIN.

Bishops Denounce Move as Anti-Christian and Anti-Catholic.

MADRID, Feb. 10.—The small body of Spanish women who favor the franchise for their sex and who are arranging for the International Woman Suffrage Alliance Congress to be held here in May, are meeting with considerable opposition. It is believed they will find it difficult to find a hall in which to hold the congress.

The Bishop of Madrid, whose sanction takes priority over the Government, has not yet given his permission for the use of the Royal Opera House, and, according to one of the woman organizers, is not likely to give it. Other Bishops have denounced the movement, declaring it to be anti-Christian and anti-Roman Catholic.

Mr. Marks said he believed that 90 per cent. of the population in this city would favor daylight saving.

German Competition Is Talked Of, but Not Feared, So Long as Treaty Remains Unratified.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—France is preparing to deal in a businesslike way with the enormous influx of American visitors which is expected this season. Partly, she wants them to enjoy themselves and spend their money in France, and, partly, she is afraid that Germany will attract a good many.

Already it is stated that German tourist agencies have begun a campaign in favor of their country, though this can hardly be efficacious as long as the treaty remains unratified by America, and the French are preparing to outdo them in advertisement.

The Government is behind the move and is giving it active support. At the head of the national tourist office is Antoine Borrel, Under-Secretary of State for Public Works, and the arrangements are in his hands. His plans include the establishment of a central information office in Paris, with branches in New York, London, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires and almost every other capital city. At these tourists will get all the information they want as to what to see and how to see it before they leave home, and while on their journey.

At all the French ports other offices are being established. There, on landing, the tourist will be supplied free with more detailed information as to trains and excursions. Such offices are already operating at Bordeaux, St. Nazaire, Havre and Marseilles, and others are being started at Boulogne and Havre.

A subsidiary institution, the Compagnie Française de Tourism, has also been formed, which associates all the railway and steamboat lines and hotel and watering places companies interested in providing for tourists. This company will supply tickets at cost and conduct money transactions for tourists without charge.

The national office is paying special attention to organization trips to the front. New hotels under their supervision are being built at all of the most convenient and interesting centres, and service automobiles linking these up will be started in the Spring. From the Ministry of Beaux Arts the office has secured an arranged list of all the most interesting monuments, and two hundred sketches and descriptions which will form interesting souvenirs.

A loan of thirty million francs is now being asked from the Government to carry out these plans.

FRANKLIN SIMON & CO. PRESENT TEN MODELS IN WOMEN'S SPRING SUITS OF NAVY BLUE TRICOTINE.

No One Like Another in Smartness of Style; Each One Like the Other in Excellence of Workmanship; One More Remarkable Than Another at the Price.

THE Suit Shop has assembled this collection of suits, like a connoisseur who goes in quest of treasured art objects. Criticism, judgment, discrimination, exercised in the selection of every suit, makes this, like an art collection, inclusive only of the best, because it contains only the exclusive.

No type of woman has been overlooked; no taste has been ignored. Each suit is a treasure in tailored smartness—a specimen of excellence in workmanship.

There are suits that introduce the Spring version of the ripple flare—little ripple, less flare, but the effect of both, smartly slender. The new raglan shoulder is shown, a departure in favor of grace. The "pony back" suit is here, for the woman who allows no passing whim of fashion to compromise her love for the simple tailored suit. There are suits rich with embroidery, smart with simple pipings. And each is a miracle of perfect workmanship at the price.

WOOD FORCES SEEK SUPPORT OF LABOR

OHIO HIS, SAYS HARDING

Senator Declares He Expects to Go Into Republican Convention with 200 Votes.

Roused by the action of the officials of the American Federation of Labor in deciding to conduct an active campaign in the interest of labor this year, managers of Major Gen. Leonard Wood's campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination have begun a drive of their own and will try to round up as many labor organizations for their candidate as possible before the Republican Convention meets in June. Already considerable headway has been made among labor people in Pennsylvania, it was announced by Representative Norman J. Gould, Eastern manager of the Leonard Wood Campaign Committee.

F. B. Ross of Binghamton, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors, and E. F. Stover of Oneonta, of the Switchmen's Union, are working for General Wood in this State.

Former Representative Thomas W. Miller, who is assisting Mr. Gould as Eastern manager of the Wood campaign, returned from Washington and Indiana. "While in Washington," said Mr. Miller, "I conferred with Senator Moses of New Hampshire, Southern manager of the Wood campaign, and he said that sentiment for General Wood as the Republican nominee was getting stronger."

Mr. Miller also conferred with Representative Lufkin of Massachusetts, one of the original Wood men in New England, and within the next week he and Mr. Lufkin will make a trip through New England.

"In regard to Indiana," said Mr. Miller, "the prospect for General Wood could not be better. With Governor Goodrich out of the race General Wood undoubtedly leads the field in that State."

General Wood has no prospect of getting the votes of the forty-eihgt delegates from Ohio, except possibly as a second choice, Senator Warren G. Harding of that State declared. The Senator, who came to New York to address the Republican organization of Brooklyn, will return home today. At the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel he said last night that the Ohio delegation would be for him.

"How many votes will you receive in the convention?" Senator Harding was asked.

"Well," he replied with a laugh, "If I don't get at least 150 besides the 48 from my own State, I will feel terribly grieved."

Senator Harding said that, in his opinion, the League of Nations would not figure largely as a campaign issue, except as "an echo."

At the headquarters of Senator Hiram W. Johnson it was announced that former Governor Frank M. Byrne of South Dakota had taken charge of the Johnson campaign in that State, and that he was rapidly completing his organization of Johnson-for-President clubs.

At the headquarters of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler it was stated that John T. McNeill, a member of the Republican State Committee, had returned from a third tour of the State, with the information that Dr. Butler's candidacy was being so well received he was absolutely assured of the support of the New York State delegation. "His rivals," said Mr. McNeill, "have failed utterly to penetrate in the slightest degree the Butler strength up-State."

WOMEN POLITICIANS ANGRY.

Republican Leaders Fear Trouble as Result of Fight on Miss Hay.

The fight by opponents of Miss Mary Garrett Hay to defeat her as a candidate for delegate to the unofficial Republican State Convention at the unofficial primaries Tuesday night has developed ill-feeling among Republican women voters of the city and party leaders are expecting further trouble.

Miss Harriette E. Porritt, one of Miss Hay's opponents, came near being defeated as a delegate from the Twenty-first Assembly District because of the active part she took to uphold the cause of Senator Wadsworth. Miss Hay made her fight entirely upon Senator Wadsworth, whom she has refused to support for a renomination because of his attitude against woman suffrage. When Miss Hay's friends learned Miss Perritt was fighting Miss Hay, they rallied to the support of Miss Porritt's opponent, Miss Florence L. Ferdon, with the result that Miss Porritt defeated Miss Ferdon by only four votes.

It became known yesterday that friends of Nicholas Murray Butler put up candidates of their own with the hope of defeating the candidates favorable to Miss Hay.

EDWARDS CLUB IN NEBRASKA

State-Wide Movement to Back Governor for Presidency.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 11.—A State-wide club to back Governor Edwards for the Presidency has been formed in Nebraska, and a fight for the Nebraska delegation to the Democratic National Convention will be waged. Dinney MacMullen of Red Cloud has been elected President of the club and Thomas J. O'Connor of Omaha the Secretary. Headquarters of the club is in Omaha.

Directors for the campaign are circulating petitions in every Congressional district in the State, and the required number of signatures will be obtained before the end of the week. Secretary O'Connor says the campaign organization is to be formed in every county in Nebraska.

NO FARMER-LABOR PARTY.

But Head of Movement Suggests Action to Elect Congressmen.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The All-American Farmer-Labor Co-operative Congress will open a three-day session here tomorrow. The congress will devote itself to plans for direct trade, co-operative banking and credits, and to standardization of co-operative methods.

C. H. Gustafson, President of the commission; Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Dalton T. Clarke, President of the National Co-operative Association, will speak tomorrow.

Mr. Gustafson, in a statement tonight, denied that the conference contemplated formation of a third party.

"We have no intention of launching on the uncharted seas of a third-party movement," he said. "The organized farmer and organized labor forces uniting to secure a program of direct trading are not going to be inveigled into any will-o'-the-wisp politics. We have our feet on the ground and it good enough for us.

"We realise legislation is necessary to make our co-operative program 100 per cent. efficient. This may involve a program to secure the election of Congressmen and Senators committed to our co-operative program, and if so, we shall act strictly in a non-partisan way and not attempt a third-party movement."

SUIT REVEALS FORGERY.

Expert Convinced Banker His Signature Had Been Counterfeited.

Testimony given in the Supreme Court yesterday by Edward N. Breitung, banker, in a suit brought against his firm of E. N. Breitung & Co. by the banking firm of Lawrence Turnure & Co. to recover on a draft for $5,000 drawn by Mariano Herrera, payable in ninety days and alleged to have been accepted by the Breitung firm, reveals charges by the Breitung firm that Herrera, who committed suicide last Fall, about the time a number of drafts on Breitung & Co. became due, had forged the signature of Mr. Breitung purporting to show that he had accepted the drafts and that his firm would pay them. It was said yesterday in behalf of Breitung & Co. that it is not yet known how many of the alleged fraudulent drafts were issued.

Mr. Breitung said he did accept a number of the Herrera drafts, which were paid when they fell due, and that Herrera had deposited only about $10,000 with the firm, which fell far short of meeting the drafts.

Abraham Lincoln

THE SPIRIT of no other American touches our national life and the individual lives of our people as potently as does that of Abraham Lincoln.

It is well said that the greatness of Lincoln and his peculiar hold upon the sympathies and imaginations of men, lay not so much in the possession of unusual genius as in the remarkable combination and strength of ordinary qualities. Nowhere can we find so rare a blending of exalted idealism, honest courage, broad human kindliness and practical common sense.

Nowhere can we turn today more profitably for guidance in the vexing political and industrial problems confronting us than to the ideals of unselfish service and courageous faith in his fellow men, that made up the homely philosophy of this great American.

SAYS CARRANZISTAS LED NOGALES FIGHT

American Officer in Command Testifies Before the Fall Committee.

TWO GERMANS WERE KILLED

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Feb. 11.—The story of the battle fought on Aug. 27, 1918, at Nogales, Ariz., was told today to the Senate sub-committee which is investigating the Mexican situation. The narrator was Captain Frederick J. Herman of the 8th United States Cavalry, who as a temporary Lieutenant Colonel of Cavalry commanded the American troops in the fight.

The Carranza Government has maintained that the Mexicans who fought at Nogales were not soldiers, but rioting civilians. Captain Herman branded the statement as false, and in great detail told how the Mexicans, with whom, it is stated, some Germans fought, had prepared for the battle. They had dug trenches on both sides of the Mexican City of Nogales, which trenches commanded the American town. They had machine guns in the Mexican Customs House tower, while in nearly every doorway and window in the houses on the Mexican side of the international line (only a street separates Nogales, Mexico, from Nogales, Ariz.) the Mexicans opened fire simultaneously.

One of the houses from which the fire came, Captain Herman testified, was the home of Alvaro Obregon, now a prominent candidate for the Presidency of Mexico.

Among the Mexican dead found after the battle were two men on whose persons were papers showing they were Germans. They are believed to have been officers in the fight.

Captain Herman testified that among the Mexican snipers killed during the fight was the Mayor of the Mexico city of Nogales. He had his rifle in his hand when shot by one of the American troopers.

Captain Herman's testimony was the first official account of this fight, the most serious fought on the border during the period this country was at war with Germany, that has been given to the public. Up to this afternoon there had been no official contradiction of Carranza's statement that his own soldiers were not in the fight. Today Captain Herman testified:

"I am firmly convinced that the entire attack on Nogales was not only prearranged and premeditated, but that it was under the direct control and direction of the authorities of the Mexican Government."

Information had reached the American authorities from a former Mexican officer, Captain Herman said, that the Mexicans were being reinforced and that rifles, ammunition and even food supplies were being supplied to them from German sources. The Mexican said the Mexican soldiers had not been paid off in a long time and were desperate, and that the Mexican authorities had told them of the great wealth of loot that they would get on the American side of the border.

Captain Herman also told of thefts of horses and cattle by the Mexicans. On many occasions these animals, he said, were found in the possession of the Carranistas.

All of the other witnesses heard today were questioned in executive session. The public hearing will be resumed at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

FLETCHER OUT FEB. 15.

President Accepts Resignation of Envoy to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—President Wilson today accepted the resignation of Henry P. Fletcher as Ambassador to Mexico. Mr. Fletcher wrote the President sending his resignation several weeks ago, but his letter has not been made public.

Mr. Fletcher's resignation will become effective on Feb. 15, but it is understood that thus far the President has not selected his successor and it was doubted that any selection would be made in the immediate future. Mr. Fletcher has been stationed in Washington for nearly a year and during that time the affairs of the Embassy at Mexico City have been conducted by George Summerlin as Charge.

Maynard on 2,000-Mile Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Feb. 11.—Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the preacher- aviator, who won the 5,400-mile ocean-to-ocean air race, left here this morning on a 2,000-mile flight through the Southern States. He will drop circulars upon cities, and do other work in the interest of army recruiting. He began his flight in the De Havilland 4 which he used in his transcontinental flight. Sergeant William Kline, mechanician on that flight, will make part of the trip in the airplane and part by train. Sergeant Joseph Saxe will alternate with him.

$25,000 IN JEWELS STOLEN.

Dry Goods Merchant's House Is Robbed During Theatre Party.

For more than two weeks William A. Taylor and the members of his household at 18 East Sixty-ninth Street kept silent about the theft of about $25,000 worth of jewels so that the police of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station might hunt for the sneak thieves without what they thought might be the embarrassing effect of publicity.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor went to the theatre on the night of Jan. 24, and they believe that the thieves entered during their absence, while servants and other members of the household were in other parts of the dwelling. They discovered the loss on the morning of Jan. 25.

Although it had been reported that the thieves had remained in the house in hiding for several hours after they had rifled the jewel cases in Mrs. Taylor's bedroom, this theory is not accepted by members of the household, who believe that the thieves came and went quickly by way of the front door. Apparently they knew something about the layout of the house, and private detectives are at a loss to understand how they could have acquired this knowledge. They call it an "outside job."

Nixon's Chauffeur Fined.

Thomas Maloney, 31 years old, of 293 Lenox Avenue, who described himself as a chauffeur for Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $3 by Magistrate William A. Sweetser, in Essex Market Court yesterday, for using abusive language to Patrolman Harry Brown of the Mercer Street Station, who had reprimanded him for an alleged traffic violation in going "against the tide" at Houston Street, near the Bowery, yesterday. Maloney also was served with a summons to appear today before Magistrate Frederick B. House in the Traffic Court to answer a charge of violating a traffic regulation.

PROPOSES FEDERAL LIQUOR STATIONS

PERMITS ARE HELD BACK

Druggists, Hotels and Clubs Complain of Delay in Getting Authority to Handle.

Establishment of Government stations for the distribution of whisky on prescriptions from physicians is being advocated by United States Attorney Le Roy W. Ross of Brooklyn, following a conference yesterday with a committee of Brooklyn physicians. Mr. Ross already has taken the matter up with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Mr. Ross said the committee of Brooklyn physicians favored Government distributing stations, where a man holding a prescription issued by a duly registered physician could obtain a good grade of whisky at a reasonable price. Complaints have also been received by Mr. Ross from the public, newspapers and physicians of the manner in which many druggists have been dispensing whisky for medicinal purposes. Mr. Ross said that the complaints are of two classes, those which speak of excess charges, and those which condemn the quality of whisky sold. Mr. Ross said he believed the Government should do all in its power to relieve the situation.

"I appreciate, of course, that it would be impracticable to change the present law by providing that druggists should not sell whisky, but I believe that the establishment of a Government distributing station automatically would prevent this profiteering, and the selling of an inferior and possibly adulterated article," Mr. Ross said.

At the office of Charles R. O'Conner, Federal Prohibition Director, 28 West Twenty-third Street, yesterday afternoon, it was admitted that there was great delay in getting permits for handling whisky. The applications are filed with Mr. O'Conner's office and he in turn sends them to Washington with recommendations, and the permits are issued from there. Virtually all the large hotels, clubs, and restaurants in the city have made application to keep liquor and wine on hand for culinary purposes, but only one or two have received permits, it was said, and the others cannot make use of the liquor or wine until they get the permit.

Many permits for dealers and manufacturers are being held up, it was said, because there is a suspicion that the applicants want to evade the law. The greatest trouble, it was said, is with persons handling bay rum, as the formulas submitted show that they have not rendered it unfit for beverage purposes.

Hotels, restaurants and clubs entitled to handle liquor and wines for culinary purposes may replenish their stocks from time to time from wholesale dealers who have been licensed to handle it, and also such places which have no liquors on hand now may purchase it from the stores at any time they desire, providing they obtain the necessary certificate.

Druggists and physicians are also experiencing delay in obtaining permits. Health Commissioner Copeland said that in order to ascertain the length of time taken by the Federal Government to issue permits to physicians who desire to prescribe whisky for their patients he three weeks ago made application for a permit. Two weeks ago the application blank was returned with the notation that it was not filled out properly. He immediately filled out another and sent it, but as yet he has not obtained the permit.

Agents from the office of Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, began scouring the city in search of druggists about whom complaints have been made of overcharging for whisky for medicinal purposes.

At the office of James S. Shevlin, Federal supervising prohibition enforcement agent, it was said that the steamship Yarmouth of the Black Star Line, with her cargo of $5,000,000 worth of whisky and wine, would sail today for Havana, Cuba, having finished coaling.

BANS SUSPECTED OLIVES.

Department of Agriculture Believes Certain Lots Are Poisonous.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Telegraphic orders have been sent by the Department of Agriculture prohibiting the sale of canned olives from certain lots which department inspectors believe have caused recent deaths in various cities.

Investigation of the "poisoned olive" cases by the department's bureau of chemistry, is being conducted both from the factories on the Pacific Coast and from headquarters here, it was said today. Experts are being sent to every locality from which cases of sickness have been reported as resulting from the consumption of canned olives to trace the product to its origin.

Japan Belittles Korean Revolt.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Reports that an incursion of Korean insurgents, accompanied by an uprising on the part of the native population, had caused the Japanese troops to evacuate Northern Korea were denied in official dispatches received here today. The dispatches said that only weak posts in outlying districts had been overwhelmed, and that the Japanese military authorities were maintaining firm control of important points, especially along the railroad from Mukden. Military observers here were of the opinion that the insurgent movement, in all probability, would be confined to guerrilla warfare, along the frontier of Korea and China, which is very mountainous and sparsely inhabited.

HOME! What Does It Mean to You?

Does the word "home" mean more to you than the four walls of a noisy apartment or a house owned by some one else, and for which you are compelled to pay an ever-increasingly larger rental?

Home never will be home, until you own it. It is more desirable to own your home to-day than it ever was before. It is the only barrier between yourself and high rents. The shrewd man is living in his own home. Why not you?

AUDIENCE THRILLED BY PUCCINI TRIPTICH

NEW BARITONE IS HEARD

Puccini's "Tabarro," "Angelica" and "Schicchi" were sung at the Lexington last evening to an audience apathetic at each rise of curtain, uproarious at its fall. Not since Hammerstein began putting neglected operas on the map has a local performance so vividly recalled the days of the Manhattan opera war. Of the Chicago singers, only one was new, or at any rate unfamiliar to a New York audience; he was Carlo Galeffi, a baritone, who once had sung Jack Rance in "Fanciulla del West" with the late Boston Opera.

Mr. Galeffi disclosed last evening powers of voice, of physique, of personality, that made him a figure dominating and sinister in "Il Tabarro's" raw tragedy, never so truly the Grand Guignol thriller, nor so appallingly steeped in the mire of the Seine. He had distinguished help. Miss Gall was the boatman's wife, Mr. Johnson, the young lover—with one solo and a wonderful death choke—Mmes. Claessens and Darch, Messrs. Oliviero, Lazzari, Mojica, filling minor roles.

Coal-passers and their women, they were even so to the eye, as with gay saunterers on the Quai, they melted into the picture, a silver-lighted Whistler nocturne of Paris river low life and distant moon-lighted Notre Dame. Mr. Marinuzzi, with his singing actors and touring orchestra, contrived to keep the double murder scene at a pitch of suspense like the torture episode in "Tosca's" music, so acute that it hurt. There was applause deserving the name of "riot."

There was another sensation, again not wholly expected, when Rosa Raisa followed in "Suor Angelica," wherein the final miraculous vision of the nun's child could not be calmly beheld, even sending women weeping from the aisles. Miss Raisa took the drab music and passive rôle, deluged them with torrential sobs and some glorious singing, notably two pianissimo top notes, one at the footlights, after her hysterical scene, the other off-stage.

Such tones, in the mystic atmosphere created for the scene, atoned any less fortunate screams, and there were some; one fancies Duse and Mimi Aguglia sometimes forgot their parlor voices, and Raisa's Angelica was studied in their naturalistic school. There was again a demonstration which ran to ten curtain calls, shared by the star with Miss Van Gordon, a Browning's duchess every inch of her six feet.

Between 11 o'clock and midnight "Gianni Schicchi" was also staged, a farce to test of the intimacy of any house, and rattled off in the crisp style of the Gilbertians. Johnson and Evelyn Herbert were charming in the young lovers in duet. Galeffi, as hugely comic as he had been tragical, gave Schicchi's final speech in broken English. There were howls of delight—riot No. 3. It was a pity that a patriotic Italian claque—a present plague on both your houses—should have cheapened in the slightest degree the great and genuine triumph won by the Chicagoans last evening. Carrying coals to Newcastle is sport, indeed, when the coals are all afire.

John Drew Coming In 'The Cat-Bird'

John Drew will come to the Maxine Elliott Theatre in "The Cat-Bird," by Rupert Hughes, next Monday night, succeeding Maxine Elliott in "Trimmed in Scarlet."

MENGELBERG COMING HERE.

Will Share New Symphony Leadership with Bodanzky.

Willem Mengelberg, once a musical visitor to this country in 1905, and long famous as leader of the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam, Holland, has been secured for most of the season of 1920-21 to co-operate with Arthur Bodanzky in a joint leadership of the New Symphony Orchestra. The Dutch conductor's engagement was made necessary by the fact that Mr. Bodanzky's duties at the Metropolitan did not permit the newest of New York's orchestras to give as many concerts as were deemed requisite to maintaining a band of the high quality desired.

The New Symphony Board of Directors announced last night that a cable was received from Amsterdam bringing Mr. Mengelberg's acceptance of the terms offered. He will come to America for several months, beginning Jan. 1 next, and will remain through an augmented season, ending with a proposed festival of international scope in the Spring of 1921. Mr. Mengelberg, born at Utrecht in 1871, conducted at Lucerne in his twentieth year, at Amsterdam since 1895, and often as "guest" in all the European capitals.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Provincetown Players will offer a new bill tomorrow night in their theatre in Macdougal Street. On the program will be "Vote the New Moon," by Alfred Kreymborg; "Three Travelers Watch a Sunrise," by Wallace Stevens, and "Pie," by Lawrence Langner.

Irene Franklin will join the cast of "Always You" at the Lyric Theatre next Monday night. The piece will go on tour in another two weeks.

Madeline Delmar and Forrest Winant will play the principal roles in "The Unwanted One," which the Blaneys have placed in rehearsal.

Harry Lauder will give four performances at the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Feb. 19 and 20. He will not be seen in Manhattan this year.

Lionel Barrymore's first performance in "The Letter of the Law" at the Criterion Theatre will be given at a holiday matinee on Feb. 23.

The matinees of "Beyond the Horizon" will be given at the Criterion Theatre instead of the Morosco, beginning Feb. 24. Thereafter there will be four performances a week—Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

HOLIDAY, "FAUST" NEXT.

Metropolitan Matinee Feb. 23—"Carmen" Draws Crowd.

"Faust" will be the Metropolitan's special Washington's Birthday matinee on Monday week, Feb. 23, with Mmes. Farrar, Delaunois, Berat, Messrs. Martinelli, Rothier and Werrenrath, conduced by Albert Wolff. Mr. Werrenrath will make his first operatic appearance of the year on that occasion. Today the Broadway house is to give another holiday favorite, "Aida."

"Carmen," sung for the fifth time, pleased last evening's subscription audience, reinforced by many standing. A familiar cast included Mmes. Farrar, Sundelius, Mellish and Fornia. Messrs. Martinelli, Couzinou and Rothier, with Mr. Wolff again conducting. There was especial applause last night for the duet of Don José and Micaela, delightfully sung.

Elsie Ferguson Back to Stage Soon.

Elsie Ferguson, returning to the stage after about three years in the motion pictures, will be seen at the Morosco Theatre on Monday night, Feb. 23, in Arnold Bennett's comedy, "Sacred and Profane Love." Her supporting company will be headed by Jose Ruben.

TWO VIEWS OF RUSSIAN TRADE.

Mr. LLOYD GEORGE believes that Russia can be "saved by trade." He tells us that "commerce has a sobering influence." Bolshevism is a terribly bad thing, and he would have us understand that he yields to no one in his abhorrence of it; but though wicked it is not dangerous. "The "Bolsheviki cannot organize a powerful army." Their ferocity and cruelties can be ended by trading with these ferocious and cruel but unaggressive persons. Never should he think of recognizing the Bolsheviki, or even of going so far as to make peace with them "until assured that the "Bolsheviki have dropped the methods of barbarism in favor of civilized government." But Europe cannot be restored until "Russia's resources are put into circulation."

All this is important if true. The inability of the Bolsheviki to organize a powerful army is perhaps more apparent to Mr. LLOYD GEORGE than it is to the neighbors of Russia. He does not tell us how we are to be assured that the Bolsheviki have "dropped the methods of barbarism," unless we are to take their word for it; nor does he explain how we can trade with them without making peace. The Bolsheviki have pleasantly suggested that unless the war is formally and definitely ended any trading ships approaching their ports will have to be sunk on suspicion, and the States more immediately menaced by the Red army may be somewhat skeptical of the benefits of sending in supplies through Esthonian ports without any guarantee that they will not be used to support that army.

As to the desirability of getting Russian grain into the rest of Europe there will be no doubt; the possibility of doing so is another matter. Mr. ERIC SCAVENIUS, who was Danish Minister at Moscow during 1918, found that getting goods out of Bolshevist Russia was easier in theory than in practice. Before Russian wheat can be got out the mujik has to be convinced that he will get something better than Bolshevist paper money in exchange for it; and the mujik, it appears, is a hard person to convince. When he is convinced, his wheat cannot be got out of Russia without a complete reorganization of the railroads, broken down by the strain of war, revolution and mismanagement. The railroads, thinks Mr. SCAVENIUS, cannot be restored by the Bolsheviki; "Europe must send locomotives and "specialists, there must be frequent "and close relations between Russia "and the rest of Europe."

All this promises a good deal of benefit to the Bolsheviki, but postponement of any reciprocal benefit to Europe. And when the railroads are once more in good condition and supplied with plenty of rolling stock, the movements of the Red army against Poland and Rumania will be greatly facilitated. One can only hope that that army is really as harmless to the neighbors of Russia as it seems to Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, who is separated from it by a thousand miles, the Polish army and the British fleet.

REWRITING THE TREATY.

Lord CURZON, answering in Parliament the demand of Liberals and "liberals"—otherwise, radicals in disguise—for the revision of the Peace Treaty, admitted that something of the sort might be done. "If Ger"many shows a disposition faithfully "to carry out her obligations," he said, "we will do our best to aid her "in fulfilling them and resuming her "place among civilized communities." That is sound policy today as it was a year ago when the Treaty was being written; the whole theory of the Treaty of Versailles was that Germany was to be treated according to her performance. If she persisted in her old ways, her burden would be heavy; if she showed honest intention to reform, it would be lightened.

But that is not the idea of liberals in this country and England; nor is it the idea of the Germans. So far Germany has shown next to no disposition to carry out her obligations. She refuses surrender of the war criminals; she did her utmost within the limits of apparent safety to hamper and prejudice the plebiscites in Danish and Polish territory; nothing has been fulfilled where avoidance was possible. Germany signed the Treaty to escape worse things, and is refusing now to carry out her bargain. And our "liberals" greet each German refusal with a demand for more concession to German recalcitrance. If they have their way, we shall say to the Germans that if they show a disposition faithfully to carry out their obligations they will have to carry them out, but that if they refuse to make good on their promises we shall let them off without any attempt to collect damages or exact punishment. The morality of this is doubtless apparent to "liberal" reasoning, of whose strange processes we had so many illustrations during the war; but the average man is inclined to see in it a threat to punish honest repentance and an offer to reward persistence in the old German ways of thought.

MR. WILSON'S RECOVERY.

Dr. YOUNG of Johns Hopkins University, one of President WILSON'S physicians, gives a clear description of his illness and a gratifying account of his remarkable progress toward recovery and his present condition. There has been such a deal of prognosis and diagnosis by amateurs, gossips and politicians that Dr. YOUNG does a service to common sense and truth by his temperate and exact statement. The clot in a blood vessel, technically called cerebral thrombosis, impairs slightly the use of the President's left arm and leg; but there has been a steady if slow improvement in this respect, a constant improvement with no relapse. From the first there has been "a steady, unwavering tendency "toward resolution and complete ab"sorption" of the clot. The President was "organically sound," through and through, when Dr. YOUNG first saw him. Last week he was not only "organically sound," but "all "the organs were functioning in a "perfectly healthy manner."

Despite certain foolish reports, the country has never doubted that Mr. WILSON has maintained, from the beginning of his illness, his wonted intellectual strength and clearness. "At no time," says Dr. YOUNG, "was his "brain power or the extreme vigor "and lucidity of his mental processes "in the slightest degree abated." Senator FALL can speak from personal experience of that vigor and lucidity as he found them a few weeks ago. Mr. WILSON now "walks sturdily, "without assistance and without fa"tigue." His left arm gets better and better every day. His eyes are bright. His complexion is healthy. His weight is good. He has had a long rest and the best of care. He is better in many ways, Dr. YOUNG thinks, than before the illness. He works several hours a day, and more and more every day, on the public business. In fine, he "is able-minded and able-bodied." Only the weather and the solicitude of his doctors have kept him from appearing in public. His health has been constantly gaining. He is almost absolutely well physically. Mentally he is vigorous. This is good news for the country. The American people will deeply rejoice that Mr. WILSON is all right and will soon be out again.

Between the interviewed and interviewers, though care be taken in making and reporting statements, controversies often arise in good faith concerning what has been said by the person interviewed. Those who know Admiral SIMS will find it hard to believe that at his meeting with Representative CARTER GLASS in France the Admiral said that General PERSHING would be compelled to accept the armistice the Germans asked for, because the transport service behind the American lines had broken down. This is Mr. GLASS's version of what the Admiral told him, and Admiral SIMS says that it is incorrect; on the other hand, no one who knows CARTER GLASS will doubt that he believes there was no flaw in his report, made from written notes, of the Admiral's remarks. Both are men of veracity. It is Admiral SIMS's recollection, about which he is very positive, that he warned Mr. GLASS, also Representatives BYRNS and WHALEY, that they must not believe a story they would hear everywhere to the effect that because the American transport service had broken down General PERSHING would be obliged to assent to the armistice proposed by the enemy.

A very good friend of the United States, Major Gen. Sir FREDERICK MAURICE, asserts in his book, "The Last Four Months," that just before the armistice was signed communications and transport behind the allied lines from the sea to the Argonne were in a bad way, owing to the extraordinary rapidity with which the various armies had advanced week after week to close with the enemy, destroy his works and drive him back to the German frontier. The armistice was not premature, declares General MAURICE. In his opinion there was nothing else to do but to stop fighting and impose upon the enemy terms that would deprive him of the opportunity and power to continue the war.

The German armies, says General MAURICE, were "completely and decisively beaten in the field," and the line of their retreat was littered and choked with impediments; "the or"ganization of the services on which "they depended for their needs had "collapsed." What an opportunity for the allied armies to push on, complete the rout, and force the surrender of corps and divisions! But the allied troops could not move forward in masses because they had outstripped their motors carrying rations, equipment and ammunition, which had been left far behind. Describing the troubles of the British, General MAURICE, who was on the spot "shortly after the armistice," says: "If these were our difficulties, those "of the American Army were greater, "owing to the rapid growth of the "army during the latter half of the "year 1918." He adds details showing how the Americans, in spite of their energy and herculean labors, were hampered. The determination of the American soldier to get to the front and do more than his share of the fighting had complicated the situation.

Progress would have been slow anyway if rations and munitions had been up, for the retreating Germans had destroyed bridges, felled trees across the lines of advance and blown up crossroads, made chaos everywhere as they fell back, but the needful things for all the allied armies were often many miles in the rear. To make matters worse still, the Allies had to divide what rations they could get up with civilians who had little or nothing to eat. Says General MAURICE: "It is obvious that a great and rapid "advance to and across the Meuse "by the Belgian, British, French and "American armies, such as might "have brought about the complete "destruction of the German armies "and ended the war with a colossal "Sedan, was out of the question."

Thus was the war won. Will the staff officers of any allied army come forward to testify that its transport service was up and ready for the pursuit of the enemy? Not if General MAURICE is a painstaking historian, and he has that reputation.

THE BROOKLYN GAS INJUNCTION.

Three Federal Judges on the application of a Brooklyn company have granted an injunction against the enforcement of the statute limiting the price of gas to 80 cents per 1,000 feet. The fact is as interesting outside Brooklyn as within it. Brooklyn will resent the increased price of gas, but outside Brooklyn there will be a welcome for the establishment of the procedure in the case of a confiscatory rate fixed in whatever manner. The injunction is against State, city and county officials, because the rate is fixed by statute. If the confiscation were by the Public Service Commission—as in some fare cases—the injunction would be against them. If the confiscation were by franchise or contract—as in many other fare cases—there is an equality of argument for the like procedure in setting aside the confiscatory rule or law or franchise, provided only that the confiscation is proved. The Federal Constitution is the supreme law, and no man's property can be taken without due process.

The conflicting contentions in this case are interesting because of their bearings on the cases mentioned above as parallel. The Public Service Commission set up that the company had made profits for so many years that it could not plead hardship in this particular year. The Judges said that if the returns in other years were large they were lawful, and had no application to a plea that the company was not now earning a fair return on its property. The case turns on the present facts. The Public Service Commission set up that the company's capital was watered, including $12,050,000 of securities issued, not for property, but for intangibles such as good-will, franchises and rights in the streets. That is interesting, because the valuation of the railways of the nation as well as of the State depends upon the allowance for "going value" of a business, and an argument was made in favor of that principle by the Director of Valuation before the Interstate Commerce Commission within a few days. The company's answer was that it had lost money in 1919 and was losing $1,000 a day now. The Public Service Commission represented that the company did not come into court with clean hands, having furnished gas of lower quality than the statute allowed. The court found that the company's answer was sufficient, partly because of the impossibility of strict compliance with the law and partly because of patriotic co-operation with the Government in making gas in a manner which promoted the production of explosives.

The Public Service Commission has given notice of appeal in defense of its functions to fix rates, and will promptly challenge the rate to be fixed by the company and approved by the courts, probably an increase of a quarter dollar, and more than 25 per cent. on the statutory price. Mayor HYLAN has instructed the Corporation Counsel to take the case to the Federal Supreme Court, "so that the people's rights may be "protected and the law of the State "enforced." All will agree to that. The users of gas and the Public Service Commission are not final judges of these questions. The Mayor puts himself in the same class with Mr. GOMPERS in dissenting from judicial decisions and demanding that the courts shall be "democratized" as well as the factories where wages are earned. Of course, the company is no more a source of justice than the consumers of gas. But it is to be remarked that the company is a sufferer from the statute to which it is bowing, and to such an extent that if its losses are not stopped its service of the people must stop, according to its statements, which are supported by the court's action.

The price of gas must go up, regardless of the appeal, but the Public Service Commission claims the right to revise the rate to be named as above. In the interval, and until the result of the appeal is known, the company will collect the new rate, whatever it is and however fixed, and will file a bond to repay any overcharge. It was pleaded that, as in the case of the Consolidated Gas Company, there was no provision and no certainty that the refund would reach the hands of those who may die, or remove, or otherwise. In the Consolidated case it was a stupendous task to refund the $12,000,000 of rebates. It was necessary to examine 25,000,000 accounts and to make out 1,500,000 checks. It was worth while, for the consumers of gas saved $7,000,000 a year during the good years of the company before the bad years returned. The Brooklyn case is smaller but similar. It should be added that the statute is not itself condemned. It was carefully drawn, after legislative inquiry, and probably was just under the conditions of that time. But times change, and conditions with them. No rate can be fixed and always remain just and reasonable.

AMBASSADOR TO ITALY.

Mr. ROBERT UNDERWOOD JOHNSON, whom President WILSON is to appoint Ambassador to Italy, has admirable qualifications for that important post, now doubly important on account of certain international questions in controversy. Mr. JOHNSON has wide and accurate knowledge of public affairs. His sympathies are broad. He is at once a man of force and of tact. To the Italians he has long been eminently "sympathetic." To Italian authors his labors for international copyright have been grateful. He was made Cavaliere of the Order of the Crown of Italy nearly twenty-five years ago. As a distinguished poet and Italophile, as the author of the "Italian Rhapsody and Other Poems of Italy," and more particularly and especially as originator and Chairman of the American Poets' Ambulance in Italy in 1917, he is highly esteemed by Italian men and women of letters, journalists, statesmen, and the Italian people in general. It would have been difficult for Mr. WILSON to select a man better fitted for the place or so sure of a cordial welcome from the Italian Court and the Italian people.

LINCOLN AND AMERICANIZATION.

The most impressive scene in the play of "Abraham Lincoln," in the opinion of FRANKLIN K. LANE, is that in which LINCOLN stands silent before the mantel, looking at the map of the United States. "What did that map mean to him?" In the answer to this question he finds the message of the play.

The answer, as Mr. LANE reads it, puts a familiar thought in a new dress: "That a boy who is a rail"splitter can rise to the Presidency "of the United States and all its "power, by character and conscience "and a clear head and faithfulness." In LINCOLN'S day "there was no "other land upon the globe in which "that could have happened." Biographies in which rail-splitter, canal-boy and the like rose to the Presidency were once the delight of the young. By degrees they became the butt of cynic and satirist. Now they are a mode outworn. Why? Because they are no longer true to a great mass of American life. "One-quarter of the "boys that went in the first 1,600,000 "men in our army could not write a "letter home or read an order. That "is a humiliation and a disgrace to a "democracy." It indicates the true point of attack in the problem of Americanization. While any considerable portion of our citizens remain in the bondage of ignorance, America is no longer America.

That bondage is not to be broken by mere book learning. "You cannot "cram dogma and doctrine down the "throats of people, and ask them "to memorize LINCOLN'S Gettysburg "speech, and then declare them to be "Americans." Our spirit is nothing unless it infuses the mind, the heart, the character. Americanism cannot be taught; it must be lived. "We "want the people of the United States "to feel a love for America because "of what it has been and done, and "because of what it is—because of "the future possibilities of mankind "in this country."

Mr. LANE was speaking before the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry. He pointed out to them that on LINCOLN'S birthday they would have perhaps ten millions of people in their houses. "Can you "realize the influence for good that "you would be in strengthening the "morale of this nation, and in giving "it direction, if you would undertake "to do one simple thing—to make "them look at all questions of Amer"ica through LINCOLN'S eyes?" That is, in effect, the problem of Americanization. The present movement will succeed or fail in proportion as it is solved.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"Intoxicate" Is Hard to Define.

With the proposal of Assemblyman CUVILLIER that the legal limit of alcohol in beer and wine should be raised for this State to 2 or 3 per cent., on the assumption that such beverages are "indisputably non-intoxicating," there will be, doubtless, much sympathy. It would be well, however, for the sympathy to be of the sort that expresses approval, rather than that which goes with expectation, or even with hope. As a matter of fact, liquids containing that percentage of alcohol are not "indisputably non-intoxicating," as is proved by the frequency with which the assertion has been and is disputed whenever made. Whether those who make it or those who deny it are right is a question to which no conclusive answer—no answer that all will have to accept—can be made.

"Intoxicating" is a word the meaning of which is not fixed by any acknowledged definition, but varies according to the standards, opinions, beliefs and prejudices of those who use it. The thoroughgoing prohibitionists insist—and not without reason—that alcohol in any quantity, no matter how slight, produces effects which whoever chooses can call "intoxication"—a characteristic change in mental and physical functioning that can be and has been measured with instruments of precision. On the other hand, and also with reason, the foes of prohibition declare that "intoxication," as commonly understood, is something quite different—a condition popularly described by the unpleasant word "drunk."

Quantity Changes Quality.

Starting from different premises, the two groups never can reach like conclusions, and, if 3 or 4 per cent. beer were declared legal because "non-intoxicating," it would be, not because such beer does not "intoxicate," but because those holding that its effects are not intoxication happen at any given time or place to have the power to make that the law. And the same thing is true when and where the opposite contention prevails.

A fact usually or always forgotten by those who contend that alcohol in any quantity is intoxicating and harmful, and therefore properly to be prohibited, is this: Mere increase of amount sometimes, and not infrequently, produces, not an increase of the same effects, but a complete change in the effects. This is true of almost all the drugs used in medicine—in the dosage determined by clinical experience they are distinctly beneficial, but if more be taken the consequence is injurious or even fatal. No doctor would dream of abandoning the use of chloroform, or digitalis, or strychnine, or morphine because they are all "poisons," and very deadly ones. To refute a contention that alcohol comes in the same category would be difficult or impossible, and it would be hardly easier to prove that one-half of 1 per cent. by volume is the point at which its harmlessness or utility ceases.

The matter of personal idiosyncrasy also deserves more attention than it receives from the out-and-outers. They will have no hard task in proving that what anybody would admit is "intoxication" follows the drinking of 4 per cent. beer by some people. But it can also be proved that there are people for whom strawberries are poisonous and others eat tomatoes at their peril. Yet both of those fruits are good creatures and the harm they do is not counted against them.

Of Telephone Troubles and Remedies.

What the lawyers call a plea of confession and avoidance is entered by the telephone company to the numerous and fierce charges that it is now giving bad service. In this particular instance the plea is deserving of patient and kindly attention, for it is true, as Mr. MCCULLOH, the company's Vice President, says, that the present denunciations are based on comparison with a service approaching perfection and certainly better than that enjoyed at any time by the inhabitants of other countries.

It is a fair presumption that a company which did so well in the past is now doing what it can to overcome the obstacles which new conditions have created.

Mr. MCCULLOH gives warning that if the users of the telephone are not more considerate—if they do not shorten the length of their communications and cut down the number of them—it may be necessary to establish for a while a censorship of calls and to refuse connections except when asked for messages of real importance. That, truly, would be a desperate expedient, for the importance of a message is a question on which subscribers and operators would be sure to differ widely in innumerable instances, and while it would be easy to condemn some messages as non-essential—mere gossip and chatter, in other words—there is a twilight zone of broad expanse where values are distinctly personal.

Because a man or a woman wants to talk with a doctor by no means proves the need of haste and preferential treatment. At any rate, it does not always prove it, as many a bothered physician could testify if he chose—while on the other hand, "Central" might silence with scorn as merely sentimental expressions of affection that appreciably affected the course of several lives. An appeal to the public to be careful for the present about overloading the wires ought at least to help, but anything like a censorship would be close to intolerable. Also it would be impracticable.

"THE PATIENT LINCOLN."

His was the patience of a soul deep set,
Gripping the everlasting roots of Right,
Far-struck below the superficial sight
Of partial vision. Fast he held, nor let
The hidden strength of Justice, in whose might
He wrought for peace, and through the darkest night
Saw the clear issue—Wrong must pay its debt!
Still stands the Law. Nor Terror, starkly grim,
Nor specious Fallacy, to fools addressed,
Nor Folly's brood, usurping Freedom's nest,
Can foil the ancient certitude, nor dim
Its plain and fateful meaning, known to him
Whose patience was a passion, self-possessed.

FREDERICK MOXON.

JASTROW ASSAILS LODGE'S THEORIES

Psychologist Says That Briton's Teachings Menace Public's Mental Health.

ATTACKS SPIRIT FRAUDS

Wisconsin University Professor Will Follow Sir Oliver from City to City.

Attacking what he termed the "shady" methods of present-day Spiritualists, Professor Joseph Jastrow of the Department of Psychology of the University of Wisconsin criticised British scientists for spreading "unwise and unscientific" impressions among the American public, in an address at the Plaza Hotel yesterday.

Referring to Sir Oliver Lodge's lectures here, Professor Jastrow said:

"We are more than glad to welcome our brother scientists from England, but in the interest of public sanity we object to the spreading of unwise and unscientific impressions based upon the prestige of their exponents. Such impressions are a direct menace to the health of mind of the public, and I regard them as a social menace."

Professor Jastrow's lecture was entitled "The Revival of the Belief in Spirits," and was one of a series which he is delivering in answer to Sir Oliver Lodge. He began his speech with a brief history of the spiritualist movement in the United States and England. It began here, he said, in 1832, and there was a revival of the belief in 1885, a probable result of the founding in England of the Society for Psychical Research in 1882.

"Apparent violations of physical law," Professor Jastrow went on, "have always suggested the agency of spirits. The phenomena do not produce the belief, but are created by others in answer to a demand for proof of such a belief. Spiritualism has thus become nothing but the performance of conjuring tricks of the most ingenious kind."

The speaker then told of the coming to this country of the Italian medium, Eusapia Palladino, who had convinced scientists in Italy and England of the reality of table lifting by spirit hands.

"The way to discover how it was done," he said, "was to get under the table. We were not allowed to do this, but certain Columbia students were found who were willing to dress in black and disguise their faces. Creeping unobserved beneath the table of Mme. Palladino one of them saw that her shoes were provided with a broad leather flange. When she slipped under the table leg, and the table rose. Such things are matters not for the scientist or the psychologist but the detectives."

Discussing the nature of the evidence put forth by the spiritualists, Professor Jastrow said:

"A large amount of the evidence of mediums is not of the physical, but the psychic order. One of the common phenomena, dissociated consciousness, doesn't necessarily point to spiritualism at all. These mental states are mental disorders, with which the psychologist, not the physician, should deal. What makes this evidence acceptable to the public is the element of prestige. People will believe the indorsement of trained minds. But most of those who are supporting the spiritualist movement are not psychologists but physicists, and are not especially versed in these matters."

The speaker closed his lecture with an attack on Sir Oliver Lodge from "The Question," a book written by an English anthropologist, Sir Edward Cloud, in answer to Sir Oliver Lodge's "Raymond," in which the latter described his communications from his dead son, killed in the war. The quotation read in part:

"You lose a dear son in the holiest cause for which a man can die. You forthwith repair to a modern witch of Endor and publish a series of spurious communications, a large portion of which is misleading drivel, dragging into the mire whatever lofty conceptions of a spiritual world have been framed by mortals. Your maleficent influence gives impetus to the recrudescence of superstition."

Professor Jastrow told a reporter after his talk that he would follow Sir Oliver in his tour through the country, lecturing in certain cities a week or so after the British physicist had done so. The cities in which Professor Jastrow has arranged to speak are, so far, Toledo, where he will be on Feb. 28; Milwaukee, and Kansas City. He will repeat yesterday's lecture next Saturday morning in Genealogical Hall, 226 West Fifty-eighth Street, at 11 o'clock.

RENEW TOBACCO LOAN OFFER

Four United States Growers' Associations Still Seek French Monopoly.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Offering by four great tobacco growers' associations in the United States of an immediate loan of 60,000,000,000 francs in return for a concession involving a tobacco monopoly in France were made several months ago, but were rejected by Louis Klotz, then Minister of Finance, according to the Journal.

The proposition has been renewed since Frederick François-Marsal assumed the portfolio of finance, the newspaper asserts, and has been discussed by the present Cabinet. The newspaper says that the loan included 40,000,000,000 francs for the tobacco monopoly and 20,000,000,000 for a monopoly in the sale of matches.

Government experts estimate the profit from the sale of tobacco in France is about 2,000,000,000 francs a year. A match monopoly, it is held, would never be a paying venture.

The Journal says Hugh C. Wallace, American Ambassador, made unofficial representations to the French Government indorsing the monopoly proposition.

'PROFANITY' OR OTHERWISE?

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Few days go by that Representative Blanton of Texas does not figure in some incident. For the last week Mr. Blanton has been making a fight on the number of messengers employed by the Agricultural Department. While speaking on this subject today he exclaimed, "God Almighty!"

"I demand that the gentleman's words be taken down and the Speaker rule whether or not he spoke profanely," demanded Representative King of Illinois.

This dumfounded Mr. Blanton for a moment, but Mr. King insisted that the Speaker must rule on the use of the words. Laughter rose from both sides, and finally Mr. King withdrew his demand.

"Well," shouted the enraged Blanton, "to use a very common expression in West Texas, 'well—I'll be damned!'"

TO CONSIDER TEACHERS' PAY

Board of Education Refers Their Request to Committee.

The Board of Education, at its meeting yesterday, referred to its Committee of the Whole the subject of alleged shortage of teachers in the public schools. It also directed the committee to consider Mayor Hylan's suggestions regarding a change in the method of licensing teachers, and the request of the teachers for an increase in their salaries. The committee was also asked to watch and report on all bills at Albany affecting the salaries of teachers.

TRAVIS ASSAILS "REDS."

State Controller Calls Extravagance Another Menace to State.

Declaring Bolshevism and extravagance the "greatest menaces which confront New York State today," State Controller Eugene M. Travis urged the members of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, at their monthly meeting yesterday to awaken to the dangers. He said the "easy come, easy go" policy was responsible for the alarming increase of over 300 per cent. in the public expenses of the State in the last ten years.

"I understand," he said, "that if the five Socialist Assemblymen are reseated at Albany the first bill they will present will be a measure to remove the Controller. That is because I believe the Lusk Committee is doing a great work. At Albany we are in touch with every county throughout the State, and there are agents of the Controller's office in practically every town of any size, and I believe it is about time the people learn they are gravely menaced by the worst peril we have ever been called on to face. That danger is Bolshevism.

"Our extravagance will soon reach a point where, under the income tax law, the rate will be raised, and raised so high that it will seriously affect business. Under the tentative budget for this year the income tax rate may have to be increased as much as 100 per cent."

The Controller said the State Tax was expected to realize $50,000,000, but that the Department Statistician now estimates that $35,000,000 is the most that can be expected. More than $100,000 has been received in the New York office to date, representing about 21,000 returns.

The board unanimously adopted a resolution denouncing the freeing here on bail of persons brought to New York for deportation as radicals. The resolution urged that when evidence does not warrant deportation the persons be returned to the community from which they were brought.

STRIVES FOR 5% BEER.

Representative Vare Will Ask Congress to So Amend Dry Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Those members of Congress who feel that the manufacture of 5 per cent. beer and light wines should be permitted have not lost all hope. Representative Vare of Pennsylvania today announced his intention to have the enforcement act so amended during the next Congress that beverages indicated may be allowed.

"I voted against the adoption of the prohibition amendment," said Mr. Vare. "I also voted against the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement act, fixing the alcoholic content of beverages at one half of one per cent. maximum.

"Since this measure became effective I have conferred with people of all classes throughout Philadelphia, including many church workers, who feel that the working people are entitled to the right of using beer and making and drinking light wines.

"The Supreme Court has ruled that Congress has the right to fix the alcoholic content of beverages at whatever percentage it deems fit. This being the case I feel that permission to manufacture and use 5 per cent. beer and light wines would go far to relieve much of the present industrial unrest.

"It is my intention to do all in my power to have the next Congress adopt such a course."

PLANS NEW LIBERTY STATUE

MacMonnies Outlines His Ideas for American Memorial in France.

Frederick W. MacMonnies yesterday told of his ideas for the design of the great statue which an American committee purposes to give to France in commemoration of the French victory at the Marne in 1914. The American committee has already started its work of gathering the fund of $250,000, and Mr. MacMonnies is forming the tentative designs in his studio at 218 East Forty-first Street.

"The figure I expect to use is of Liberty in distress," said the sculptor. "It will be the sister of our Liberty in the harbor here. It will be as though the Statue of Liberty had been desecrated and attacked; it will be as though the enemies of civilization had tried to throw her down, but she stands, even in her agony, still resisting. Liberty protesting against invasion. Liberty resisting. Liberty triumphant at last!

"Around the central figure I shall block out the reinforcing figures with which to support the centre, keeping the whole in the shape of a pyramid. England, a young man, perhaps, with sword drawn; Belgium, a violated girl; France, a mother—all round the central figure of strength and triumph passing through the storm.

"The statue, I hope, will convey the whole story from beginning to end—the attack, the resistance, the struggle, the desperation when the German Army was at the gates of Paris, and then the dawn of victory, peace and liberty again."

The group, according to Mr. MacMonnies, will be about sixty feet in height.

CINCINNATI CENSUS FIRST.

Returns from New York and Other Cities Also Nearly Complete.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Cincinnati was the first city to complete its fourteenth decennial census enumeration, it was announced today at the Census Bureau. The last portfolio was turned in on Feb. 9, but it probably will be two weeks before the census can be checked and the final total announced.

The District of Columbia completed its count today, and the announcement of its population is expected within two weeks.

Cleveland, Chicago, New York and a number of smaller cities have sent in nearly all of their returns, and officials said a rechecking today might disclose that a number of other cities had completed their work.

Announcement of the result of the population count of the various cities will be made in the order in which their completed returns are received, it is said at the bureau. It is expected to be possible to announce the population of the country by October.

DEFENDS PRE-WAR POLICY.

Haldane Says Germany Was Warned Against Attack on France.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Lord Haldane, former Secretary of State for War, who has been strongly criticised for his alleged pre-war leaning toward Germany, said, in speaking last night at a Cambridge University debate on the pre-war policy of the Liberals, that if he had tried to persuade the Germans that Great Britain was not jealous of them he was not sorry. The people of England, Lord Haldane declared, did not understand the widespread belief in Germany that the British wanted to ring them around.

The Government had told Germany in the strongest language diplomacy allowed that if she attacked France she must not reckon on British neutrality, said the speaker. The great purpose, he declared, was to obviate war until Great Britain was able to sustain its burdens. In the main he was proud of the record of the Liberal Government.

PATTEN DEFENDS MAIL SERVICE HERE

FEW COMPLAINTS TO HIM

Details Given of 2,229 Instances of Delay in 7,900 Test Letters Sent Out.

When the Merchants' Association sent a letter to Senator Charles E. Townsend, Chairman of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, requesting a Congressional investigation of the Post Office Department for delays, thefts and the curtailment of service, it left its honesty open to impugnment, in the opinion of Postmaster Thomas G. Patten, especially as regards its complaints of New York City service. Mr. Patten said yesterday that two months ago the association agreed to send all complaints to him and that within that time not more than twenty-five or thirty complaints had been received.

The association made public yesterday the recapitulation of the 7,900 pieces of mail on which time was computed. These figures were based upon test letters sent out from hundreds of cities in May and June of last year. These are the figures:

Total pieces on which time was computed	7,900
Total pieces delayed	2,229
Delayed at destination	1,067
Delayed at New York City	1,162
Delayed 1 to 2 hours	914
2 to 4 hours	473
4 to 8 hours	290
8 to 12 hours	84
12 to 24 hours	387
24 to 36 hours	81
36 to 48 hours	33
Over 48 hours	12
Total	2,229

Postmaster Patten declared that the New York Post Office was giving a maximum of service and that there was very little cause for complaint.

"If there are definite charges made against the Post Office here they should be made to me so that anything wrong could be promptly remedied," said Mr. Patten. "If the association was honest it would have come to me when it got results of its test letters. Two months ago the association agreed to send postal complaints it received to me. Since then I have not received more than twenty-five or thirty complaints.

"The suspension of the pneumatic tube service has not made the slightest material change in the delivery of mails. It may, however, have affected special delivery mail. It must not be overlooked that the tubes can only carry a certain percentage of the mails.

"The mail service in this city has stood up well during the storm when other facilities broke down. This good result was brought about because of the faithfulness of the men, many of whom did not spare themselves, but worked hard and long hours that mail should be received and delivered on time. These men deserve praise.

"A Senatorial investigation will not apply an immediate remedy for what may be wrong. Faults here should be investigated by the New York Post Office. A Senatorial investigation will take at least six months. Before it is completed Congress will have adjourned and we will have a Presidential and a Congressional election, and the association knows it."

Record-Breaking Prices Paid for Arthur D. Ficke Collection.

Returns for the sale of Japanese color prints of the collection of Arthur Davison Ficke, author of several books on Japanese art, which closed at the American Art Galleries last evening, were $62,497 for 901 numbers. It was the biggest and most important sale of Japanese prints ever held in this country and probably in any other and brought out all the big Japanese print collectors as buyers. Individual prices and the collective returns were record breaking. The returns for the sale yesterday afternoon were $5,622 and for the evening $7,440.

"The Bow Moon," No. 725, by Hiroshige, considered by Mr. Ficke the finest print of that artist, a superb impression, wholly uncut and in brilliant, flawless condition, brought the highest price of the day, going to Sir Edmund Walker for $475. Howard Mansfield, Treasurer of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, one of the biggest print collectors of the country, paid the second highest price of the day—$310—for No. 720, a triptych by Hiroshige, a print of brilliant condition and wonderful quality, "Two Figures in the Snow." This is one of the finest of the Hiroshige landscape and figure prints, Kunisada collaborating in the figures.

Among the other numbers bringing the higher prices of the day were Nos. 597 and 598, Hiroshige, "Tamagawa Series: Moonlight at Kinuta," and "Mountain and Sea as Wrestlers Series: Snow at Bizen," which went to Mr. Mansfield for $135 and $105, respectively; No. 714, "Mochizuki, 26," one of the "Sixty-nine Posting Station Views," went to J. D. Metzgar for $130; a triptych, No. 721, "The Naruto Whirlpool," went to K. Matsuki for $250; No. 737, "Sparrow and Bamboo," went to Seaman, agent, for $140; No. 738, "Hojiro Bird and Camellias," to Matsuki for $170. For No. 740, "Two Green Birds and Hydrangeas," Seaman, agent, paid $160; a large panel, "The Kiso Snow Gorge," No. 763, went to M. T. Garland for $210, starting at a $100 bid; No. 812, "Seki, 48," went to K. Oshima for $145, and M. T. Garland paid $180 for No. 897, a superb copy of one of Hiroshige's masterpieces, "Eagle Above the Snowy Plain."

SOCIETY SEEKING MARDI GRAS QUEEN

RUMMAGE SALES PLANNED

First Lenten Benefit in Aid of the Babies' Ward of the Post-Graduate Hospital.

The formal social season in New York, which has been in full swing since the middle of November, will wind up brilliantly next Tuesday. The next day is Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, when the season of penitence is supposed to begin.

By that time a large representation of society will have gone South, where gayeties run on in spite of the canonical tenets, and flying boats make quick trips to Cuba.

According to the social calendar, it looks as if the New Yorkers who stay at home intend to observe Lent. Very few entertainments have been announced so far for the early part of the period of forty days. Lenten sewing classes have been organized, and will meet weekly at private residences. Rummage sales for charity are also planned for the first week of Lent, one to be held at the Carry On Tea Room on Fifth Avenue.

This will be the first rummage sale on the avenue this season, and will run for three days, beginning Shrove Tuesday, for the benefit of the Babies' Wards of the Post-Graduate Hospital, sponsored by young women prominent in society.

Mardi Gras will be largely celebrated the first of the week, the most important event being the Mardi Gras Ball to be held at the Ritz-Carlton, Tuesday night. This promises to be a brilliant function, but the committee in charge is having some difficulty in finding a queen. Yesterday it was announced that Miss Adelaide Kip Rhinelander, a débutante of this season, had been chosen for the queen. Later it was learned that Miss Rhinelander had made plans to go with her relatives to California, and the carnival is now without a queen.

CROWDS AT PALM BEACH.

Hotel Rooms All Taken—Big Sailfish Catches Reported.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11.—The biggest crowd in the history of the resort is now here and at an earlier date than that at which the hotels ever filled up before. Tonight there is not a room to be had in the entire community.

Sailfish, the rarest as well as the sportiest of those caught in these waters, are now running. David Wagstaff the other day brought in seven, which is said to be a record. Today three were landed, one each by Josiah Cesdon and Barclay Warburton, J. Leonard Replogle and John C. King, and Florens Ziegfeld and Irving Berlin, who went out in pairs in boats. They reported seeing a large school of them.

A reason advanced for the fish being here in large numbers this season is the opening of the new inlet connecting Lake Worth with the sea just north of the estate of Mrs. Charles I. Cragin. Boats drawing seven feet of water can now enter the lake here. Yacht owners with deep-draft boats formerly had to continue south to Miami before getting inside.

Julius Remensnyder. A reception and dance followed the ceremony at the Hotel St. Regis. Mr. and Mrs. Weltzien will spend their honeymoon in the South.

Marbury. Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford will leave immediately for the former's home at Allamuchy, N. J. Mr. Rutherford's first wife was Miss Alice Morton, daughter of former Vice President and Mrs. Levi P. Morton.

Gaiser-Bister.

Maria Cathrin Bister, daughter of John Bister, a wealthy manufacturer of 912 Broadway, Manhattan, was married this afternoon at Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, Mamaroneck, to Frederick Robert Gaiser of Meriden, Conn.

Lowell Thomas Returns.

Lowell Thomas, the associate editor of Asia, who went through the Palestine campaign with General Allenby, returned yesterday from London on the Nieuw Amsterdam, where he has been lecturing for six months at Covent Garden Theatre and later at the Albert Hall. He said that he intended to spend a month lecturing in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities and would then return to London to make a tour of the British Isles.

SLASHED FUTURIST CANVAS.

Paris Artist Says Picture Was Too Much for His Nerves.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The eleventh salon of the independent artists at the Grand Palais in the Champ Elysees has been the scene of a terrible artistic tragedy. There all the disciples of the very latest schools of art are exhibiting their latest creations. Some are good, for French art can rise above its craziest theories. But some are of so wonderful design that none but their authors can ever hope fully to understand them.

Before one of these a visitor stopped to admire or to wonder. He was an artist himself, by name Delivigne, and for long he stood and gazed. Suddenly attendants and visitors saw him pull a knife from his pocket. With two forceful sweeps he cut the canvas from the frame and shouted for joy.

A rush was made at the committer of this dreadful outrage. Without waiting an instant attendants handed him over to the police. "He is mad," was the verdict of the exhibitors and their friends. "Only a madman would fail to appreciate the beauties of such wonderful futurist work."

Such also is the conclusion of the Police Magistrate, who has sent the unfortunate painter to undergo medical examination.

But his own explanation is that he suffers from neurasthenia and that the particular picture was too much for his nerves.

Consultation with the catalogue reveals the fact that the painting which precipitated so violent a crisis was by a woman artist, Mme. Cholet, and the subject was an innocent one of flowers.

MACHINES TO DO ALL WORK

Inventor Against Six-Hour Day and Eating Too Much—President Sends Message.

A little thing like a seventy-third birthday didn't keep the "Old Man" from getting up at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and, without thought of shaving, hastening down the hill to his laboratory to spend five hours intent upon a chemical and metallurgical problem that needed solving. Thomas Alva Edison's former associates, gray-haired men, now successful engineers and inventors themselves, who worked with him day and night in those lean days back in the late seventies and early eighties at Menlo Park when no one knew where next week's payroll was coming from, waited patiently and let the "Old Man" putter around his laboratory at West Orange until noon, when they kidnapped him to make sure he would not forget his own birthday party.

It wouldn't be Edison's birthday if he didn't spend a few hours at work and then go to the laboratory library to be surrounded by a dozen reporters, who shouted questions in his ear ranging from prohibition and the Irish question to communication with Mars and Sir Oliver Lodge's spirits. He had some difficulty hearing the questions, but once he understood them his clear, blue eyes snapped and he shot his answers back without hesitation.

"We don't need that stuff," he said of liquor. "The Irish mind is very complex," and he dismissed Home Rule. As to reaching Mars by wireless, he said: "It may be done, but how are we going to know whether a man or a chimpanzee receives our message?" And all he had to say as to the existence of spirits and making them talk was "fifty-fifty."

"I expect to do as much work when I'm 85 as today. It will all depend upon the condition of the container," and he tapped his chest.

"Men are more efficient than they were fifty years ago. We have more machinery now, and some day all our work will be done by machinery. Then we'll be more efficient still. The men will be paid high wages and will simply direct the machines. We'll even have automatic machinery make the machines. We're working on some of those things here now."

"No, I don't believe in a six-hour day if a man is interested in his work. If a man is interested in what he's doing he won't keep his eye on the clock, but he'll see the thing through. Hard work won't hurt anybody who likes it.

"A man must be efficient; must take care of what he eats. Americans eat too much, anyway. Anybody who is clogged with food and gives his stomach too much work can't do good work himself."

"What do you think is your greatest invention?" he was asked.

"The phonograph or moving pictures—I don't know which."

At noon the employes of the West Orange Edison plants, led by their band, marched past Mr. Edison and pelted him with flowers. Then the Edison Pioneers, men who were associated with the inventor at Menlo Park before 1885, took Mr. and Mrs. Edison and members of their family to luncheon in one of the buildings.

Letters and telegrams of greeting were read and handed to Mr. Edison from all parts of the country. President Wilson wrote the following to T. Comerford Martin, Vice President of the Edison Pioneers:

"I cannot deny myself the pleasure of sending a message to be read at the celebration of Mr. Edison's seventy-third birthday. I am proud to count myself among the friends and admirers of Mr. Edison, and I beg that you will convey to him my warmest congratulations and my hope that he will see many very happy returns of the anniversary, marked by an increasing number of scientific triumphs."

Secretary Daniels wired his "young friend Edison" that he was wearing one of the little blue buttons marked "73," which were in the lapels yesterday of the 20,000 employes in the various Edison industries throughout the country.

PRESBYTERIANS JOIN INTER-CHURCH DRIVE

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 11.—The Presbyterian Church of the United States will join in supporting the gigantic program of the interchurch world movement, "completely and wholeheartedly."

The Executive Commission of the General Presbyterian Assembly, vested with full power to act, today approved of the plans of the alliance, which joins twenty-two denominations into a world redemption movement. In voting for full participation, the Executive Commission also approved budgets calling for $42,000,000 for the interchurch movement, and $19,828,870 for the use of the boards and agencies of the Presbyterian Church. This amount is approximately $6,828,970 more than the record budget of a year ago, when Presbyterianism, launching out for greater world-wide evangelization and reconstruction, doubled the total of its expenditures for the year before.

The Executive Commission accepted also a recommendation from its Budget Committee, of which A. R. Nicol, President of the Atlantic and West Gulf Steamship Company, was Chairman, that $3,000,000 be raised as an endowment for the General Board of Education and the Presbyterian Board of Ministerial Relief.

Dr. W. H. Houston, Secretary of the Department of Vacancy and Supply, reported more than five hundred pulpits vacant. This unprecedented shortage was attributed to inadequate salaries.

The Committee on Ministerial Support held its first session and discussed favorably a recommendation that $1,500 be made the minimum salary for pastors, and that provision be made by the next General Assembly to subsidize them where congregations fail to raise sufficient funds.

The Executive Commission pledged $1,000,000 for the immediate operating expenses of the interdenominational movement.

ROBERT U. JOHNSON TO BE ENVOY TO ITALY

The President is expected to send the nomination to the Senate within a few days.

Mr. Johnson was originator of the Memorial to Keats and Shelley in Rome, originator and Chairman of the American Poets' Ambulance in Italy in 1917, and author of Italian rhapsody and other poems of Italy, published in 1917. He was decorated by the Italian Government in 1895, being made Cavaliere of the Crown of Italy.

Mr. Johnson was born in Washington sixty-seven years ago, and was editor of The Century Magazine from November, 1909, to May, 1913. He induced General Grant to write his memoirs and set on foot the movement which resulted in the creation of the Yosemite National Park.

After graduating Mr. Johnson went to Chicago, where he served in the Western agency of the Scribner educational books. In May, 1873, he became connected with the editorial staff of Scribner's Monthly Magazine, afterward The Century Magazine. On the death of its editor, Dr. J. G. Holland, in 1881, and the succession of Richard Watson Gilder, he was promoted to associate editor, in which capacity he served until the death of Mr. Gilder, whom he succeeded as editor in chief on June 1, 1913. After forty years of service Mr. Johnson retired.

Mr. Johnson drafted the first plan of organization of the American Academy of Arts and Letters from the National Institute of Arts and Letters, which consisted of 250 representative authors, artists and musical composers. He was Secretary of the Institute from 1903 to 1909. He was chosen its thirty-second member Jan. 28, 1908, succeeding to the chair of Hay.

From 1910 to 1919 Mr. Johnson was an elector of the Hall of Fame of New York University. In 1919 he was chosen the Director, which position he now holds.

In 1919 he was made an officer of the Order of Leopold II. by King Albert, and in December, 1919, the Prince Regent Alexander of Serbia conferred the order of St. Sava upon him.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Gaby Dealys, the French actress and dancer who has been suffering since early in December with a severe throat affection brought on by influenza, died today. She had recently been operated on several times in an effort to remove the affection, on two of these occasions no anaesthetic being administered. The surgeons were hampered by her insistence that her neck be not scarred.

Gaby Deslys was born in Marseilles thirty-six years ago. The name by which she is everywhere known she selected for her stage career. It is an abbreviation of the French for "Gabrielle of the Lilies." Some persons attribute her international fame to a triumph of theatrical publicity, for it was not until she was connected by gossip with former King Manuel of Portugal that she became a celebrity.

Prior to her arrival in this country in 1911, an abundance of stories appeared in the newspapers that King Manuel had been infatuated with her. It was said that he had given her a pearl necklace and other costly articles with such a disregard of the royal coffers that the resulting complaints in Portugal had hastened the revolution.

Gaby Deslys, thus presented as an influence in the history of monarchies, never denied the receipt of lavish gifts from the King, and even permitted jokes in a play she was in here referring to her intimacy with Manuel. She also gained notoriety by her sensational gowns and the general luxury in which she lived and traveled.

Before the episode of King Manuel she had become popular in the music halls of Paris and London, and was known locally as a vivacious performer with a talent for creating gossip about her. She professed to like America, saying once on her return to Paris:

"Everything is great in America. The houses, the business, the theatres, and above all, the bluff. Bluff and the customs are America's plagues; otherwise the people are charming. I earned $4,000 a week, but I had to work hard for it."

Rumors of matrimony have from time to time had it that she was about to marry one or another of her many wealthy admirers. Harry Pilcer, the American dancer who went home with her, was said to be engaged to her. She denied all these reports.

Gaby Deslys was a pronounced blonde, of slim, well-modeled figure. She carried herself with the traditional pride of a Frenchwoman and wore with an air of distinction clothes that caused audiences to gasp. Unlike some other favorites of the type, she did not shirk her work on the stage, one cause of her popularity being her evident zeal to please those who paid to see her.

DOGS OF PEDIGREE BARK A WELCOME

FINEST ARRAY ON RECORD

JUDGING BRINGS SURPRISES

The Grand Central Palace has staged many an exhibition of the luxuries and necessaries of life, from automobiles to pianos and phonographs, but not in years have its great stone pillars looked upon such a sight as was offered yesterday at the opening of the forty-fourth annual dog show of the Westminster Kennel Club. The big gray building at the corner of Lexington Avenue and Forty-sixth Street resounded yesterday with a far different music from that which filled its vast spaces less than a week ago, the music of over one thousand different barks, yelps, howls and other canine expressions of joy, sorrow or boredom, a harmony that was sweeter than symphonies and more exciting than rag-time to the ears of the thousands who flocked to the show all day long to pay their respects to the supreme pet of all the ages.

With the judging of the classes delayed until early afternoon by various handicaps of weather and traveling conditions, the first day of the classic of dogdom turned into an exhibition in the best sense of the word, an overwhelming display of dogflesh in its highest form that sent even the uninitiated among the spectators into ecstasies, while the real connoisseurs stood silently before the long rows of champions, near-champions and mere contenders, and marveled that such riches could be gathered together in one spot.

Gems of Every Breed on View.

While the eleven rings were busy from 2 o'clock on until late in the evening, the most consistent activity was along the benches, where long vistas of straw-covered space had been allotted to a wonderful succession of the proudest specimens of every breed known to the kennels of America. There was applause at times from those speculative souls who pressed close to the ropes around the little red platforms with their eyes fixed on competition alone; but in general the interest of the crowd was in the dogs themselves, regardless of ribbons, or past and future performances.

To the unpracticed eye the entries in any one class looked very much alike, each one a candidate for unqualified admiration. But the wise ones, looking them over appraisingly, made mental notes of shape and size, of coat and color, of legs, ears, teeth and neck, and glowed with the joy of their special knowledge. There is no wisdom on earth like the wisdom that concerns dogs, and only he who has bred and raised them knows its ins and outs.

Geelong Swordsman Defeated.

While many of yesterday's awards went along the lines of expectation, there were a few surprises. The chief of these came in the class for Airedale puppies, in which the recent decision of the Airedale Club was reversed when Who Cares beat Geelong Swordsman, later attaining an even greater honor in being placed reserve in the winners' class to champion Polam Maxim. No puppy could go higher than this. Who Cares is the property of Wilford Wood of Brooklyn, bred by the owner, and is by his Brookhaven Laddie, a noted winner at this show three years ago.

Among the Irishs a great showing was made by Blarney Wonderful Biddy, a female owned by John G. Bates, imported three months ago, and winning not only over those of her own sex, but taking the special for the best Irish terrier in the show ahead of the winning dog, Champion Double Shear's Double, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody of Hinsdale, Ill., an animal conceded three years ago the best dog of its breed in England, and never beaten in America until yesterday. The reserve went to champion Brentmoor Blinker, another British importation of almost equal fame.

In the judging of the Pomeranians, the only toy class to get into the ring yesterday, Mrs. Frank Clark made a notable series of winnings, with only two dogs entered, her first showing in six years.

Canadian Entry Gets Blue.

The first award to a Canadian exhibit was in the bulldog dog puppies class, won by The Hummer, a well named and sturdy specimen from the kennels of R. Scott Wilson, Oakville, Ontario. The closest competitor was the New Jersey entry, Magnet Ginger, owned by Thomas J. Parvin of Newark, which was second. The minor places were taken by the entries of Mrs. George J. Gould of Manhattan. Oakwall Me and Oakwall Brother.

In great danes the entries of G. D. F. Leith of Manhattan scored best in the dogs, his brindle, Rolling Hill Hodur, taking the winner's class, with his puppy, Rolling Hill Vider, reserve. In the bitch classes the winner was the harlequin-colored Burkhart S. IV., owned by J. Burkart of Long Island City, and the Leith entry, Rolling Hill Idunda II., was reserve.

Rough and smooth coated St. Bernards owed their chief prominence to the entries of Jacob Ruppert, Jr. He captured winner's dogs with Oh Boy, winner's bitches with Bulgaria, both very typical and bred at the kennels of the exhibitor.

Doiran Defeats Ning Poo.

Chow Chows were judged by A. McClure Halley, and in dogs he reversed the decision of the specialty show Tuesday, placing the Boston-owned Doiran, an imported red dog, over Ning Poo, owned by A. Morison of Montclair, N. J. It was Ning Poo's first defeat, as he had captured first prizes at Chester, Pa., Danbury, Newark, on Saturday last, where he won also as the best of all breeds, and Tuesday, on the latter occasion Doiran being second. Judge Halley said Doiran, owned by Mrs. Harry Burton Torrey of Weymouth, Mass., in his opinion scored in conformation, head quality and depth and bloom of coat.

The Irish setters Rouill Athlone, owned by Miss Clara L. Turnbull of Bayshore, L. I., won in winners dogs and as the best of the breed, the best bitch being Señora Nancy, owned by Amadee Trudeau of Quebec, Canada. In pointers Pennsylvania exhibitors bore off the highest honors, the winning dog being Nidkiff Rufus, owned by W. T. Payne of Kingston, Pa., and the best bitch, Eclipse Sister, owned by F. G. McIntosh of Franklin, Pa.

Artus Mereeds Placed First.

One of the largest breeds, the shepherd dogs, was well judged by the young Brooklyn expert, A. A. Rost. In the winning dogs he gave the best place to ch. Artus Mereeds, owned by the Lewenno Kennels of Hempstead, and in bitches he placed in first place Turina of Winterview, owned by the Winterview Kennels of North Caldwell, N. J. The bitch award was well received, but in the dog classes the winner of the specialty show at Mineola in October, Mrs. James E. Potter's Prince Frederick owned in Great Neck, L. I., seemed overlooked. The reserve in bitches went to a wonderfully good puppy, Loretta II. von Ahrenstedt, owned by the Ahrenstedt Kennels of Yonkers, one of the best as yet produced in America, Judge Rost said, in this breed.

F. H. Farwell, master of the Orange Kennels at Orange, Tex., made his first appearance in New York as a judge in fox terriers, the breed he has helped during the last twenty years to place in the front rank of dogs bred in America. He finished with the smooth-coated variety, leaving the wire-coats for today. A great throng watched his placings and often broke out in applause.

Western Fox Terriers Win.

The West scored heavily in the smooth fox terriers, winners dogs going to Sabine Rollway, owned by E. H. Ingwersan of Chicago, and the reserve was Sabine Rifle Ball, owned by George C. Sinclair of Toledo, Ohio. In the bitch classes winners was awarded to the classical Sabine Fernlike, owned by Thomas Rice Varick of Manchester, N. H. The reserve was Sabine Fragrance, put down in the pink of condition, and owned by George C. Sinclair of Toledo. Sabine Firecracker, another of the Ingwersan entries from Chicago, also did very well in the bitch classes and was only a shade under Sabine Fernlike and Sabine Fragrance in her winnings.

The Westminster show is distributed over three floors of the Palace, with the big dogs nearest the ground and the toy breeds up at the top. The only small dogs to be found on the first floor are the cocker spaniels and the wire-haired pointing griffons, a popular class this year, with eighteen entries, shown by actual shooting men who have found this type of dog exceedingly valuable in the field; so much so that it is actually competing with the traditional pointers and setters.

Giants of the Canine World.

There are plenty of the latter, in all varieties, placed in front of the main cluster of judging rings. Further back in the huge hall one finds the real giants of the canine kingdom, the mastiffs, wolfhounds, Newfoundlands and St. Bernards, including in the last named class the biggest dog in the show, Colonel Jacob Ruppert's Oh Boy, weighing 230 pounds.

The second floor has one entire side devoted to shepherd dogs, the picturesque animals that suggest at times the hyena in facial expression, but have long proved their value as police and war workers. In this class the exhibit of the Winterview Kennels stands out impressively, with brass name plates marking the abiding places of a round half dozen entries. Right alongside is the offering of the Palisade Kennels, ornamented with pictures of police dogs engaged in the activities of the Red Cross.

Another side of this floor is given up to the Airedale terriers, the largest class in the entire show, and the hoarse barking of these snappy, prosaic and common sense pets of the household is unmistakable to all who have come to know and love them. Not far from this section may be heard the peculiar squeak of the shrill-voiced Dalmatians, the spotted coachdogs of the sporting prints, slender and graceful animals that twine themselves in all kinds of patterns by virtue of their natural adornment.

Quartet of Fine Chows.

Bulldogs and bull terriers sit on their haunches or lie at ease nearby, too proud to fight at present, but with sufficient indication of a martial spirit that only slumbers temporarily. Then come the Chow Chows, leoine beasts of solid front, standing up with lolling black tongues, chugging like the motor cars which they so frequently ornament. Among them the exhibit of the Cossack Kennels of Farmingham, Mass., is prominent, with a quartet of beauties, all carrying royatic Chinese names. Occasional black and purple types stand out boldly along the line of the Chows.

On the far side a double row of stalls is given over to the collies of all kinds, their pointed noses stretched appealingly across the front of their narrow confines. In the same aisle are the Old English sheperd dogs, long-legged, woolly specimens, looking like benevolent old codgers who might tell some interesting stories if they wished, but are more concerned at present with keeping their hair out of their eyes.

It is up on the third floor, however, that most of the spectators, particularly of the feminine ranks, find their greatest delight, for here are the toy dogs, the popular Pekingese, Pomeranians, Maltese and other varieties, as well as the great classes of terriers, the smooth and wire-haired fox terriers, the Irish and the Cairns.

Toy Breeds Regally Housed.

The toy breeds form an entire exhibition in themselves, and they enjoy the most luxurious accommodations in the whole Palace. Some are in cages and some in glass houses, with perhaps more than an inclination to throw stones. The Pekes are particularly artistic in their setting, and their proud lifting of chrysanthemum heads as the people stop to look at them indicates that they are by no means unaware of their distinction. One corner is occupied by the eight cages of the famous Yankiborne Kennels, each built to represent a miniature Chinese temple, with an inlaid hardwood floor and a background of gorgeous embroidered silk.

Some of the smaller dogs repose on satin cushions, their silken hair carefully combed. The white Maltese breed numbers among its entries sixteen beautiful dogs brought all the way from Seattle, Wash., by their owner, Mrs. Anna R. Judd. They are in gilded cages, surmounted by the flags of England and America, and their exhibitor herself wears some of the medals they have won. The Maltese dogs are the oldest of toy breeds, having been favorites with the ladies of Roman society many centuries ago.

SOCIETY GATHERS IN FORCE AT SHOW

Many Well-Known Persons in Throng of Dog Lovers Attending Palace Exhibit.

The crowd that assembled for the opening of the Dog Show greatly surpassed in size even the large gatherings at this fixture in pre-war days. Many social leaders who, through ownership of kennels or fondness for hunting, are known as dog fanciers returned from the South in the midst of the storm in order to be here for the show, and these with others from nearby towns, filled the two floors of the Grand Central Palace at both the afternoon and evening sessions.

Owing to the condition of the streets there was an unusual number of pedestrians and the galoshes and rubbers furnished an odd touch in the smart costumes. Trim walking togs seemed to predominate, although there was a sprinkling of handsome fur coats. While the women as a whole were attitred in sombre colors, there were a great many smart, bright colored hats—the first herald of Spring. The show really served in this way as the fashion vane for the styles that are to predominate in millinery.

Sports Suits of Orange Hue.

The younger girls rather gave a forecast of the sports clothes that are to to be seen here next Summer, and some of them were confessedly brought up from the South for the occasion. It was plain that many of the younger set had only been a few days in town, so excited were they in their recitals to their friends of the contrast between Florida and New York just now. Under their fur coats they disclosed smart suits of deep orange, the most favored shade for sports wear.

Society showed a more genuine interest in the exhibits than ever before. The list of exhibitors was much longer than usual, and practically all of those in attendance yesterday, in accord with those who go to the Horse Show these days, came to appraise the dogs rather than merely to pass the time. The women of social prominence are taking a much keener interest in the kennels than in previous years, and the number of those who can speak authoritatively on the subject is steadily growing. A surprising number of these women now have their own kennels and take an active interest in the management of them.

Among Those Present.

Among those who were seen yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Peters, John S. Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. West, Jr., Miss Marguerite Van Schaick, Mrs. E. Nagel, J. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., A. Thebaud, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Snow, Jr., Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. George Remsen, Mrs. Roy A. Rainey, George R. Preston, Mrs. George H. Pell, Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mrs. C. F. Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Owen, Tyler Morse, Mrs. Paul Moore, Norman Mackenzie, Mrs. Clinton Irwin Martin, Miss Eleanor Mellen, Mrs. John C. Liggett, Harvey S. Ladew, Mr. and Mrs. Effingham Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. George D. F. Leith, Miss Claire A. Knapp, Miss Cathleen Illingworth, Major Herbert Hughes, Miss Jean Hinkle, Louis Lee Haggin, William C. du Pont, Jr., Freeman A. Ford, the Misses Beatrice and Gertrude de Coppet, Mrs. W. N. Gilbert Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Amory S. Carhart and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bates.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 11.—The hardest fought tournament round in the history of Pinehurst was staged here in the St. Valentine tournament for women today. Out of the twelve first round matches played in the three leading divisions, five went to extra holes. Three were 19-hole affairs, one went to 20 holes, while another took 21 holes for a decision.

In the first eight Mrs. Frank S. Danforth of Northfork beat Mrs. F. B. Ryan of Baltusrol by 4 and 3 in the only easy victory of the day. Miss Eleanor T. Chandler of Philadelphia, winner of the qualifying medal, defeated Mrs. Donald Parson of Youngstown by 2 and 1. Mrs. J. D. Armstrong of Buffalo won from Miss Louise Patterson of Plainfield at the second extra hole of a match in which the last seven holes were halved.

Mrs. J. F. Duryea of Springfield, who defeated Mrs. John D. Chapman of Greenwich, drove into two ponds in the course of the round and was 1 down going to the eighteenth. She squared the match with a 100-foot shot for a par 3 at this hole, and won the battle at the nineteenth with another sensational putt from off the green.

He won the first prize with a net score of 99, and was high gun with 93 actual breaks to his credit. The leading scores were: F. A. Seibert, New York, 93, 6—99; J. P. Cope, Delaware Water Gap, 81, 15—96; W. A. Magoon, Pittsburgh, 85, 10—95; J. C. Steward, Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., 72, 20—92; John Ebberts, Buffalo, 75, 12—87; G. A. Magoon, Pittsburgh, 76, 10—86.

SANDS OF PLEASURE WINS THE DIPLOMAT

Thurber Forced to Use Whip to Overtake Lively in Feature Purse at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 11.—The seven-year-old son of Fair Play, Sands of Pleasure, though less distinguished than some of his younger kin, such as Mad Hatter and Man o' War, performed cleverly here this afternoon, and captured the Diplomat Purse at a mile, which was the feature on the card at the Fair Grounds. He covered the distance in 1:38 1-5, which is good time for this course, and led home Lively by half a length after a driving finish.

The Diplomat Purse brought out five of the best performers at the distance, and under the weight conditions at least three of the five were so evenly matched in the opinion of the players that there was little difference in their prices. Sands of Pleasure and Breadman, which finished third, were equal favorites at post time at 2 to 1, while Chief, which had not been out in some time, was quoted at 13 to 5, and had much support.

The race was one of the most interesting of the day, and except for Chief the well-backed entries justified the prices laid against them. Chief was the victim of a timid ride by Jockey Ambrose, and was never given a fair chance to show what he could do against this field. He was fourth without ever being a serious contender after the first few yards.

Lively Goes to Front.

Breaking from a position close to the rail, Lively went to the front and Mooney was able to pick out his own path around the first turn. Ambrose on Chief was next to last to get away and attempted at the outset to rush over to the rail. When he found himself blocked by Lively he took up his mount, as he frequently does under such circumstances, and as a result Chief was last when the horses had made the turn and reached the back stretch.

Lively set a fast pace and drew away to a lead of two lengths on Sands of Pleasure, but the latter began to move up and was soon close on the heels of the leader. Sands of Pleasure was given a good ride by Thurber who kept his mount under restraint until he had made the turn into the stretch when he drew his whip and Sands of Pleasure moved up with a rush under the urging, caught Lively, and raced the latter into submission in the final furlong to win by half a length. Breadman, which was third most of the way, might have finished second with a better ride, through the stretch. He came with a rush but Coltiletti was unable to hold him in his course and he was defeated for the place by a neck though fast wearing down the tiring Lively. Chief moved up to Pass Ballet Dancer and was showing good speed when he crossed the line.

Coltiletti Shines Again.

Coltiletti had another good day in the saddle, though he did not come up to the mark set on the previous day. He came home in front twice, winning with On High in the second event and with The Belgian in the fifth race. Coltiletti accounts for himself in the second race when he got On High away from the barrier with a rush in the six-furlong dash which had twelve starters. He hustled his mount along until he had opened up a gap of three lengths and had the race well in hand all the way though he was obliged to make a strong finish as On High began to tire and Dinty Moore moved up with a rush in the final sixteenth. The latter gained the place by five lengths from Barenka.

Using the same tactics, Coltiletti rushed The Belgian to the front in the fifth, which was at a mile and a sixteenth, and gaining a good lead in the first quarter remained in front all the way to win by two lengths from Lazy Lou, with Speedster third.

144 DAYS OF RACING ON NEARBY TRACKS

Jockey Club Stewards Schedule Opening of Local Season for Jamaica on May 15.

The racing dates for 1920 for the Eastern tracks, including those in Maryland and the metropolitan circuit, were awarded yesterday at a meeting of the Stewards of The Jockey Club in this city. The metropolitan season will consist of 144 racing days, three more than last season. It will begin with the meeting at Jamaica on May 15 and close at Empire City on Oct. 30.

Except for the additional three days, the season will be practically the same as last year. The announcement of the dates silences reports that the racing season would be opened May 1. Although it is possible under the law to have racing here earlier than the prevailing date, The Jockey Club has never made any effort to fill in the additional time and the added three days for the coming season merely serve to fill out the meeting so as to bring the openings on desirable days.

There is an open date in the metropolitan season this year, the date coming between the closing at Saratoga and the opening of the Autumn meeting at Belmont Park. Of the added days, Jamaica will get two, one in the Spring and one in the Autumn meeting, and the other goes to Aqueduct.

There is the usual conflict between Jamaica and the closing at Pimlico, Md., amounting this time to three days. The Maryland season will open at Bowie on April 1 and will close at Pimlico May 18.

CLINTON IS CHALLENGED.

St. John's Swimmers Would Compete for State Championship.

At a dinner held in honor of DeWitt Clinton's championship swimming team last night Coach David Hooks announced that he had received a challenge from St. John's Military Academy of Manlius, N. In its challenge St. John's suggested that the dual meet be held on Feb. 21 in the tank of the College of the City of New York. Coach Hooks could not state definitely whether the challenge would be accepted or not. A decision will be reached in a few days.

LONG SHOT SCORES IN RACE AT HAVANA

All Aglow Wins Fourth Event on Cuban Track by a Head and Pays Backers 15 to 1.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 11.—All Aglow at the long price of 15 to 1, proved a surprise when he won the fourth race from a good field of sprinters at the local track today. It was the second start of the meeting for the son of Sain and, as he failed to show any speed on his former outing, he was neglected in the betting. His price in the mutuels was $30.50 straight for a $2 ticket. The place price was $32 and the show was $9.90. Fletcher sent All Aglow into the lead soon after the start and the son of Sain ran the first half mile in 46 1-5 and finished out the six furlongs, winning by a head, in the fast time of 1:12. Wynnewood was second, half a length in front of Peasant.

Willie Duggan rode a well-played winner when he saddled Superior in the first race. Superior was the favorite and, taking the lead at the start, won easily by two lengths. Lucie May was a length and a half in front of Plain Heather.

Feeding New York

HAD motor trucks failed, New York would have been in a bad way for food and fuel during the snow blockade. The big, powerful units gave a wonderful service carrying vital supplies.

The Motor Haulage Company handle all the hauling of a big national food company and carry the overflow for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company's fleet of 83 Pierce-Arrows.

Their 51 Pierce-Arrows have been operated constantly since Thursday, even hauling to Elizabeth, Paterson, Morristown, Newark, Stamford and Hempstead.

"It may interest you to learn that our entire fleet of 51 Pierce-Arrow trucks, engaged in contract hauling, has been in constant operation ever since last Thursday, February 5th. During this period we have had trucks operating daily to Elizabeth, Paterson, Morristown and Newark, and as far as Stamford and Hempstead. So far have experienced only two or three minor mechanical troubles.—S. G. Ash, Service Department."

BAN JOHNSON'S RETIREMENT PREDICTED BY BASEBALL MEN AS A RESULT OF NEW PEACE TERMS

JOHNSON MAY QUIT LEAGUE PRESIDENCY

Baseball Men Believe Curbing of Power in Peace Terms Will Result in His Retirement.

INSURGENTS ARE SATISFIED

Contend That They Got More Than Was Asked For in Compromise Plan Submitted Last December.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The future of Ban Johnson as President of the American League after nineteen years of rule is the question about which baseball men are speculating here, as the result of the settlement of the American League war which was consummated in the wee hours of the morning today. After conducting affairs so long with a free rein it is freely predicted that Johnson will not care to serve long under the rule of a board of review which is clothed with powers which may at any time override the head of the league.

Under the terms of settlement the new Board of Review is appointed for two years and any and all questions of American League government may be appealed to their jurisdiction. This committee is made up of Colonel Jacob Ruppert of New York, who has been Johnson's bitterest enemy in this fight, and Clarke Griffith of Washington, one of his supporters. The settlement provides that in case of a tie, decision will be made by a Chicago Federal Judge. Any mention of what the President of the league may or may not do is carefully avoided.

It is believed by those close to Johnson that the new state of affairs means eventually his retirement. He has given no inkling that he intends to step down, but the stripping him of his powers leads those who know him to believe that he will not care to serve long under the new restricted conditions. Many believe that the intrusting of power in the new Board of Review offers President Johnson the meanstо step out gracefully at his leisure.

Powers of New Board.

The significant part of the settlement of the American League war is the all-important clause which gives the club owners the right to appeal to the new Board of Review in any matter which affects their constitutional right. The fact that this committee of Colonel Jacob Ruppert of New York and Clarke Griffith of Washington possesses unlimited power and final action in all matters affecting the conduct of the League affairs takes from the President of the League those powers to which the insurgent members have so stubbornly objected. After all, the Carl Mays case had been lost to notice in the fight which the Insurgent clubs, New York, Chicago and Boston, had made on the solitary rule of Johnson. This part of the clause which curbs the powers of the President and transfers it to the new Board of Review is as follows:

"With final and binding powers to review any question that any member feels affects his constitutional rights as a member of this association."

The other provisions of the settlement were more or less obvious, but it was the question of authority in the very thing which the Ruppert-Comiskey-Frazee combination has been battling for.

The reinstatement of Pitcher Carl Mays and the awarding of third place money to the Yankee players over the Detroit protest is, of course, hailed with glee by the owners of the New York Club. These were the things which started the fight and led to the prolonged and tiresome litigation directed at the powers of the President of the League.

The expression "questions affecting the constitutional rights of the members of the association" has a wide significance, and include all matters of finance and government of the League. It will prohibit any discrimination against any particular member and will mean that each club owner will have full knowledge of all the League affairs. It will prevent in the future the repetition of the wrangle over President Johnson's contract with the telegraph companies and news agencies, which was one of the causes of the New York club's legal actions.

Insurgents Are Satisfied.

The gathering was not without its amusing side. The club owners merrily assailed one another and one another's ball club. There were many times when all were talking at once. If the tense atmosphere of the meeting had not been broken often with bits of humor, it would have developed into a Donnybrook fair.

The settlement, as it was finally made, gave the insurgents far more than they had asked for in their offer for a compromise in New York last December at the annual League meeting. At that time the insurgents asked for equal membership on the Board of Directors, with provisions that any movement of the President could be blocked by a deadlock. In the settlement early this morning, full authority is given to a committee with power to function, and deadlocks will be left to the decision of a Federal Judge.

The insurgents are more than satisfied. They curbed the powers of the President and have established a state of government whereby all the club owners may have a share in the affairs of the League. The legal complications have gone and they leave the club owners free to go about their business and get ready to fight the baseball question out on the diamond and not in a court house.

Session Long and Stormy.

It was after 1:30 o'clock this morning, at the end of nearly eight hours of deliberation, that the club owners opened the door of the smoke-filled room at the Congress Hotel and announced that the war was over. Baseball men from many leagues, together with more than a score of newspaper reporters, lounged sleepily about the hotel lobby. For hours they had held watch on the warring magnates.

From the hotel elevator stepped a lone, dejected-looking man; his face was drawn and pale. It was President Ban Johnson. None of his five loyal club owners were with him. He walked out of the hotel alone and disappeared. No word, one way or another, did he say about the settlement. Up in the conference the club owners, who for many hours had been hurling charges and counter-charges back and forth, were now talking with each other in quiet tones. When the owners came out there was no hurrahing or waving of hats. They were all tired out, and did not talk in terms of victory or defeat. They were simply relieved that it was all over and that baseball could go on as before.

It had been a historical session. There were times when the club owners threatened each other. At one time Colonel Ruppert of New York and Phil Ball of St Louis arose and faced each other and seemed to be all set for a passage at fisticuffs. Then they quieted down for a while when cooler heads prevailed.

All cards were laid upon the table. The talk was frank and at times brutal. The insurgent members assailed the affairs of President Johnson with merciless frankness.

St. Ann's Five Wins Again.

The twelfth successive basket ball victory was registered last night by the St. Ann's Academy five on the home court, at Seventy-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue. The Chelsea School was the latest victim, by the overwhelming score of 40 to 17. Tobin and McCue were the star performers for the winning team.

Officially Name July 15 as Date for First Yacht Race

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The first race for the America's Cup in the international regatta between Sir Thomas Lipton's challenging yacht Shamrock IV. and the New York Yacht Club's unnamed defender will be sailed on Thursday, July 15, according to an announcement made here today by the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, of which Sir Thomas is a member.

The announcement from the Royal Ulster Yacht Club that the first race for the America's Cup would be held on July 15 confirms unofficial reports which have been current both here and abroad for the last few weeks. Sir Thomas was quoted in a London report early in January as having fixed upon that date.

BASEBALL SOLONS RAISE ADMISSIONS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 11.—Baseball prices took a jump at the joint session of the National and American leagues here today. The twenty-five cent bleacher seat, which has been an institution as old as the game itself, has disappeared forever, and the prices of the other seats have soared skyward.

The new prices adopted by both leagues today are 50 cents, 75 cents and $1, including the war tax. The prices of reserved and box seats are to be adjusted by the various clubs to suit local conditions.

The new prices will effect box office conditions at the Polo Grounds next season, for it will mean that all the lower stand chairs will be $1 instead of 85 cents. The number of 50-cent admissions will amount to only a few hundred, while the prices of the other bleacher seats will be 75 cents. The prices of the seats in the upper stands at the Brush Stadium will not be decided until a meeting of the Giants and Yankee officials is held in New York at a later date.

The "two-bit" seats in baseball have been doomed for a long time. The high cost of operation and the added demands of the players for high salaries has forced the club owners to raise the ante. There have been only a few quarter seats in the New York bleachers for several years, and Brooklyn has had a minimum of the popular-priced pasteboards. In other cities, however, particularly Philadelphia, St. Louis and Cincinnati, the quarter bleacher seats are more numerous.

Chairman Not Chosen.

On account of the peaceful adjustment of the American League affairs, the expected row at the joint meeting over the appointment of a Chairman of the National Commission to succeed August Herrmann did not develop. This joint meeting was a momentous affair and President Ban Johnson greeted Colonel Ruppert and Harry Frazee with a smile and a handshake when they appeared this afternoon for the session.

The Joint Nomination Committee made up of Colonel Ruppert and Frank J. Navin of Detroit, representing the American League, and William F. Baker and William Veeck, representing the National League, submitted to the joint meeting the names of five candidates they deemed eligible for the place. This list included Senator James A. Walker of Brooklyn, "Big Bill" Edwards, Internal Revenue Collector of New York; Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of Chicago, John Conway Toole of New York and Harvey T. Woodruff, Sporting Editor of The Chicago Tribune. At the suggestion of the retiring Chairman, Mr. Herrmann, the name of Adrian C. Anson, the veteran Chicago player, was suggested.

These names went to Presidents Heydler and Johnson and it is expected that they will name the chairman from this list in a day or two. It is not imperative, however, that they name a man on this list. The two Presidents will also name the secretary of the commission when they elect the chairman. The two most likely candidates for the chairmanship are said to be Senator Walker and Mr. Woodruff, both are favored by the club owners.

There will be no delay in the election of a Chairman, for President Heydler said tonight that the new official would be named within a few days. The two leagues drew up an elaborate set of resolutions to present to the retiring Chairman, Mr. Herrmann. It is on parchment and praises Herrmann for his services to the national game, and informs him that they accept his resignation with deep feelings of regret.

Ruggins Signs New Coach.

Manager Miller Huggins today signed Charley O'Leary, the old Detroit shortstop and second baseman, as coach of the Yankees. Pat O'Connor, who has been coach since Huggins took command, has been dropped. O'Leary left the major league in 1914, and for a time was a minor league manager in Texas. He is a lively, smart baseball man and should make a valuable addition to the Yankee board of strategy. Huggins has been angling for an outfielder, and tonight had a long talk with Bobby Quinn and Phil Ball of the Browns. Huggins evidently still has an eye on Outfielder Johnny Tobin.

Manager Jimmy Burke of the Browns announced that he had sold Pitcher Dave Davenport to the Washington Club. It was a straight sale with no other players involved.

President Charles Stoneham of the Giants was a busy man around the meetings today and he buttonholed several club owners and managers in his search for an infielder. He said it was a tough job doing business because no one seemed willing to make a dicker of any kind. Mr. Stoneham had a confab with Presidents Bredon of the Cardinals and George Washington Grant of the Braves but no business was transacted.

Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Robins offered a battery to one club owner for an outfielder but the offer was turned down. President Ebbets also stated that he tried to fish for a couple of minor league pitchers but the fishing was poor.

Allotting of a space in the bleachers for children under 14 years of age at admission prices of 15 and 25 cents was also discussed and was left to the club owners for a personal decision. Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Nationals and Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago Americans were the champions of the plan. As the matter stands, it will be possible for a club owner to allot seats for the youngsters.

It was reported that "Chic" Shorten, outfielder, who alternated in right field for the Detroit Americans with Ira Flagstead, and Ben Dyer, utility infielder for the last three years, were holdouts. Dyer also was said to want his release as he has been offered the management of a club in the newly reorganized Central League.

Chicago, Cincinnati and New York of the National League attempted to engineer a trade with the Philadelphia Club for Pitcher Eppa Rixey. New York offered McCarthy, Zimmerman and Douglas; Chicago offered Carter, O'Farrell and Martin, while Cincinnati offered Pitcher Fisher and another player.

TRUST NOT LIKELY, IS MATTY'S VIEW

Veteran Sees No Danger of Baseball Clubs in the Major Leagues Being Combined.

By CHRISTY MATHEWSON.

Many of the sporting writers are howling about the rumored—very much rumored, I might say—combine in baseball. Personally, I take with a grain of salt the stories that the American League and National League and all the clubs in them are on the verge of being absorbed by a giant combine, at the head of which Ban Johnson hopes to find himself.

I do not think that baseball is ready for any such "trust." I have seen no signs that the magnates are in any mood to get together on friendly terms, and I do not see how they can be forced into the merger unwillingly. The dissenters are too strong. While it is an open question whether such an association would be good for baseball, I am not one of the calamity howlers who see ruin in the scheme.

The whole thing is: Will the sport itself benefit by it or lose by it? I do not think that baseball as a business could long flourish if it was killed as a sport. Should such a combination be organized, it would have to look after the interests of the sport itself, or the financial end of the game would dwindle.

What the fans want to see is baseball played. They are not vitally interested in squabbles among players or managers or club owners. If the game is kept on the level, the teams fight for honors, and real competition is kept alive, the fans will journey to the ball parks and watch the contests.

Fans Demand Money's Worth.

I do not think they care much what is done with their money, or who gets it, after it has been transferred from their pockets to the box office. If it is worth 25 cents, of a dollar, or two, to them to see the game, they will pay it and get their money's worth out of the battle on the diamond.

If they cease to get their money's worth they will quit paying. Baseball has got to be kept clean, honest and a sporting proposition, no matter whether the business department is conducted as in the past or under a new combine.

Under whatever guidance baseball is conducted next year, it promises to have a record season. The clubs are all preparing for it. Generally in a presidential election year the attendance at games falls off. Neither Garry Herrmann, President of the World's Champion Reds and Chairman of the National Commission, nor John Heydler, President of the National League, expects this to be the case in 1920.

"On the contrary," Herrmann remarked recently, "after the game's splendid comeback, I believe we will have one of our most prosperous years."

Prohibition is going to help the attendance at ball games in my opinion. Lots of near-fans who used to watch the game play by play on the ticker will not be so keen to hang over the busy little machine now that there is no mahogany rail in close proximity to it. They will prefer to go to the ball parks.

When Parks Were Wet.

Speaking of prohibition in connection with baseball, I remember years ago Larry McLean, who once played on the Giants, pulled a stunt that never can be repeated long as the Eighteenth Amendment is in force. It was in the old days when some of the ball parks had tables under the grand stands where drinks were served.

Larry was catching. A pop fly went behind him. He ripped off his mask and tore after the ball, which was falling at such an angle that it went under the grand stand.

McLean reached for it and caught it just as it was about to descend into a foaming seidel of dark beer. Those of the crowd who could see it roared applause. Larry bowed, picked up the seidel, and while the fans went mad, drained the foaming liquid to the last drop, then put on his mask and took up his position behind the plate.

RUTGERS FIVE WINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 11.—A foul shot by Taliaferro was the means of the Rutgers five defeating Princeton on the Ballantine Gymnasium court tonight by the score of 31 to 30. At the end of forty minutes of play the score stood 27-27.

Just before the whistle blew ending the extra five minute period, a foul was called on Princeton which paved the way to a Scarlet victory. At the end of the first half Rutgers was leading, 17 to 14. Taliaferro was the mainstay of Rutgers, scoring two baskets and seven free throws. Rutgers missed many shots from the floor. Princeton's chief mode of scoring was by fouls. SYRACUSE BEATS C. C. N. Y.

Holds New Yorkers Always in Check and Wins by 41 to 16.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Feb. 11.—Syracuse University defeated the C. C. N. Y. basket ball team here tonight by 41 to 16. The Orange Quintet completely outclassed the visitors, holding them in check at all times while they rolled up a commanding lead which the City College five was unable to cut down.

The game was fast at the start, and it was several minutes before Paul, Syracuse forward, dropped the first point through the hoop. Paul was the star of the game, caging eleven points from the fifteen-foot mark, and missing only one free throw throughout the game. He also made six goals from the floor. Krim and Ball featured for C. C. N. Y. Ball made twelve out of the total point score of the visitors. So closely did the Orange Jerseyed men check the New Yorkers that the latter did not make one field goal in the first half.

The line-up:

DEVANEY CAPTURES HALF-MILE SPECIAL

Millrose Star Beats Baker and Sellers in Feature of Robins Dry Dock Games.

Mike Devaney of the Millrose A. A., national steeplechase champion, last night added another to his collection of special trophies when he captured the William H. Todd special invitation half-mile race, the principal event at the indoor athletic meet of the Robins Dry Dock and Repair Company Employes' Association, at the Fourteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn.

The rangy Millrose middle-distancer, with the long, loping stride that has brought him victory in numerous other special events, showed his heels to four Homer Baker of the Glencoe A. C., local half-mile champion, by a margin of three yards, in 1:59 3-5. Baker, in turn, had an advantage of about four yards on Jack Sellers of the New York A. C., national 600-yard champion, who finished third. Arthur Reilly, Knights of St. Antony, junior national 1,000-yard champion, and Anatole Bolin of the Todd Shipyards A. A., Swedish middle-distance champion and record holder, the only other starters, finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

Devaney Baker's Master.

Devaney, in scoring his victory, showed for the second time in the space of two days that he is Baker's master. On Wednesday night he led Baker to the tape in the three-quarter-mile race at the Millrose games, under similar conditions to those which marked last night's race. The lithe, fast-traveling Millrose runner, taking the lead from Sellers in the first twenty yards, showed the way thereafter to the finish, beating off repeated challenges by Baker, who sought doggedly to overtake his rival.

Baker, however, never accepted defeat until the tape was broken. On the last lap he made his final effort to displace Devaney, and advanced to a position at the Millrose runner's shoulder. The two then raced over the resounding board floor in a sizzling burst which brought the crowd to its feet. Devaney, however, possessed the greater stamina, and never relinquished his position in the van. The Millrose star raced past the quarter-mile mark of 59 2-5 seconds, and his time at the half-mile station was 1:59 3-5.

New York's Fire Department relay quartet scored a victory in a half-mile race for municipal and Federal Government employes. The smoke eaters led from start to finish of the race and won handily in 1:41 2-5. Shea, Pastime A. C. all-around athlete, ran anchor for the fire laddies and was congratulated by Fire Commissioner Thomas Drennan after breasting the tape.

Kolehmainen Retires.

Hannes Kolehmainen, veteran Finnish distance runner, competed in a three-mile handicap race as part of his "come-back" effort, but failed to show any of the form which earned him distinction as one of the greatest distance runners ever developed. The veteran Finn started from scratch against a large field, with Max Bohland, Paulist A. C., a fellow back marker. Kolehmainen stuck to the grind until near the end of the second mile, when he retired. He was running in eighth position at the time.

Kolehmainen turned his first mile in 4:34 3-5 with Bohland, gradually cutting down his rivals. At the second mile the Finn was timed in 10:15 4-5.

Bohland continued to the finish in a determined effort to annex the premier prize, but the Paulist runner failed to redeem the handicaps he had allotted. Harry Brown, who was allowed a start of 275 yards, set the pace for the greater part of the distance and won by a considerable margin over H. Rosen, unattached. S. Silverstein, a 225-yard handicap man, finished third and was followed over the line by Bohland. The victor's time was 15:04 4-5.

The summaries:

What Dempsey Will Owe Uncle Sam if He Collects $500,000

A representative of Jack Dempsey, champion pugilist, called on William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue, at his office in the Custom House yesterday and asked what the income tax would be on $500,000.

"The normal tax on $500,000 is $40,840 and the surtax $263,510, making a total of $304,350," said the Collector.

"That means that if Dempsey gets $500,000 for fighting Carpentier he will actually receive but $195,650," said Dempsey's representative.

"That's just what it means," said the Collector.

COMMITTEE BEGINS DEMPSEY INQUIRY

The special committee of the Army, Navy and Civilian Board of Boxing Control which has undertaken the task of inquiring into the war record of Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will confine its investigation and deliberations to the title holder's activities during the period America was engaged in the world war. This policy was definitely adopted last night at the organization meeting of the committee, of which Albert L. Marilley, counsel to the board, is Chairman. The committee also decided to admit representatives of the press to further meetings. The initial or preliminary meeting, as last night's session was officially termed, was held privately.

Six members of the original committee of nine attended the opening session and adopted plans for future investigation. At the conclusion of the meeting Chairman Marilley, in answer to a query, stated it was not known definitely whether Dempsey would appear before the board, but the likelihood was that the champion would not. Further action in the unpleasant situation in which the heavyweight champion finds himself will be determined upon receipt of information from Dempsey and the details of the American Legion posts' stand. The date of the next session has been only tentatively adopted, awaiting the arrival of this information.

Already the machinery has been set in motion for a rapid and impartial disposition of the case. Negotiations have been opened with the draft board which gave Dempsey deferred classification with the view of securing the champion's questionnaire and having it submitted for consideration to the committee. Word is expected daily from Dempsey, in which the champion will set forth his side of the situation, and it is expected, too, that officials of some of the American Legion posts, who have already taken adverse action with regard to the champion, will submit some information and possibly reasons for their stand, for the committee's consideration.

The meeting was attended by Chairman Marilley, Major Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, President of the Army, Navy, and Civilian Board of Boxing Control; Gutzon Borglum, Adam Empie, Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, former Chairman of the War Department's Commission on Training Camp Activities, and R. Brackenridge Steele. The members of the committee not in attendance included Commissioner Smith of the New Jersey Boxing Commission, Robert Edgrena nd Charles Gould.

DANA GAINS RIGHT TO PLAY IN FINAL

Anderson Dana of the Harvard Club, who has been runner-up twice for the national amateur squash tennis championship, yesterday assured himself of a third acquisition of the same honor, with a chance at the title itself, by defeating H. Duncan Bulkley in a semi-final match at the Columbia University Club, gaining the decision in straight games at 15—2, 15—10, 15—9.

The other finalist will be determined this afternoon, the honor lying between the present champion, John W. Appel, Jr., of the Harvard Club and Auguste J. Cordier of the Yale Club, this year's winner of the National Handicap Tournament. On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the final round will be played, the early hour avoiding possible conflict with the professional challenge match between W. D. Ganley and James J. Mullins, to be staged at the Harvard Club at 4 o'clock.

Dana started yesterday as if he intended to make a runaway match of it, overwhelming his opponent by speed and placement and keeping him scoreless while he piled up eleven points in two hands, his first run being a six and his second a five. The Columbia man then succeeded in getting into the scoresheet twice with well-placed left-handed drives, but after picking up three more in one hand Dana had no trouble in closing out the game at 15—2.

In the second session, however, things were very different. The home player had discovered the kind of shot that gave Dana the most trouble, a soft bounder in the backhand corner, and he also began to take chances by going up to volley and half-volley in midcourt. As a result of his more aggressive tactics he speedily ran into a lead, and was ahead by a count of 10—4 before the Harvard star was able to straighten out his own game again.

Then, however, Dana came to life in astonishing fashion, scoring eleven points in three hands while he kept Bulkley anchored at the mark of ten. Two aces came in his first chance at the service and these were followed by another run of six. Three in a row then completed the game at 15—10.

Bulkley began the third with a fine effort which netted him four points, and he kept this lead through no less than sixteen hands of the closest and fastest squash imaginable. Then Dana inserted his third six of the day, and this time it had the effect of putting the match on ice. They fought on for several more hands, but Bulkley was gradually weakening, and his scoring stopped at nine, while the Harvard man gathered in the two aces still needed for victory.

The summary and score by points follow:

HUGHES WINNER OF CUE CHAMPIONSHIP

FINAL STANDING OF POCKET BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP.

Player.	W.	L.	H.R.	P.C.
M. Hughes	6	1	52	.857
E. Kirby	5	2	19	.714
T. McCabe	5	2	23	.714
C. Wood	4	3	22	.571
W. Herbert	3	4	24	.429
T. Lawler	3	4	21	.333
A. Simel	1	5	15	.167
C. Fulton	0	5	13	.000

A new amateur pocket billiard champion was crowned at John Doyle's Academy last night. Defeating the veteran champion, Edward Kirby, by a score of 100 to 71, Morgan Hughes, one of the youngest players entered in the tournament, won the national title. In so doing he also made the high run record of the American Amateur Billiard Association, a cluster of 52. Kirby and Thomas McCabe were tied in second place, each having won five and lost two games. This tie was decided by the Olympic system, the total number of points made by the players in all of their seven matches being taken into consideration. In this way Kirby, with a total of 661 points, was awarded second place, and McCabe, with 590, third.

Never was a championship more conclusively decided than by Hughes's victory over the man who, for the last two years, has ruled supreme. A veteran of many years' standing, Kirby has been almost invincible. His game has been regarded as the acme of pocket billiard execution, but in the year's event two youngsters flashed across the horizon to such purpose that one annexed the title and the other finished third. Hughes and McCabe were the sensations of the tournament. Entering unheralded and virtually unknown they performed in such fashion as to attract immediate attention and, while there were few enthusiasts who believed that either of these youths would succeed in dethroning the champion, it was readily admitted that they were players par excellence. Hughes's only defeat was sustained at the hands of his young rival, McCabe.

Not only in defeating Kirby last night, but in all of his previous games in the tourney Hughes demonstrated that he is capable of some of the best all-around pocket billiard play that an amateur has ever boasted. He has the perfect temperament for a champion. Nothing seems to ruffle him. The fact that his opponent gets the jump on him and gains a commanding lead does not seem to affect his mental attitude toward the game. He is steady at all times, a great shotmaker and invariably has perfect control of the cue ball, with the result that his position play is almost perfect. He has a brilliant future as a pocket billiardist, and, with increased experience gained in tournament play, he will undoubtedly prove one of the hardest players to defeat in tournament competition.

The score by frames:

M. Hughes—9 14 7 7 6 14 14 9 0 14 3 2. Total—100. High run—32. Scratches—3.

E. Kelley—3 0 7 7 8 0 0 5 14 0 11 11. Total—71. High run—11. Scratch—1.

BRUSSEL BEATS McMANIMAN

Wins Close Match in National Class B Balkline Billiard Match.

Sidney M. Brussel, the playing-through champion, scored a victory in the national Class B 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament at the Brooklyn Billiard Academy last night when he defeated Merritt P. McManiman by a score of 200 to 186. It was the fourth game in the tourney being held under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players.

A remarkable feature of the game was the fact that McManiman led up to the thirty-second inning, when Brussel inserted his high run of 23 and took the lead by a score of 129 to 110. From then on it was a nip and tuck battle between them, Brussel holding the lead but never being able to attain a commanding working margin. McManiman held him closely all the way, and it was not until Brussel made his two hundredth point that he really felt certain of victory.

The match was a mixture of good and bad billiards. The game consumed fifty-seven innings and was replete with many misses by both players. Incidentally, both men were frequently favored by Dame Fortune and made many scratch shots. In the breaks of the game Brussel was the more fortunate, and to this, in a measure, his victory can be attributed.

The score by innings:

S. M. Brussel—1 1 3 11 14 5 5 0 0 0 0 10 0 8 1 7 8 2 0 1 1 2 2 13 3 3 1 4 0 5 23 13 2 1 5 7 0 0 4 8 1 0 2 1 1 2 9 0 1 4 1 1 2 0 3 3. Total—200. Average, 3 20-57. High run, 23.

POET WOULD REDUCE EX-KAISER'S INCOME

COMES BACK FROM EUROPE

Alfred Noyes, the English poet, who is a member of the Faculty at Princeton, arrived here yesterday on the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam to spend three months at the university. He said there was an intense feeling throughout England that those who had caused all the suffering from the war should be made to pay and not be allowed to get off scot free.

"The ex-Kaiser and his son," he continued, "should not be permitted to live in luxury in Holland while the victims of their iniquitous conduct, the people of England, will have to pay 50 per cent. of their income in taxes for the next fifty years as a result of this war. If the former Emperor and Crown Prince cannot be actually punished in their bodies they should have their incomes reduced to £1,000 and £500 a year, respectively, so that they could live in petty state and wear gold-laced uniforms.

"The conditions in Ireland are serious," Mr. Noyes said, "but thinking people in England are more concerned today as to how to stop the attempt that is being made by certain persons and newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic to create ill-feeling between the United States and Great Britain. England will pay all her debts to America, even if all her sons have to take their money out of the banks to do it, so there is no need for any alarm on that score.

"This trouble-making propaganda is being helped by misleading cable dispatches from Washington to London and from the British metropolis to Washington."

The labor situation in England, Mr. Noyes said, was much better.

Nicol Schattenstein, a Polish portrait painter, who arrived on the Nieuw Amsterdam, said he left Vienna on Jan. 22 after living in Austria since the armistice was signed in 1918.

"The conditions in which the women and children are existing today," he said, "are unbelievable in this so-called twentieth century of civilization. The people of Vienna, once the gayest capital in Europe, are literally starving to death. The food that has been sent into the country for their relief was like a drop of water in the Atlantic Ocean. It is not safe to go out after dark in the streets of the city because of robbers. I found conditions bad in Germany, but they were princely compared with Austria, which is worse off than Russia now."

Prince Casimir Poniatowski and the Princess, who was Miss Elizabeth Sperry of San Francisco, came on a visit to her old home, which she has not seen for fifteen years. Another passenger was Prince Michael Gargarine and the Princess, on their way to Washington, where he will take up his post as Secretary at the Embassy.

Steward of Almighty God

What was the secret of Lincoln's power?

He revealed it once in a letter to a personal friend:

"I hold myself as an instrument of Providence. I have my own views and purposes. I have my convictions of duty and my notions of what is right.

"But I am conscious at every moment that all that I am, all that I have is subject to the control of a Higher Power."

"An instrument of Providence"—a steward of Almighty God—in that conviction lay his mastery.

To promote a wider consideration of the claims of Christian stewardship, both inside the churches and out, the Protestant denominations of America have set aside February, the month of Lincoln and Washington, as Christian Stewardship Month, climaxing on Sunday, Feb. 22, as nation-wide Stewardship Acknowledgment Sunday.

Interchurch Calendar

February

Christian Stewardship Educational Period;
February 22, Stewardship Acknowledgment Sunday;
February 29, Life Service Enlistment Sunday.

March

April

April 4, Easter Sunday, Join-the-Church Day.

These are fundamentals of Stewardship:

1. The recognition that life and all its possessions, are a trust from Almighty God.
2. The determination to execute this trust by setting aside a certain definite first proportion of time and income in His name and for His work.

America's problems are spiritual and must find their final solution in the increase of the spirit of Lincoln.

The spirit of Christian stewardship that subordinates selfishness to service, and asks not: "How much can I get?" but "How much can I give?"

Will you dedicate some definite proportion of your income to His cause?

MOVES TO STOP SOCIALIST TRIAL

MUST GO ON, MARTIN RULES

REPUBLICANS BEHIND STEP

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—Holding that the evidence presented by the counsel for the Judiciary Committee against the five suspended Socialist Assemblymen was insufficient to warrant their expulsion, Assemblyman William W. Pellet, Republican of the Tenth (Manhattan) District, who is a member of the committee, called a special meeting after today's session to suggest that the proceedings be dropped and the Socialists restored to their seats.

"There is no need of going on with the trial, in my opinion," Mr. Pellet told the committee. "No evidence sufficient to unseat the five men has been adduced."

He stated that while he had no desire to offer any motion to stop the proceedings, he had asked that the members be called together so that he might learn their views.

Chairman Martin maintained that the committee had no power to end the proceedings now. "We are charged with making an investigation," he said. "How can we do it properly without hearing both sides? In fairness to the Socialists we must hear their side."

The meeting ended without any formal action and the hearing will be resumed on Tuesday morning, following an adjournment which the Socialists' counsel requested. They will begin their affirmative defense next week, with Morris Hillquit, their chief counsel, in charge. He will arrive here Saturday from Saranac Lake for conferences.

After the meeting of the committee it was learned that Mr. Pellet had been acting in behalf of a group of Republican Assemblymen, a majority of them hailing from New York City, who share his view that insufficient evidence has been adduced and who are preparing to take concerted action to end the proceedings next week, expecting aid from up-State members who up to the present have been regarded as firmly committed to the ouster program put into effect by Speaker Sweet.

Reports have reached the Capitol telling with some detail how prominent Republicans in New York City, headed by Herbert Parsons and Ogden L. Mills, who took a definite stand in opposition to Speaker Sweet's summary procedure, have been trying, with a measure of success, to line up the "progressive" and anti-Barnes element in the Republican organization against the Speaker.

On the surface, however, there is no indication of any revolt, and adherents of the Speaker profess the utmost confidence that the proceedings will end with the permanent expulsion of the Socialists.

Gilbert E. Roe, of Socialist counsel, made a short argument at the close of the hearing this afternoon on motions to strike out certain parts of the testimony. Chairman Martin's rulings differed according to the relevancy of the testimony, and although some evidence was excluded, the Chairman allowed, generally, a wide latitude. Mr. Roe also contended that the committee's counsel had failed to convert the hearing into a proceeding to expel the members under the provisions of the legislative law, since they had failed to sign the charges required by the law. He argued that the hearing was merely a test of the Socialist Assemblymen's qualifications, and that the law clearly provided that the only proper tests were tests on constitutional qualifications, such as age and residence.

A speech on Russia by Wilfred M. Humphries, a Y. M. C. A. worker, delivered at a meeting on Nov. 7, when August Claessens, one of the suspended quintet, referred to this country as "The United States of Thieves," was read into the record by Mr. Block of Socialist counsel. It painted a picture of peace and order under the Soviet Government.

Roe Defends Socialists in War.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—In denying the motion of Socialist counsel to strike out nearly half of the evidence adduced against the suspended Assemblymen today, Chairman Martin stated the Judiciary Committee was capable of determining for itself what evidence was relevant. He had closely analyzed the first 615 pages of the record and had found ninety-two "quite important," he said.

"I do not think that any evidence at all has been produced here from which you can report that these men are disqualified," said Gilbert E. Roe, of the defense counsel. "We find that there is nothing here, when you strike out the immaterial matter, except the Socialist Party platform, which we have known for years, and some more or less intemperate political speeches to which no importance attaches."

Denials of Dutch Government Are Doubted in Holland.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 11.—Although the Dutch Government vigorously denies a rumor that German munitions and war material are being exported to Holland, these rumors are gaining credence daily.

It is also stated that a Mexican mission which recently passed through Holland for Germany made large purchases of war material.

Some satisfaction is expressed here that the Government has bought the former American Embassy in Raughstrasse, Berlin, for the Dutch Legation.

Marked Decline in Food Prices in Chicago Wholesale Markets

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—A marked reduction in the price of many foodstuffs was noted in wholesale markets today, foreshadowing, in the opinion of experts, a corresponding lowering of retail prices throughout the country.

The articles principally affected were flour, butter, eggs and potatoes. Fresh eggs from the country, candled and sorted, were sold to the retailer today for 56½ cents a dozen. Only a few weeks ago the same quality of eggs were wholesaling at 92 cents.

Butter, selling today at 61 cents, was selling to the retailer in December at 75 cents.

Potatoes, wholesaling at $4.65 to $4.85 per 100 pounds, were wholesaling two weeks ago for $5.25 to $5.75.

Dispatches from Minneapolis told of a second 50-cent drop in flour within a week, making the price $1 lower for wholesale quotations than a week ago.

In Chicago bakers' flour dropped another 25 cents a barrel today, making a decline of 50 cents in a week.

SOCIALISTS MENACE NAVY, SAYS SWEET

Speaker of Assembly Asserts People Would Not Sleep if They Knew Facts.

DEFENDS ACTS AT ALBANY

Steuben County Society Hears A. B. Houghton and McAdoo Support Free Speech.

If the people of the United States realized the extent to which Socialist ideas have permeated the navy they would not sleep nights until every vestige of a Socialist idea was eliminated from the first line of defense, Thaddeus C. Sweet, Speaker of the New York State Assembly, told the members of the Steuben County Society at their annual dinner at the Hotel Commodore last night. He said this statement was made to him last Sunday by a high official of the navy, who congratulated him on his drive against the five Socialist Assemblymen now on trial before the Judiciary Committee at Albany.

Mr. Sweet said there was no politics behind his attack on the Socialists on trial. "Some have given them aid and comfort because they pose as a political party," he declared. "They have no right to be called a political party. They have as little right to be a political party as the followers of Mohammed have to call themselves a political party. They are against everything that our Constitution stands for. They are opposed to our flag, they are opposed to purity, to motherhood, to womankind, to the Church and the home. They have their own flag. It's a red flag and I want to say that as long as I have any influence in this State there will be no room here for the red flag or for the man who stands for the red flag."

Can't Serve Two Masters.

"Knowing as I did the true conditions, familiar as I became with what these men stood for through the work of an investigation committee, knowing that these men represented a dues-paying organization which is bound to support the Third International at Moscow, bound to obey the dictates of an executive committee composed of men like Victor Berger and Eugene Debs, who have been sentenced to serve twenty years for violating our Espionage act—knowing all these things I cannot fail to do as I have done. I know that these men cannot swear to support the Constitution of the United States and also to support their own organization.

"The men who have seen fit to stand for the bloody régime of Lenin and Trotsky are unworthy of claiming the title of American citizenship. There is no politics in this issue. It is the plain duty of every American citizen to act as I have done. These men who made an enemy of an allied nation have no common cause with Americanism.

"Our duty is to educate the foreigner, to teach him American ideas, but this has been neglected until today there are enrolled in this city 500,000 radicals from foreign lands. There is room here for the people who come from foreign shores provided they come here to become useful citizens and to accept America as the land of equal opportunity. But if they come here to foment class hatred and discontent they have no room here and they had better pack up their tin trunks and return to the land whence they came.

Congratulated on Stand.

"Only last Sunday a prominent official in the navy congratulated me on my activities along this line. He said that if the American people realized how much the navy was permeated by Socialist ideas they would not sleep until every vestige of such an idea was eradicated. Like Theodore Roosevelt, I believe there is room here for but one flag, one language and one loyalty.

Mr. Sweet took issue with Congress and Alanson B. Houghton, a previous speaker, who said he would vote against the proposed sedition bills in Congress because they proposed to limit freedom of discussion. Houghton said he could not see any success if the country embarked on a course of repression involving the most valuable right of the people, the right to discuss freely their own affairs. In so far as legislation was being presented that would limit free discussion, no matter how radical or revolutionary, he said he would oppose it.

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, took a similar stand and said that what America stands for will break down the Bolshevism of Russia, that the Bolshevism of Russia will never break down America. There need be no worry for the future of the country, he said, so long as the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech, assemblage and press, and right of trial by jury existed. He thought attacks on radicals were being unduly magnified by some people.

Other speakers were Mayor Hylan and William W. Clark, Associate Justice of the Appellate Division. Thomas Hassett presided.

SHIPLACOFF FOR GERMANS.

He Says So—Calls Treaty Unjust and Assemblymen "Boobs."

Speaking in protest against the suspension of the Socialist Assemblymen, Alderman Abraham I. Shiplacoff told his hearers at a meeting in the Queens County Labor Lyceum last night that the Assembly was made up of "poor boobs," while his fellow-Aldermen were a "bunch of hypocrites." Referring to President Wilson he said: "The little tin god in the White House has collapsed."

"The conditions imposed on the German people," he declared, "are the greatest injustice ever perpetrated by a group of countries, and it won't be long before they realize they went too far. There is enough lust left in the German people, and the time will soon come when millions of workingmen will take up the fight against the Hohenzollerns of Washington, Paris and other parts of the world.

"If I am to be charged with pro-Germanism, and probably there are Department of Justice agents here," Shiplacoff continued, "let them take this down: I am for the German people as I always was, and we always were."

Resolutions were adopted by the hundred persons present calling upon the Assemblymen from Queens to vote for reseating the Socialists.

Broker Out on Heavy Bail Directed Deal in Washington, Says Youthful Prisoner.

With the rounding up of three additional prisoners in the plot by which during the last six months, the police declare, brokerage houses in the financial district have been robbed of securities valued at more than $2,000,000, Richard Murphy, Assistant District Attorney, yesterday revealed that in admissions made by four of the accused men they declared they had obtained only a little more than $20,000 for the stolen securities.

Irving and Joseph Gluck of Mount Vernon, N. Y., who with William J. Furey, better known in the upper Tenderloin district as "Big Bill," were arrested in front of the Woolworth Building Tuesday afternoon, in a statement made early yesterday to Detectives Mayer, Brown and McDonald of the Detective Division, implicated in the robberies Herbert Bunora, 19 years old, of 1,900 Longfellow Avenue, the Bronx, and the latter's brother, Rudolph Bunora, 22 years old, of 923 East Tremont Avenue, the Bronx. The detectives went to the homes of the Bunora brothers at daylight and hurried them to Police Headquarters, where they were questioned for several hours. They admitted, the detectives declared, taking part in many of the thefts.

Detectives last night arrested Harry Wolf, 32 years old, merchant Hary Wolf, 32 years old, merchant of 910 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, on a charge of receiving from Herbert Bunora securities valued at $20,000, part of the theft by Bunora of $140,000 in securities from Warren & Crane, brokers, at 74 Broadway, on Nov. 15 last. Wolf was found at his home by Detectives Newman and Cooper, and was taken to Police Headquarters, where, after being questioned, he was locked up for the night. He will be arraigned in the Tombs Court this morning.

After the detectives, aided by Assistant District Attorney Murphy, had obtained what they declared were full confessions from the Gluck brothers and the Bunora brothers they were arraigned before Magistrate Harris in the Tombs Court, and each was held in $100,000 bail for examination next Saturday. Furey also was arraigned. He vigorously protested against being held in such high bail, declaring the amount was almost equal to that named in the short affidavit drawn up by Detective Brown against the five men.

In his affidavit Detective Brown accused the five of being suspected of larcenies of securities valued at $107,700 from twelve brokerage houses in the financial district within the last two months. Mr. Murphy explained to the Magistrate, however, that additional charges of similar larcenies would be made later against all of the men, and that Furey also would be accused of extortion, impersonating an official, having narcotics in his possession and violating the Sullivan law.

Women Talk to Prisoner.

While he was awaiting arraignment before the Magistrate two fashionably dressed women engaged in conversation with Furey as he stood behind the prisoners' rail. The detectives said later the women were actresses. The detectives said Furey informed them that one of the women was his wife, and she was permitted to converse with him at Furey's request.

The recording of the admissions of the four youths arrested with Furey took the better part of yesterday, and the detailed story of many details of the thefts of securities from brokers' offices and messengers employed by firms in the financial district which the detectives had not succeeded in drawing from the Gluck brothers on Tuesday night were obtained from them and from the Bunora brothers yesterday forenoon, when Mr. Murphy questioned them.

Herbert Bunora admitted that on Oct. 27 last, under the name of Irving Parnell, he obtained employment as a messenger with Clarke, Childs & Co., brokers, at 135 Broadway, and that when securities, valued at $148,000, were intrusted to him by the firm, he took them to Joseph Gluck, who was waiting for him at the Pennsylvania Station, and that Gluck immediately started with some of the bonds, valued at $21,000, for Washington, D. C.

At that point, Mr. Murphy interrupted Bunora to learn from Joseph Gluck what became of the securities. Gluck told a story implicating David W. Sullivan, head of David W. Sullivan & Co., Wall Street, who is now out on $50,000 bail on an indictment returned against him in this city several months ago charging him with receiving hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of stolen securities, which the police traced through seizure of the books of his firm.

Gluck declared he met Sullivan by appointment at the Pennsylvania Station and that when Herbert Bunora gave him the $21,000 worth of securities he joined, on the train, Sullivan and two other men who have not been seen since. On the journey to Washington, Gluck told the Assistant District Attorney, he showed Sullivan and the other two men the stolen securities and he said that at Sullivan's suggestion, on the arrival of the four men in Washington, Gluck called on Henry C. Lambson, a note broker in that city.

Gets $14,000 From Bank.

Gluck said he asked Lambson for $18,000 for the stolen securities, but the latter declared he had only $4,000 with him. Gluck related that, at Lambson's suggestion, he accompanied the note broker to the National Savings and Trust Company in Washington, where Lambson offered the stolen securities which Gluck had given him as collateral for a loan of $14,000. The trust company accepted the securities, Gluck said, and gave Lambson the money in new $1 bills. The police withheld information about what division was made of the $14,000 received by Lambson from the trust company. When the police were investigating the activities of Sullivan they learned his home was in Washington and that his firm conducted a branch office there.

It was explained by the detectives yesterday that, after the Washington trust company had accepted the bonds from Lambson, an official called up the Equitable Trust Company with which their New York representative, and informed one of the officials of the Equitable Company of the transaction with Lambson. A general alarm had been sent out to financial institutions in the Wall Street district after the disappearance of Herbert Bunora with the $148,000 in securities from Clark, Child & Co., and the New York official immediately identified the securities as part of the theft. The police were informed of the matter, and it was through information received in Washington that David W. Sullivan came under suspicion as a clearing house for stolen securities.

"Big Bill" Furey refused to make any statement to the detectives or to Assistant District Attorney Murphy.

BALK ON COAL SETTLEMENT.

Kentucky Operators Quit in Dispute Over Retroactive Wages.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—After the Coal Strike Settlement Commission had agreed today to render a decision as to making the 14 per cent. wage increase retroactive to Oct. 1 in the Kentucky fields, the Kentucky Operators' Association refused to submit to the jurisdiction of the commission and withdrew from the hearing.

This was the first refusal by operators in any field to accept the commission's settlement of questions involved in the strike. The representatives of the mine workers presented their side of the case, but President Robinson did not indicate what course the commission might pursue in view of the refusal of the operators to give their views.

Navy Dirigible to Try Atlantic Flight On Completion in England Next Fall

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Crews are already undergoing training for the transatlantic flight next Fall of a United States dirigible, Captain Thomas T. Craven, Director of Naval Aviation, told the House Naval Affairs Committee today. The first American lighter-than-air machine to attempt to equal the feat of the British R-34 is now being built for the United States Navy in England.

Captain Craven imparted this information while pleading for an appropriation of $2,500,000 for the erection of a super-dirigible larger than any in the world. This, he said, would be fifty feet longer than Great Britain's 644-foot craft, now under construction, and would carry more armament than any similar airship. A feature of the armament would be a new aircraft gun now being developed by the navy.

"The dirigible we have under contemplation will cost $500,000 more than the one now being built for the navy in England," Captain Craven told the committee. "It will be modeled along the lines of the big ship now being built, which will be completed the last of this Summer. Crews are now being trained in England to fly this ship across the Atlantic next Fall. The larger ship we have planned will be built in this country after the other ship has arrived from England, and its construction will require at least a year. The proposed dirigible will require about 2,700,000 cubic feet of gas, and it is estimated that about $800,000 will be required for its annual maintenance, as the outer cloth covering must be renewed each year."

Captain Craven informed the committee that the department had a large dirigible base at Pensacola, Fla., and hoped to continue naval stations at Chatham, Mass.; Rockaway Beach, L. I.; Cape May, N. J.; Anacostia, D. C.; Charleston, N. C.; Pensacola, San Diego, Cal., Panama and Hawaii.

NEW PARIS FASHIONS SHOW SEVERE LINES

NO EMBROIDERY IS USED

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The great week of the Spring fashion exhibitions has begun and buyers from America and every other country in the world are here in even greater numbers than before the war. After today's shows the American buyers expressed themselves well content with what they had seen. The new fashions, they say, will appeal to American women.

The principal change in design from last year's fashion is in the lengthening of the skirt. Costumes and street dresses, on the other hand, are still being kept short in deference to the prevalent style of dancing. In some of the new models, however, flying panels of lighter materials than the dress drop over the skirt in long points.

Everything is being made on somewhat severe lines and fitting closely. Walking skirts especially are very straight and narrow, except at the hips, where a slight fullness is given, which tends to ease in dress. This is arranged by the cut of the waist, which gives the appearance of being longer at the back than at the front.

Embroidery, which has enjoyed a long reign, has disappeared from everything. Instead glass beads of varying sizes and bright colors, mostly red and green, are being used. These are placed in rows around the collar and cuffs, as was the fashion in the Winter, but they are also plentifully used to make Chinese and Persian designs on the coat and skirt. These designs are very effectively worked and are of striking appearance. The beads are, of course, small, especially on the lower part of the skirt and front of the coat, and they give a very smart appearance to the new costumes.

Costumes and coats are of medium length, long waisted and without belts. Over the hips they still fall with some fullness. Both in them and in other dresses high collars, mostly of the Medici pattern, have been reintroduced. The choice of a high neck or low, V-shaped, square or round, is left to the purchaser, for there are all kinds.

For afternoon and evening frocks the fight between straight models and panniered seems still to be going on.

Some houses show one, some another. The style of 1830 seems, however, to be winning, and in taffetas, which are being largely used, some of the models are very near crinoline, which has come back into its own and for evening wear seems likely to equal beads on the serge frock in popularity.

Everything shown on these first two days of the exhibitions has been pronounced in good taste and of a moderation that will appeal as well abroad as in Paris.

SAY NITTI IS READY TO MAKE CONCESSIONS

Belief in Italy He Will Not Insist on Enforcement of the Adriatic Treaty.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Feb. 11.—Premier Nitti, who is journeying to the London conference, is backed by a big Parliamentary majority as well in the Senate as in the lower chamber in favor of settling the Adriatic question by compromise instead of insisting on the enforcement of the secret compact of London, as it is called here.

Such modification as the political opinion of this country has lately undergone on the subject is the outcome of Nitti's refusal to countenance what he himself has termed the "absurd thesis" of the Adriatic as a purely Italian lake, and even more to the clear manner in which he has given Parliament to understand that the bona fide execution of the treaty of London would oblige the Italian Government to take the initial step in securing the evacuation of Fiume and then to participate in the formal consignment of that city to Croatia.

Hitherto the bulwark of political opposition in Italy to a compromise has been, as Signor Nitti is careful to point out, the mistaken supposition that in applying the secret treaty of London to the Adriatic coast Fiume could be left out with the reserved right of self-decision.

BOLSHEVIKI CROSS THE SEA OF AZOV

REPORT DENIKIN IN CRIMEA

Transport, with 1,400 Refugees Aboard, Said to Have Been Sunk by Volunteer Guns.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The War Office announces that the Bolsheviki in Southern Russia have crossed the Sea of Azov from Taganrog and succeeded in gaining a footing on the southern coast between the Don and Yeya rivers.

The remnants of the army of General Denikin, anti-Bolshevist leader in Southern Russia, are retreating southward, according to a wireless dispatch from Moscow today. General Denikin has proceeded to Yalta, in the Crimea, the message asserts.

Another dispatch from the Soviet Government says:

"According to a message from Novorossyisk, when the volunteer transport Karantin, with officers and officials and their wives and children aboard, numbering 1,400, left Mariupol (in the Russian Province of Ekaterinoslav) on the approach of the Bolsheviki, the volunteer army, incensed at being left behind, fired on the ship. A shell pierced a boiler and the transport sank with all aboard."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 9 (Associated Press).—The latest information received here from Odessa says that the Bolshevist army is now in control of the city. Ten thousand refugees are on ships in the harbor awaiting escape. Russian officers and other refugees are marching in small bands to Tiraspol, seventy-three miles northwest of Odessa, on the Rumanian border.

The British battleship Ajax, three British destroyers and a French gunboat are standing by. The British cruiser Ceres is towing a steamer loaded with refugees to Varna, Bulgaria, and the American destroyer Biddle is en route to Constanza with refugees. It is reported an Italian steamer filled with refugees is signaling that she is in distress off Serpent's Island in the Black Sea.

Preparations have been made to receive many refugees on the Princes Islands, the warship Bristol directing the work. Proti Island, the northernmost of the Princes Islands, has been assigned to the Americans, where the Red Cross and the Near East Relief Commission will handle 500 persons.

NEW STORY OF KOLCHAK'S END

Slain by His Own Troops to Prevent Rescue, It Is Said.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Admiral Kolchak was executed by his own troops to prevent his rescue by White Troops moving in the direction of Irkutsk for that purpose, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to The Herald. The Moscow Soviet sent a wireless message asking his captors to spare his life, but the appeal was too late.

ARRESTED GIRL WINS.

Judge, Rebuking Detectives, Reverses Emily Hoffman's Conviction.

Judge Wadhams in General Sessions yesterday severely criticised the Police Department for permitting detectives to induce young women to commit crimes. He declared there was crime enough in the city without detectives spending the city's money to induce others to violate the law. Judge Wadhams's criticism followed his reversal of Magistrate Mancuso's conviction and suspension of sentence on Emily Hoffman, a Brooklyn high school graduate, who was arrested by Detectives Sorger and Wheelright of Inspector McDonald's "Vice Squad" in November last on a charge of violating the tenement house law.

"The record of this case is scandalous," declared Judge Wadhams. "It shocks the sense of decency." He then directed Assistant District Attorney Smith to begin an inquiry to learn by what authority the detectives spent the city's money in the hiring of taxicabs to take Emily Hoffman and a girl companion from their apartment in West Ninty-fourth Street to Healy's restaurant at midnight on the morning of their arrest, to buy them drinks in the restaurant, to dance with them and then, three hours later, to take them back to their apartment in another taxicab paid for by the city. Judge Wadhams also ordered the clerk of the court to forward a copy of the opinion to Police Commissioner Enright. In part he said:

"I think there is a reasonable doubt upon the record as to the guilt of the defendant. The officer's own conduct is such as to absolutely destroy the credit of his testimony. It is obvious that his conduct makes him unworthy of belief under oath.

"This Court will not sustain a judgment of conviction where from the testimony it appears that the crime was procured to be committed by the acts of the police.

GITLOW, ANARCHIST, GETS LIMIT SENTENCE

HEAD OF RADICAL PAPER

No Extenuating Circumstances, Says Court, Regretting He Could Not Lighten Punishment.

Justice Weeks in the Supreme Court yesterday imposed the maximum sentence of five to ten years on Benjamin Gitlow, onetime member of the Assembly, who was convicted by a jury last Friday on an indictment charging him with criminal anarchy. Justice Weeks said he had tried to find something in the testimony which would justify a lighter sentence, but had failed to find any extenuating circumstance in the prisoner's conduct.

Gitlow, who was business manager of The Revolutionary Age, a publication of radical tendencies, was convicted of conspiring to publish in the magazine the manifesto of the Communist Party advocating overthrow of government. He refused to testify, but made a long speech to the jurors a few days ago, in which he attempted to justify the publication of the manifesto.

Sheriff David H. Knott and Deputy Sheriff Burke took Gitlow to a train for Sing Sing. Before sentence was pronounced Alexander I. Rorke, Assistant District Attorney, who prosecuted Gitlow, addressed Justice Weeks as follows:

"The defendant, while a member of the Socialist Party, was elected to the Assembly of New York State a few years ago. He took an oath at that time to support the Constitution of the United States and of this State. He was also pledged to support the constitution of the Socialist Party, which made his expulsion from membership in that party mandatory in the event he voted for war or war credits. His allegiance was divided between two masters during the most critical war period in the history of our country. The natural inference is that he was disloyal to the United States.

"In 1918 and 1919 he cast his fortunes with a band of notoriously criminal anarchists. By spoken, printed, and written word this group of brainy, well-educated, well-financed, and well-defended social revolutionaries, both citizens and aliens, advocated, taught, and advised among the toilers of our country the doctrine that America was brutal to workmen and that there was no hope to better their condition by constitutional means.

"They thought also that there was no remedy through the ballot and the Legislature and that the only remedy lay in the toilers' precipitating civil war, annihilating all classes of society, seizing all property, and destroying the Government of the United States.

Gitlow is 29 years old. He lived with his parents at 257 Hopkins Street, Brooklyn. He is a clothing cutter by trade, but, he said after his conviction, he gave up his job at $41 a week to become business manager of The Revolutionary Age at $30 a week. He was born in New Jersey, he said, and was educated in the public schools of this city. He was a student for three years in a high school in Brooklyn. He said he was the only support of his parents. Gitlow was considered one of the most eloquent of Socialist speakers who opposed entrance of the United States to the war.

Walter Gabriel of 50 Hobson Street, Newark, Secretary of the Communist Party in New Jersey, was found guilty by a jury in the Court of Quarter Sessions last night of belonging to an organization advocating the overthrow of the Government by force and also of advocating the same thing himself in the First Criminal Court when he was arraigned after his arrest in a raid Jan. 2.

CAUTIOUS ON PLAN TO TRADE WITH REDS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—Inquiries have been made by the State Department of the British and French Governments regarding the practical application of the plan for trading with Soviet Russia, and pending further consideration of the matter the whole question is under advisement by the American Government, with the prospect that President Wilson will make the decision as to whether there is to be any lifting by this country of its embargo.

Reports have reached Washington that the Russian Co-operative Society in New York has placed an order for $1,000,000 worth of agricultural implements to be shipped to Southern Russia, and that application had been made by it for the necessary export permit. It is learned on high authority that in a number of cases in the past permits have been granted to the Russian Co-operative Societies to ship into that part of South Russia which was then under the control of General Denikin, but not into Soviet Russia. These permits have not been revoked and there has been no change in the previous rules, under which export permits would be issued for shipments into non-Soviet Russia, and refused for shipments to Soviet Russia.

Lloyd George's statement that until the Allies are "assured that the Bolsheviki have dropped the methods of barbarism in favor of civilized government, no civilized community in the world is prepared to make peace with them," has struck responsive notes here, but whether it will have the effect of swinging American official sentiment around in favor of the allied trade plan remains to be disclosed.

Should the United States not participate in the proposed trade which the allied and neutral nations, under the Supreme Council's plan, would inaugurate with Soviet Russia, it is doubtful if that trade would reach any great proportions. It is thought probable here that the allied countries, as a result of economic exhaustion caused by the war, may not be able to send any great amount of goods into Russia even if that country were able at this time to send back a considerable amount of flax and grain, or other goods.

DANES WIN BY 3 TO 1.

Plebiscite in North Schleswig Is Almost Completed.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 11.—Latest reports as to the result of the plebiscite held yesterday in Schleswig show that Denmark secured 72,733 votes against 24,793. Only a few districts have not been heard from.

In spite of the bad weather which prevailed, more than 90 per cent. of the people in the first Schleswig plebiscite zone voted during the day, and about 75 per cent. voted in favor of Danish sovereignty. In the country districts there were virtually no German votes, only descendants of German settlers casting their ballots in favor of Germany.

A comparatively large percentage of the German votes were recorded in the larger towns, partially because of a decision of the Supreme Council allowing all persons born in a voting zone, not excepting children, German officials and soldiers in garrisons, to vote.

Between midnight and 3 o'clock this morning huge, enthusiastic crowds assembled in the Town Hall Square. The crowds marched to the King's palace, singing and cheering for Schleswig's new sovereign, who is expected will shortly cross the old border mounted on a white charger.

Church of England to Keep Pulpit Closed to Women

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Lower House of Convocation of Canterbury decided yesterday not to allow women to take a more active part in services of the Church of England.

Canon Temple moved the adoption of a report of a joint committee which had considered the subject and recommended that it should be permissible for women, fully qualified by a Bishop, to speak and pray in consecrated buildings at services of meetings for prayer or instruction other than regular and appointed services of the Church.

Canon Temple said there were devoted daughters of the Church who were asking, some clamorously, others patiently but not less insistently, what were the grounds on which prohibition against their ministration was maintained.

"If they are grounds of custom only, is it not time that custom was altered in consequence of the general change in women's position in society?" he asked.

The Dean of Canterbury opposed the resolution on the ground "of the statements of St. Paul on the subject of the uniform practice of the Church in the past."

HOPES CULPRITS WON'T DIVIDE ALLIES

FEARS BREACH OF TREATY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The Temps in a semi-official statement thus outlines the policy of the French Government with regard to the extradition of German war criminals:

"Now that the list has been sent to Germany, and Germany shows an intention of not handing over the accused men, it is a question what will be the Allied attitude.

"The policy of France is to avoid two dangers. France doesn't wish that the question of the war culprits divide the Allies, nor does she wish that it open a breach of the Peace Treaty. We do not wish to divide the Allies on a problem which so much relates to the past and which is juridical rather than political. If the Germans believe that they have only to resist to cause discord among the Allies they will keep on resisting. The peace will be only a succession of crises. That will not help anybody, not even Germany.

"We do not wish to open a breach in the treaty, for that will expose us to an infinite number of other breaches. It is not egotistic preoccupation that dictates our policy. If we undertake to revise the treaty French interests will not be the most menaced. But we do not want to practice the policy of a scrap of paper. We do not wish to give militarism the encouragement it would get from the failure of the treaty. The victorious nations must remain united. To tear up the treaty today would be to tear up our union. It is, then, a question of applying the treaty.

"We read in Article 229 the provision for the judgment of the accused. These texts are clear and imperative. These texts must be changed if we wish to bring the accused men before German tribunals, or neutral tribunals, or any other kind of tribunals except those provided for.

"Shall we modify these provisions? We have just said we were opposed to any move which would annul the stipulations of the treaty. Besides, how can one think seriously of German tribunals or neutral tribunals? To ask German judges to condemn their own citizens in such circumstances would be to renounce all justice or to stir up civil war in Germany. To hand this task over to neutrals would be to throw upon them a responsibility for which they are not prepared and which they would probably not accept. It all comes back to this: We must execute the treaty.

"Suppose Germany refuses to give up the criminals. Articles 228, 229 and 230 provide no means for obtaining them. But we are none the less bound to undertake before our military tribunals proceedings against those whom we have designated. It is essential that the proceedings be open. It is necessary that the guilty be judged, even if in contumacy. The absence of the accused would not prevent producing proofs of their crimes, hearing witnesses and giving the widest publicity to the affair. In the whole world the facts would be known and justice would be established. Universal public opinion would pronounce its verdict. And if the guilty raise their voices to cry that they were not present, we can demand, 'Why were you not present?' It is a chastisement to be condemned by the conscience of mankind.

"As for Germany, if she should not give up the accused, she would have defaulted on her engagements. She would have given to the Allies the right to apply the general sanctions of the treaty against non-fulfillment. When and to what extent they should use this right would be a question to examine later. For the moment it suffices to mention that right.

PRINCE GETS NO REPLY.

Offer of Sacrifice for Other Culprits Evokes No Response.

WIERINGEN, Feb. 11.—As far as the villagers of Wieringen know, former Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany has not received any answer to his telegram sent to the Kings of Great Britain, Belgium, and Italy, the Emperor of Japan, and the Presidents of the United States and France, offering to surrender to the Allies for trial.

Through his aide, Frederick William sent word to the Associated Press correspondent that he could not answer any questions on the subject of his offer. He busied himself today in a boxing bout with a professional instructor who came to Wieringen from Amsterdam this morning.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 10.—Former Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany sent his telegram to heads of allied Governments, offering to surrender in place of Germans demanded in the allied extradition list, almost on the impulse of the moment, according to an interview with Major von Mulnheim, the Former Crown Prince's Adjutant, published in the Telegraaf.

"The former heir to the German throne," said the Major, "took his resolution without thinking long about it. The return of Baron von Lersner from Paris, and the serious situation which has arisen in Berlin in consequence, prompted the Prince to send his telegram. He hopes by this to avert serious difficulties for Germany."

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—Chancellor Bauer said this morning to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"The Government will stand or fall with the contention that the extradition of those blacklisted for trial by an Entente Court is a physical and moral impossibility. Nevertheless, the Government has no intention of disavowing the obligations accepted by the signing of the Peace Treaty, but still hopes that the Enten will judicously devise some plan making the punishment of the real culprits possible in a manner that will not outrage all feelings of decency and tend only to create sympathy among the people for even those blacklisted persons who really deserve ruthless prosecution.

"To that end Germany's diplomatic representative leaves for Paris tonight, hoping that some understanding may be reached, based upon our note of Jan. 25."

This statement seems to epitomize the attitude of all sober-minded people and that of the newspaper organs of the three parties forming the present Government. The effect on the people at large has been a surprise. Enthusiastic anti-extradition demonstrations took place yesterday in many cities and towns throughout Germany. The most remarkable was a demonstration in Munich which, although originally arranged by reactionaries, quickly assumed a popular character. Thousands paraded the streets carrying flags and placards declaring against extradition, singing patriotic songs and cheering Hindenburg and Ludendorff.

There were bands playing at the Hall of Fame and vast multitudes listened to speeches made by generals in resplendent uniforms and representatives of the laboring classes. Finally the well-known Nationalist agitator Kerlin ascended the highest point of the terrace and without protest from any one began the following version of the Lord's Prayer, which then rose repeated:

"Our Father in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Maintain for us our German name and do not let us sink into shame. Give us our daily bread, now and in the coming days of dire need. Forgive us our trespasses and forgive our enemies their thousandfold trespasses. Amen."

Separatism and Spartacism and all joined in "Die Wacht Am Rhein."

Tageblatt Admits Some Atrocities.

Theodor Wolff says in the Tageblatt:

"If the mere attempt [at extradition] were not bound to lead to a general collapse, civil war would involve the whole German people. Democratic Germany, and even the bitterest enemies of militarism, unanimously refuse the Entente's present demand. Nearly all the names on that list, which was composed without discernment by ignorant underlings, belong to the enem

PRICES OF CLOTHING TO GO STILL HIGHER

Retailers' Association, in Convention, Hears That Cost of Materials Will Increase.

WOOLENS UP 110 PER CENT.

Manufacturer Warns Retailers Against Speculation—Gross Sales Tax Opposed.

No prospects of lower prices for men's clothing were held out to the retailers assembled yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin for the fourth annual convention of the Retail Clothiers' Association of New York. The wholesale point of view put before them was that prices must be higher next Fall and Winter owing to the increased cost of materials.

William Goldman of Cohen, Goldman & Co., who spoke on the trend of prices from the manufacturing standpoint, told of the advances of from 50 to 110 per cent. being paid for next season's woolens. While the corner in high prices has been turned, he looked for no marked drop this year. For next Fall and Winter, he said that prices must be considerably higher than they are for the present season. There is no escaping the fact, he stated, that the machinery of both the mills and the clothing factories will be required to operate at full capacity in order to turn out the normal production. With depleted stocks throughout the country, he saw no chance of lower prices coming.

Ludwig Stein, President of the National Association of Clothiers, who was one of the speakers at the luncheon of the retailers, asserted that to him the outlook looks just as promising as it was a year ago when he predicted a prosperous future. Reports received from the merchant tailors who have already started their Spring trade showed, in his opinion, that the demand was still lively and one featured by the call for the better grades of clothing. He warned the retailers against speculation and advised them to seek good merchandise and make their purchases in keeping with their needs. Referring to present attacks on the high prices of clothing, he mentioned that the manufacturers have about decided upon an advertising campaign to put the truth concerning clothing values before the public.

Opposition to the proposed gross sales tax marked the address of Mark Eisner, former Collector of Internal Revenue. Mr. Eisner explained that such a tax is open to the same objections as the measures now complained of. What would prove most desirable, he stated, would be to shape the present taxes so that they would be applied with fairness to all concerned. In the opinion of the speaker the present high prices are due to a variety of causes and not to taxes alone. He urged those present to familiarize themselves with Government appropriation and taxation measures so that they might be in a position to keep public expenditures within reasonable bounds and thus remove the first cause of heavy taxation.

Francis J. Best, Advertising Director for Franklin Simon & Co., addressed the retailers on advertising, and other speakers were Larry Schiff, a director in the Men's Apparel Club, and James W. Elliott.

The following officers were elected: George G. Saisberg, M. Schwartz & Co., Poughkeepsie, President; Maurice Brill of Brill Brothers, First Vice President; Charles Mann of Steefel Brothers, Albany, Second Vice President; Julius M. Hoach of Brooklyn, Third Vice President; Leo Kamioner of the Hub, Treasurer, and Lawrence T. Boesen, Secretary.

J. G. Hickey, President of the Hickey-Freeman Company of Rochester, N. Y., made a statement yesterday questioning the prediction of Federal Food Controller Arthur Williams in THE NEW YORK TIMES that the price of clothing would fall, and arguing that the increases in the costs of material and in wages and the reduction in working hours made a further increase in the cost of clothing likely. He contrasted the price of materials in 1915 with prices today in the following table:

PLAN INCREASE IN FLEET.

United Fruit Company Reports $20,-165,517 Income in 15 Months.

The recently issued report of the United Fruit Company for the fifteen months ended Dec. 31, 1919, shows a net income for the period, after the deduction of expenses and taxes, amounting to $20,165,517. This was equal to $40.07 a share earned on the $50,316,500 capital stock, as compared with $14,004,046, or $28.01 a share, earned on the stock in the preceding year, ended with Sept. 30, 1918. The total surplus as of the last day of 1919 was $49,109,722, as compared with $35,040,153 on Sept. 30, 1918.

The balance sheet of the company as of Sept. 30, 1919, showed an increase in the amount of British and United States Government securities held by the company to $19,808,022, from $8,284,404 in the preceding year, while the cash item was set down as $19,810,523, as compared with $20,351,796 in 1918. The balance sheet also shows an increase in the reserves for steamship construction from $7,668,430 in 1918 to $11,687,008 in 1919, while the tax reserve was increased to $18,534,447 from $10,342,984 in the preceding year.

President Arthur W. Preston in his remarks to shareholders said that the outlook for this year is promising, and stated that eight new steamers have been ordered by the company for the United States trade, while contracts have been let for six steamships to be used in the European trade.

WEST POINT MAY GET HOTEL

House Committee Refuses Money for Barracks Extension.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Three and one-half million dollars was lopped from the annual West Point Academy appropriation bill today by the House Military Committee. Most of this was asked for new barracks and other buildings.

Two legislative riders were added. One would permit veterans of the war up to the age of 24 to enter the academy and the other would fix the academy course at four years, as it was before the war.

Under the bill as reported to the House, Secretary Baker would be authorized to permit the construction by private interests of a hotel on the reservation and regulate the rates and accommodations. The Government, however, would reserve the right to purchase the hotel after fifty years. The present appropriation for the academy amounts to $2,277,932.

Hunter College "Jubilee" Opens.

The Hunter College of the City of New York opened its four-day "jubilee" last night in celebration of its fiftieth anniversary. Dr. George S. Davis, President of the college, welcomed the alumnae and guests, and delivered the opening address in the crowded auditorium. Today will be "At Home Day" at the college.

SIMS WILL FIGHT THE RAILWAY BILL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—While the report of the conferees on the Cummins-Esch bill for control of the railroads is expected to reach the House next Monday, it will not be unanimous. Representative Thetus Sims of Tennessee, one of the conferees and the ranking Democrat of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, will file a minority report. It is expected that many Democrats will line up behind Mr. Sims when it comes to the vote on adoption of the report.

"I am unconditionally opposed," said Mr. Sims, "to the provision requiring that rates on the lines or systems be regulated so as to pay all operating costs and fixed charges and produce revenue additional thereto that will equal 5½ per cent. net income on the value of the property and railroad systems.

"I am also equally opposed to the proposed division of earnings of the railroads in excess of 6 per cent., one-half of such excess, as provided in the conference report, to be paid to the Government, which, in turn, would be required to loan the excess to the so-called weaker roads or to invest such excess in equipment which would be leased to the weaker roads.

"By providing that the railroads shall receive not less than 5½ per cent. upon the value of their property, in addition to all expenses of operation and maintenance and other fixed charges, the proposed law will enable them to pay any amount in wages demanded, continue the payment of excessive salaries to their officials, and pay any price asked for necessary supplies, because the Interstate Commerce Commission must provide for rates that will produce a net return of 5½ per cent. upon the property value of the roads in addition to the amounts paid for labor, officials' salaries, supplies, taxes and other expenses.

"I am opposed to continuing the standard return guaranteed for six months or any other period. Such a provision is simply a subsidy, and I shall oppose it for that reason."

INFLUENZA INCREASES; DECREASE IN DEATHS

Gain in Number of Cases Due to Exposure Last Week, Says Dr. Copeland.

An increased number of influenza and pneumonia cases over Tuesday was reported to the Health Department yesterday, but there was a decrease in deaths from these causes. The report showed 1,342 influenza and 604 pneumonia cases, as against 1,066 influenza and 426 cases of pneumonia on Tuesday. Within the past twenty-four hours 351 complaints of lack of heat were investigated.

The new cases and deaths from influenza and pneumonia in the boroughs were:

	—CASES.— Influ.	Pneu.	—DEATHS.— Influ.	Pneu.
Manhattan	711	290	44	71
Bronx	137	41	13	19
Brooklyn	310	223	56	65
Queens	130	16	4	18
Richmond	54	5	4	6
Total yesterday	1,342	604	101	179
Total Tuesday	1,066	426	122	227
Total Oct 23, 1918	5,390	852	461	390

"Today corresponds to the peak day of the 1918 epidemic," said Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland. "I believe the increase in new cases can be attributed to the exposure of the last week and the effect of wet feet. Now that the has come it is more important than ever before to watch individual health. I believe there will be an increase in the number of cases reported during the week.

Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, Sanitary Superintendent, said that during the last twenty-four hours summonses had been issued for 191 spitters and 77 smokers who had violated the provision of the sanitary code by spitting and smoking in subway stations.

TRENTON, Feb. 11.—The number of new cases of influenza in New Jersey reported to the State Board of Health for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight last night was 1,049 and 22 deaths. There were 199 new cases of pneumonia and 65 deaths. The total number of influenza cases in the State from Jan. 1 was 20,637 and 254 deaths, with 3,065 pneumonia cases and 878 deaths.

BROOKLYN GAS RATE IS LEFT IN DOUBT

95 CENTS IS SUGGESTED

Would Yield 5 Per Cent. on $35,000,000, Experts Say—Must Be Ready to Rebate.

The various counsel representing the people were in doubt yesterday as to how high a price the Brooklyn Union Gas Company would be permitted to charge for gas under the order of the Federal Court restraining the State, city and county authorities from taking any steps to enforce the statutory rate of 80 cents per thousand cubic feet, pending the trial of the company's suit to have the statutory rate declared unconstitutional.

The company paid dividends every year except 1919, when, it contends, the cost of manufacturing and distributing its product was only a trifle less than 80 cents. The price the company will be permitted to charge, it was said, would not exceed enough to provide dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. on the company's capital of $35,000,000.

The city and the Public Service Commission deny that the actual capital invested by the company comes anywhere near this amount. Counsel for the commission have figured that a 15 cent increase in the price would yield a 5 per cent. dividend on $35,000,000, and that every additional 5 cents would yield an additional 2 per cent. dividend, so that if the company should charge $1.10 for its gas it would be earning dividends of nearly 12 per cent.

The order to be signed by the Court will provide that the money received in excess of 80 cents shall be set aside and be returned to the consumers if the company loses its suit. It was said that the same method used by the Consolidated Company would be adopted. This was to attach to each bill given a consumer a coupon stating the amount paid. Those coupons were afterward liquidated. Some of the rebate checks were for as small an amount as three cents, and others for as much as $4,000. A total of upward of $14,000,000 was returned. About $400,000 still is held, awaiting claimants.

The Brooklyn Union Gas Company, it was said, is about half as big as the Consolidated, and figuring on this basis, the former company, at a dollar rate, would have an excess income to look after of upwards of $300,000 a month.

During the progress of the Consolidated suit a man named Richmond refused to pay the excess rate and obtained an injunction restraining the company from shutting off his gas. His contention that he could not be compelled to pay more than the statutory rate was sustained in the courts.

Terence Farley, counsel of the Public Service Commission, said yesterday the Brooklyn Union Gas Company ought not to be allowed to charge as much as $1.05 because it already had been established that such a high rate was unnecessary.

"The injunction granted the company by the Federal Court," he said, "is practically a suspension of the statute fixing the 80-cent rate. If the company seeks to charge more than 95 cents pending the trial of its suit, the commission will endeavor by legal means to keep the rate down to that figure."

Mayor Hylan directed Corporation Counsel Burr to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Burr said that an application by the city for permission to intervene in the suit of the company had been denied by the Federal Court and he intimated that the lack of the city's assistance in fighting the company's case was one reason why the company had won the injunction.

Mr. Burr said he had prepared a bill amending the Code of Civil Procedure so that the city shall be made a party in all suits affecting the rates of public utilities.

Apparel Men Meet.

The Men's Apparel Club of the State of New York yesterday held a convention at the Hotel McAlpin, followed by a beefsteak dinner last night at Reisenweber's given in honor of the visiting retailers. The entertainment following the dinner was of an elaborate nature. In the afternoon the routine business of the organization was gone through and an election of officers held. The results of the election were as follows: Archie Feise, President, Jack Goldberg, First Vice President, Meyer Goldsmith, Second Vice President, Albert C. Athas, Third Vice President and Victor Hiller, Secretary and Treasurer.

Loss for Alleged Profiteer.

John Hahn, Secretary of the National Garment Retailers' Association yesterday forwarded to Howard E. Figg, Special Assistant to the Attorney General, a sworn statement showing a loss of eleven and a third per cent. for the suit department of the Diamond Shoe and Garment Company of Charleston, W. Va., This concern was recently charged with profiteering in the sale of a garment for $98 that cost $47.80. The retailers' organization which is attempting to have the Government officials refrain from charging merchants with profiteering on the basis of but one or two items sold at larger than the normal profit.

Reserves Versus Good-Will.

While much has been said of the advantages to be obtained in establishing good will during the present difficult merchandise situation, it was stated yesterday by a manufacturer's representative that many houses do not think good will can overcome lower prices in time to come. He explained that many wholesalers are building up reserve funds which will enable them to get below their competitors' prices when the market switches in favor of the buyers. Such houses, he went on to say, are getting all the profits they can while "the gettins is good" without much consideration for the feelings of their customers. The extra profits are creating reserves that will be used later on for price-making planned to upset even the most firmly established good will.

Further Price Reductions.

Unless the rest of the country puts in a heavy call for furnishing goods, which is thought unlikely, the local retail trade will be able, it was pointed out yesterday, to stage reduction sales with prices much below those used up to date. It is stated that in shirts, gloves, and neckwear the manufacturers are beginning to ship orders that were given months ago and that surpluses are piling up where such shipments are refused. This is giving the local merchants an opportunity to get merchandise in much larger quantities than were formerly available and at lower prices. The bad weather of the past two weeks is also a factor in the considerations of those who expect to see further price-cutting.

Allotments May Be Total Sales.

From the standpoint of one clothing manufacturer, the allotments made by the mills may turn out not to be less than but all that the clothiers will require for next Fall. With the shaky position of many small jobbers, the selling agents for the mills, he said, may decide later on that the allotments made of the middlemen ought to go instead to the manufacturers as safer risks. The large stocks of overcoats to be carried over, he said, will reduce the sales to the retailer and therefore the consumption of piece goods. These two considerations, in his opinion, may make the quantity of goods required by the clothing trade less than the mills estimate.

Drug Trading Hit by Weather.

Delivery of chemicals and drugs has been delayed by the congested conditions around New York. Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, and short supplies have also restricted trading. A number of advances have been made in the last week, with some declines also shown. Among the latter are quicksilver and the so-called mercurials. In the heavy chemicals a feature is the competition which American caustic potash is getting from the German product that is now offered here, and which, it is said, threatens to undersell the domestic stuff. Rapid advances in caustic soda and soda ash also featured. Congested transportation facilities retarded business in the dyestuffs. The result was an easier tone to the market for coal-tar crudes, with a wide variation in the prices quoted.

Gray Goods Dragged Again.

Business dragged again in the local gray goods market yesterday, an additional factor being the proximity of the holiday. Important sales of sheetings, fine-yarn cloths and clothing styles were missing, and those of printcloths were not much better. February deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s were sold at 22 cents, and similar shipments of 39-inch 68-72s were sold at 25 cents. Reports of the latter sales were received with surprise, inasmuch as a more careful buyer could have got and can still get, the goods at a cent a yard less. The "offender" was understood to be the same concern which on Tuesday bought 39-inch 72-76s at a cent a yard more than it was really necessary to pay.

A new member of the celophane family, which rejoices in the name of taffetaphane, has made its appearance in the local millinery field. Unlike its brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, &c., it is not shiny, but has a dull finish not unlike that of the silk from which the first half of its name is taken. Most of the models of this material that have been displayed here are made of strips about half an inch wide, the prevailing colors being navy blue and black. The models are about as novel as the material of which they are composed, a characteristic feature being the marked irregularity of the brims. American Beauty roses are used as trimmings.

Manufacturers Still at It.

Judging from the complaints that are being received here manufacturers who last year made it more or less a rule to book orders at one price and deliver the goods at a higher one have by no means abandoned the practice. While no individual concern is singled out in these complaints, it is asserted that the tendency to violate sales agreements is especially marked on the part of manufacturers or wholesalers who sell their goods on the sole agency basis, among them being certain ready-to-wear and corset houses. Retailers handling the goods made or sold by those concerns, while not actually threatened with loss of the agency if they do not "come through," are said to be afraid of this if they do not accept the advances wished on them.

Should Use Registered Mails.

Due to the fact that many retail jewelers insist on returning merchandise shipped on memorandum, as well as pieces of jewelry to be repaired or remade, by parcel post, considerable money is being lost by local manufacturers and wholesalers. The reason is that parcel post packages, whether insured or not, are handled as regular mail, and in many cases being so marked that the nature of the contents is plainly evident, furnish a source of temptation to the postal employes who handle them. Only a very small part of the goods lost in this way is ever recovered, according to information gained in the local trade, whether there are claims or not. Trouble is also caused in cases of this kind by undervaluing on the part of the retailer who is sending the goods, either through carelessness or a desire to keep the insurance fee as low as possible, which makes it impossible to obtain their full value when settlement is made. The safest way to forward the goods, it was pointed out, is to send them by registered mail.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Two hundred delegates were in attendance when the first United States-Mexico Trade Conference opened here this morning at the Nation School of Mines. Delegates to the conference, which is under the auspices of the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico, included 125 American representatives and seventy-five executives of Mexican commercial and industrial firms. A special train carrying delegates from Texas and other Southern States arrived on Tuesday morning, and the United States delegation was completed early today when representatives from New York and Middle Western cities reached this city.

Among the subjects to be discussed at the general sessions will be the financing of Mexican exports, Mexican credits, banking facilities, agency representations, trademarks in Mexico, sale methods and advertising, shipping and packing and real estate and mine titles.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Under a considerably heavier flow of business than in preceding sessions of the week, railroad and industrial stocks both moved into new low ground yesterday. There were well-defined waves of selling on a broad scale, separated by occasional rallies which evidently indicated the purchase of stocks sold earlier for the fall. The market failed to reflect any sustained efforts of speculators to accumulate lines of stocks on the theory that the bottom of the movement was near at hand, but it was noted in brokerage office comment that the severity of the last fortnight's decline was bringing in an increasing number of bargain hunters who sought large and small lots for cash. Call money showed greater ease than during the preceding ten days, the renewal rate being 8 per cent., with offerings in the afternoon plentiful at 6 per cent.

The day's trading was marked by enlarged liquidation of railway issues, declines of a number of prominent members of the group extending from one to three points when pressure was most pronounced. Because of the probability that the Railway bill would be reported out of conference next Monday, with an excellent chance of rapid progress of debate upon it, the decline of rails was somewhat surprising. It might be argued that the threatened strike worked to accelerate sales, and it probably did have influence, but Washington dispatches received in the Street early in the day forecast prevention of a tieup which, eased sentiment in respect to the railway labor outlook. Evidently, the depression of speculators and investors alike over the continued melting down of industrial stock quotations found a reflex in the railroad group without any particular factor working for the decline other than those economic forces which have been active among the manufacturing, oil and metal issues for some time. Sales from abroad were reported in increased quantity. With industrial shares seeking to discount a possible contraction of general business and a consequent waning of speculative fervor, it would be the expected thing for the carriers to share in the movement. In connection with the decline, it is worth presenting some of the unusual quotations for standard rail stocks that were recorded at yesterday's minimum levels. Atchison sold at 76, Delaware & Hudson at 89¾, Great Northern preferred at 69, Illinois Central at 81½, New York Central at 65, Northern Pacific at 68¼, Reading at 64¾, Southern Pacific at 88½ and Union Pacific at 110¾. Before the close the rails rallied somewhat at the same time that the others were subjected to renewed selling, which left quotations around the lowest prices of the day in final dealings.

The current market has become more and more difficult for traders to analyse this week. Since the end of the first week of November, last year, industrial stocks of most prominence have fallen from 20 to more than 40 points, which is to be considered as liquidation of a drastic order. Many issues sold yesterday at prices lower than a year ago. Doubtless, sales for the short account have contributed largely to the decline since Jan. 1, but the impression that liquidation of long stock, speculative and investment holdings, has supplied most of the pressure makes uncertain any guesses whether or not the decline has run most of its course.

The foreign exchanges were quiet yesterday, sterling making a further advance. The price of gold at London stood at the preceding day's level of 123 shillings per ounce, but silver in that market was bid up to 80½ pence per ounce, a new high record.

South America and Far East Take Bulk of American Exports.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—South America and the Far East absorbed the bulk of the exports of gold and silver from the United States during the year 1919, the Department of Commerce announced today. Japan, China, and Argentina received the greatest part of the gold sent out of the country and China and India the major portion of silver exports.

Of the total gold exports in 1919, which amounted to $368,185,248, Japan took $94,114,189, China, including Hong Kong, $79,295,738, and Argentina, $56,560,000. The flow of gold to these countries was explained, department officials said, by shipments of silk and tea from Japan, silk and vegetable oils from China, and beef and hides from Argentina to the United States, heavily over-balancing American exports of manufactured goods.

Silver sent out of the country during 1919 totalled $239,021,051, of which India received $109,180,718 and China, including Hong Kong, $87,828,718. This demand, officials explained, was due to the extensive use of silver coins as ornaments in India and the silver standard in China.

French Treasury Shows Big Gain.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Receipts of the French Treasury for January, 1920, totaled 885,449,900 francs, as compared with 533,888,800 francs in January, 1919, and the budget estimate of 628,083,000 francs, showing an increase over January of last year of 351,611,100 francs, and over the budget estimate of 257,366,900 francs. These official figures were made public by the Ministry of Finance today.

$25,000,000 LOAN SOUGHT BY GREECE

Greece is seeking a loan of $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 in this country, but bankers are inclined to be more or less skeptical as to the success of the movement, unless some arrangement can be made similar to that adopted by the Italian Government, which is making a direct appeal to Italians and Americans of Italian parentage and sympathies, or unless a change in the Greek fiscal and exchange systems can be arranged to benefit American exporters of goods the Greeks want to purchase.

Greek banks, acting for themselves rather than for the Greek Government, also are conducting negotiations with local bankers for commercial credits. In this field, bankers believe, the applicants are likely to be more successful than the Government. These commercial credits, it is expected, shortly will be arranged and, it is anticipated, will be for fairly large amounts. One large Greek bank at Athens is expected to obtain upward of $10,000,000, and others are endeavoring to raise sums ranging from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000.

The establishment of a large Greek Government credit here, it is said, would be decidedly to the advantage of American firms selling in the Greek market. Under existing conditions, Greece maintains her exchanges by drafts on London. To facilitate this, the Greek Government keeps balances on deposit with London banks, and many Greek banks do likewise. It is out of these funds that most American goods sold in Greece are paid. The system is said to be cumbersome and slow, the completion of a transaction consuming at least two months and, bankers say, frequently a longer time.

If the Greek exchange system could be revised so as to allow the keeping of balances in New York banks a great deal, if not all, of this delay could be eliminated.

Advices received in banking circles said the embargo on exports of silver from England to India had been lifted, the unofficial explanation being that London has been able to accumulate a large amount of the metal, sufficient to allow the lifting of the embargo without endangering the British stocks.

Definite word also was received as to the new measures adopted in Belgium and Italy for the control of their exchanges. In Belgium a royal decree has been issued placing control of all transactions in foreign exchange in the hands of the Ministers of Finance and of Economic Affairs. In Italy the Minister of the Treasury has issued an order suspending indefinitely "all stock exchange dealings in foreign exchange," a phrase which is interpreted here to mean all speculative dealings.

Comparison of Railroad Earnings.

Spencer Trask & Co. have issued a comprehensive circular showing at a glance how earnings of the important railroads under Federal control compare with the compensation received from the Government for the use of the properties. The circular also shows how the per share earnings, maintenance expenses, dividend payments and prices during Federal control compare with similar items in the five and one-half year period before the roads were taken over at the close of 1917 by the President.

CHANDLER CAR GAINS MORE THAN DOUBLED

Motor Company's 1919 Statement Shows $6,853,139 Income and $5,652,255 Profit.

The Chandler Motor Car Company's annual statement yesterday was noteworthy not only because of high earnings in 1919, but also on account of the cheerful outlook of President F. C. Chandler for the current year. The aggregate income was $6,853,139, an increase of $3,800,370 over the result of 1918. The net profit, from which Federal taxes are still to be deducted, totaled $5,652,255, compared with $2,194,618 the year before. In terms of the stock the profit was equal to 26.91 per share.

"Business came to us in large volume," said Mr. Chandler in his statement to shareowners, "not only our own country, but from practically every foreign country where embargoes did not exist. We are still in an enviable position and indications point to a greater demand for Chandler cars this coming year both in this country and abroad than we shall be able to supply, even with the use of increased facilities in the way of buildings and equipment that are now being added to our plants.

The balance sheet disclosed total assets of $14,835,170, including $4,202,784 of inventories and $1,608,201 of Liberty bonds. The year's surplus after paying dividends was $4,322,255 and the aggregate surplus at the end of the year amounted to $7,225,228.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Discouraging Credits.

Bankers, it is reported, are not nearly so keen about making commercial loans as they were a short time ago, even when the risk is of the kind formerly known as "prime." One manufacturer recently applied for a rather considerable amount of accommodation against contracts he had secured for his products. The bank he applied to refused him, and explained his refusal on the ground that the manufacturers' contracts might be canceled, in which event the loan would be left in the air for an indefinite period. From the bank's point of view the transaction appeared dangerous. It would, of course, have collateral, in the form of a lien on the manufacturer's goods, but the bank reasoned that if the manufacturer could not sell his goods and pay off his loan the bank would have small chance of doing so.

Railroad "Sleepers."

Railroad credit, under the new proposed arrangement, is none too firmly intrenched, it is feared, and there is some question being raised as to how the roads, particularly the weaker ones, are going to make out after the period of Government control passes. The new scheme, which provides for making rates on a "group basis," is an enigma to most bankers; there is no known formula for figuring the probable returns to any given road, and without an earning basis to start from nobody seems to know whether a certain road has good credit, bad credit, or merely indifferent credit. Either for short-term or long-term financing this is a more serious stumbling-block than most people—and an apparent majority of legislators—seem to realize. Short-term railroad notes, one financial authority pointed out yesterday, might easily become "sleepers" in bank portfolios and in the hands of the investing public.

Establishing Losses.

No longer do investors await the coming of December for establishing investment losses for income tax return purposes. Now, in the middle of February, losses are being taken and carefully recorded for this very thing. Yesterday, to be specific, a rich man sold a block of bonds which showed him a loss of about 7 points for the current calendar year. He bought the bonds back again almost immediately, and of course, this is a new purchase and any profit which may accure from the buying point will be income. But, as he pointed out to the broker who executed his order the 7-point loss in "on the books," and the tax collector may see it any time he cares to.

General Motors.

Late yesterday afternoon, when General Motors was selling in the neighborhood of 245, a certain prominent commission house detected "good inside buying" and so advised its clients, many of whom were short of the stock at the time. The shorts rushed to cover. Some of them, even went long. And promptly General Motors broke to 235, rallying later about 3 points, but still standing a long way from the figure it sold at when the good inside buying was discovered.

Discounting Trouble.

For many months some of the most important brokers in Wall Street have been talking of an impending industrial decline. They have made no secret of their feelings, and for their trouble in pointing out what they believed they have been laughed at by the bulls. "Too conservative," or "they want to get their stocks back," have become popular sayings. Now the bulls are retreating, with ranks depleted, and the bankers are saying the same things about coming industrial slowing down and, incidentally, are talking about the stock market "discounting this depression." Half a dozen really big men yesterday said this.

Go Long of Money.

A client of a bond house wanted to know what he should buy with some idle funds he had on hand. "Why don't you go long of money?" his adviser wanted to know. The client was puzzled. "Well," said the bondman, "you can buy Anglo-French bonds at 94. They are 5 per cents. and are due on Oct. 15. You get interest for the interim, and in seven months you will get a premium of 6 points, and then the cash on hand will be worth about 10 per cent. more than it is now. That is playing money for the rise."

More Legislation Suggestions.

In spite of the fact that reports from Washington stated that Chairmen Esch of the House Committee on railroad legislation had agree upon the points to be contained in the new railroad law as it will be presented to Congress, additional suggestions for incorporation in the new law are being sent to them. One of particular interest that is understood to have been offered several days ago was that the new law make it clear that there should be included in "aggregate value" of railroad properties reasonable amounts for "working capital" and for "materials and supplies" which are now carried on the books of the railroad corporations as current assets.

Foreign Selling of Rails.

It was suggested in some quarters that the continued recession by old-line investment rails had been brought about by foreign liquidation which in turn has resulted from the big depreciation in foreign exchange in this market. This depreciation, according to the theory, has maue the prices for our old line rails look high to foreign stockholders.

Chandler Reflects Annual Report.

Chandler Motor stock moved over an erratic course yesterday. Shortly after the opening the stock sold off to its low for the day, and upon publication of the company's annual report, which was most favorable as compared with the preceding year, there was a sharp rally. Later it appeared for a time as if the professionals were selling the stock, and the final quotation showed a net loss for the day of more than three points.

Rate Committee Progressing.

The Rate Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, which has been struggling with the task of finding out just what is the percentage of rate increase necessary to the carriers, will meet tomorrow, and while it is not expected that its final report will be completed for presentation to the association, it was learned that the report will be made within a comparatively short time.

New Low Average Bond Record.

The average price for forty representative bonds on the New York Stock Exchange touched a new low record at 69.24, the lowest mark since the compilation of these averages was started several years ago. There was a big break in the railroad issues, several of which were off a point or more, with net losses for the day running as high as 2¾ for Missouri Pacific general 4s. United States Steel 5s lost a point at their low for the day, but made a fractional recovery before the end of the session.

Spicer Recapitalization Plan.

The Spicer Manufacturing Corporation, now in process of readjusting its capital, has sent a letter to holders of first preferred stock describing the exchange into new shares. A holder of 100 shares of preferred may exchange then for 117 shares of new 8 per cent. preferred, or for 100 shares of new preferred and sixty shares of new common. He also has the option of taking 400 shares of common for the 100 shares of preferred. Stockholders are to vote on the recapitalization plan on March 1. It is proposed to issue 280,000 of the 900,000 shares of common stock to be authorized.

HOW PENNSYLVANIA IS TO REORGANIZE

Radical Changes to be Made in Operation Plans and Personnel Rearranged.

ALL LINES IN ONE UNIT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—Radical changes in the operation of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, with a reorganization of officials affecting many of the higher officers, were announced tonight by Samuel Rea, President of the company, to become effective when the railroads are turned back to their private owners.

The system will be divided into four regions—Eastern, Central, Northwestern and Southwestern, with each in charge of a Vice President. The respective headquarters will be at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis.

The separation in organization that has existed between the lines east and west of Pittsburgh is to be abandoned, the announcement says, and the system will become a unit in all that concerns its service to the public. Instead of having a dividing line, as at present, at Pittsburgh, one of the busiest railroad centres in the country, the whole territory between Altoona, Pa., on the east; Buffalo, N. Y., on the north, and Columbus and Crestline, Ohio, on the west, will comprise the central region.

Bounds of Other Regions.

The Eastern region will extent from New York to Altoona, and to Washington on the South. The Northwestern region will extend from Columbus and Crestline to Chicago, and the Southwestern will be bounded roughly by Columbus, Cincinnati and St. Louis.

Each regional Vice President will have a complete staff, including a general manager in charge of operation and a traffic manager in charge of all matters affecting traffic and rates.

A department of personnel, with headquarters at Philadelphia, is created in charge of a Vice President. He will be G. L. Peck, at present Federal manager of the lines West.

The regional Vice Presidents and Vice President Peck will report to W. W. Atterbury, Vice President in charge of operation, at Philadelphia, who in turn will report to President Rea.

Many Changes in Officials.

Central Region—Vice President, R. L. O'Donnell, heretofore General Manager of the lines East; General Manager, E. E. McCarty; Traffic Manager, George D. Ogden.

The present Vice Presidents of the company in charge of traffic, finance, and accounting—George D. Dixon, Henry Tatnall, and A. J. County—will have the scope of their authority extended to include the lines west.

General Traffic Manager.

Robert C. Wright is appointed general traffic manager, to assist the Vice President in charge of traffic over the entire system, and J. J. Turner, at present senior Vice President of the lines West, will continue as an executive officer at Pittsburgh, designated as Vice President in charge of corporate affairs, lines West. The legal departments at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will remain as they are.

W. H. Myers, Director of the company and Vice President in charge of real estate, purchase and insurance, retires under pension regulations and is succeeded by M. C. Kenney, heretofore resident Vice President for the Cumberland Valley district, who will exercise jurisdiction for his departments East and West.

E. B. McCabe, Vice President in charge of finance and accounts, lines West, also goes on the pension list, and the position is abolished.

MORRIS PLAN EXTENDING.

Small Loans Increase Nearly 50 Per Cent. in Year.

During 1919 small loans by the companies operating the Morris Plan of industrial loans throughout the United States showed an increase of nearly 50 per cent. over the previous year. Of the total of about $62,000,000, nearly one-half was lent by twelve of the 108 banks in the system.

The New York company headed the list, according to the annual statement yesterday, with loans aggregating $7,252,638. The Detroit company lent over $3,000,000, Cleveland almost $2,500,000 and Chicago nearly $2,500,000. St. Louis's loans aggregated nearly $2,000,000 and Rhode Island's exceeded $1,500,000. Buffalo, Richmond, Los Angeles and Boston topped $1,000,000 each, while San Francisco and New Haven fell just short of that figure. The total for the twelve companies was $25,532,103—an average of $2,127,671.

London Wool Market.

LONDON, Tuesday, Feb. 10.—There were 10,500 bales offered at the wool auction sales today. Americans bought greasy merinos at 5 to 10 per cent. advance, but otherwise the market was in buyers' favor.

IRON AND STEEL ACTIVE.

Slump in Foreign Exchange Fails to Disturb Market.

The fall of the foreign exchanges, carrying the implication of lessened purchases in this country by European importers, has not disturbed the complacency of the steel and iron trade in regard to the business outlook. Trade reviews of the week note that export orders comprise but a small part of current bookings of the companies, and the domestic demand promises to keep the mills working for many months at as high a capacity level as transportation conditions and the supply of labor permit.

"Financial disturbances of the week," says the Iron Trade Review, "have cast no shadow upon the iron and steel market. In some lines, in fact, the week has been marked by the sharpest pressure for tonnage that the mills yet have experienced. A large fraction of the foreign trade in iron and steel has been with the Far East and with neutral countries where exchange conditions have been more stable. Staff cable advices from London pronounce the shortage of iron and steel in Great Britain and Europe as more acute than ever."

"The independent steel makers, following their practice of committing themselves not much over three months," says the Iron Age, "have been taking business at about their current capacity, while the United States Steel Corporation's statement of unfilled tonnage indicates a booking rate of fully 50 per cent. above capacity, with orders now in sufficient volume to carry to December."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

George W. Davison, President of the Central Union Trust Company, has been elected a director of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation to fill the vacancy created by the death of James N. Wallace, former President of the Central Union Trust Company.

J. O. Eaton, President of the Eaton Axle Company, has accepted the presidency and general managership of the Standard Parts Company, which has acquired a substantial interest in the new Eaton Axle Company. The latter company will, however, retain its separate identity, Mr. Eaton remaining as President and General Manager.

FINDS SHIP OUTLOOK GOOD.

International Mercantile Marine Head Reports Increased Earnings.

P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, who has just returned from Washington, said yesterday that the earnings of that company for 1919 were at least one-third greater than in the preceding year and that the general outlook for this year was not discouraging. Mr. Franklin said in part:

"A good deal of the tonnage of the International Mercantile Marine Company is combined passenger and freight steamers, operating on regular lines. The passenger movement is very strong and satisfactory. It is true that the freight market is easier and there is less traffic moving, which is largely due to the exchange situation.

"Although the congestion and terminal difficulties in New York due to the storm are just now serious, our company expects to dispatch from New York this week six large steamers, including the Adriatic full of passengers, provided bunker supplies can be arranged of which we are hopeful.

"These difficulties at New York do not prevail in other ports generally where the steamers are running along very satisfactorily, and the business of the company is not being interferred with on this account. The company is doing a diversified business, covering many trade routes and the conditions at New York therefore are confined principally to that port."

ASK BIGGEST MERCHANT MARINE IN WORLD

Shipyard Workers Also Want One Representative on the Shipping Board.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Spokesmen for delegations of shipyard and navy yard workers appearing before the Senate Commerce Committee today urged appropriations and legislation designed to make the merchant marine of the United States "the greatest in the world."

M. F. Doyle of Philadelphia presented in behalf of the delegations a petition which he said was backed by 400,000 shipyard workers and the American Federation of Labor.

"We believe that no matter how large an appropriation you find necessary for the merchant marine," Doyle said, "the people of the country will support it."

The Executive Committee of the National Mercantile Marine Association, headed by Edward B. Burling, urged the sale of Government vessels to private owners, the remission of excess profits taxation on ship operators' earnings, and the establishment of new trade routes from the United States in world trade.

Recommendations that an experienced workman be appointed to the next vacancy on the Shipping Board and that the first opportunity to purchase houses erected by the Government during the war be given to shipyard employes were made in a memorial sent to President Wilson today by the National Conference of American Shipworkers in session here. Inclusion of a man from their ranks on the Shipping Board, the memorial said, would insure loyal co-operation of yard workers.

PRUDENTIAL BEATS RECORD.

Insurance Company's Total for 1919 Nearly $900,000,000.

The Prudential Insurance Company accepted paid-for life insurance totalling $889,944,464 during the calendar year 1919, thus displacing the previous high record of $747,987,810 established in 1918, according to the annual report which President Forrest F. Dryden has just presented to the Board of Directors. Of this huge volume, $450,273,143 was ordinary and $439,371,321 was industrial. The increase in insurance in force for the year was $539,249,498, making the total at the end of the year $4,431,007,832, divided $2,483,402,595 in industrial and $1,947,605,306 in ordinary.

The total number of policies outstanding at the end of the year was 18,828,123, of which 2,653,439 were written in 1919.

The net increase in assets during 1919 was $86,630,316, or more than $6,000,000 in excess of the Prudential's total assets at the end of its twenty-seventh year. The assets on Dec. 31, 1919, were $508,092,625.56, and the liabilities $573,312,411.17, the surplus being $24,780,214.39, and the company's reserves $543,087,632.19.

Policy holders were paid a total of $66,615,413.70 in 1919, the total of such payments since organization being $616,185,737.19. On account of deaths resulting from the European War 6,632 policies were paid last year aggregating $2,300,871.03.

Mr. Dryden stated to the Board that the company had increased its Government purchases in 1919 by buying $10,000,000 of Fifth Victory Loan bonds and had bought $4,000,000 in addition of the bonds of the Canadian Victory Loan; also that during the last three months of the year it had gone into the open market and secured $17,000,000 additional Liberty bonds. This makes more than $100,000,000 of U. S. Government securities purchased by the Prudential.

Gross Sales $119,496,107, with $8,554,435 Balance Above Expenses.

The F. W. Woolworth Company reports for 1919 a greater value of gross sales than in any preceding year, amounting to $119,496,107. This was $12,317,696 greater than the year before. After providing for Federal tax payments by a reserve of $932,121, compared with $1,232,209 in 1918, and after paying preferred stock dividends, a balance of $8,554,435 over and above expenses remained. This was equal to $17.11 per share of common stock, against $9.86 in the preceding year.

The management applied $4,554,435 to the surplus account, bringing this item up to $25,144,435. In the balance sheet it was noted that "good will" was continued at $50,000,000, equal to the par value of the junior stock issue. Current assets at the end of the year totaled $22,569,613 with current liabilities of $2,570,540, leaving net working capital of $19,990,073. Inventories were valued at $17,248,973.

Allis-Chalmers' Profits.

The report of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company for the last three months in 1919 shows net profits after the deduction of expenses and reserves for Federal taxes, amounting to $760,434. This, after making allowances for the 7 per cent. annual preferred dividends, was equivalent to $1.85 a share earned on the $25,770,750 common stock.

$400,000,000 FOR ROADS.

Federal Expenditure for Four Years Suggested by Secretary Meredith.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—More liberal financial co-operation by the Federal Government in road building in Western States where large areas of public lands are located was advocated today by Secretary Meredith of the Department of Agriculture, speaking before highway representatives form Western States. The appropriation of $100,000,000 annually for four years was suggested.

"I am also heartily in favor of continuing the appropriations for the building of national forest roads," he said. He urged continuation of Federal and State co-operation in connecting State road systems with the systems of adjoining States.

COTTON FLUCTUATES IN NERVOUS MARKET

There was not much of interest in yesterday's cotton market. It fluctuated irregularly most of the time, selling off sharply in the first hour, when the distant months got down as much as 50 points, and then rallied well in the early afternoon, with March showing a net gain on the day at that time of 27 points, and with May and July up 32 and 37 points, respectively. The next crop months, however, which had suffered the maximum declines on the morning's break, merely got back to Tuesday's closing figures. In the final hour the market sold off again, the distant months recording rather severe losses and closing down 25 to 27 points on the day, while the near months were off only 3 to 7 points.

The market showed sympathy with the stock market during the greater part of the day, the bulge of early afternoon being the only development out of keeping with stock price movements. Little was said about foreign exchange rates and exports of the staple, and not a great deal of attention was paid to the money market, either for call or for time.

That cotton is "discounting" some sort of industrial depression is the general impression, and appears to be borne out by the action of prices, just as stock prices are generally supposed to be going down in anticipation of a slowing up in business. As evidence that this is so in cotton, one has merely to note the expanding discount on the distant months. On Jan. 12, when the year's high prices were recorded, the March contract sold at 37.05, against 31.40 for October on that day. There was a discount on the distant month of 5.65. At yesterday's closing prices March was quoted at 34.72, while October was closed at 28.28, a discount of 6.44. There is an increase of about $4 a bale in the discount in a month. And this discount has been increased in the face of a fall of $11.65 a bale in the March contract.

BUTTER—The receipts yesterday were 5,438 packages. Trade absorbed the fresh table grades as fast as they came in and the market ruled firm, but generally unchanged. EGGS—The receipts yesterday were 10,080 cases. It is still difficult to fill out of town orders of which there are many unsatisfied. The demand was fairly active and prices held steady, although there were future delivery orders at decidedly lower figures because of advices of increased shipments. Remaining lots of storage eggs were pushed on the market, most of them below prime and any reasonable bids were accepted. Few of the remaining lots were good enough to exceed a range of 35@42c and most went at lower prices. PETITIONS FORGED IN AID OF NEWBERRY

HE WAS TO OPPOSE FORD

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 11.—Testimony before the Newberry jury today by twenty-three witnesses related to fraud and forgery in connection with the signing of petitions to make James W. Helme the Democratic candidate for Senator in order to help Newberry in the primaries.

Albert R. Pratt of Ludington testified that Thomas Read of Selby, Speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives, asked him to circulate Helme petitions and said that he would reimburse Pratt. A dozen other witnesses testified that their names on Helme petitions were forgeries, several of them saying they had received stock letters, written in Detroit and sent to Newberry to be mailed in New York, thanking them for their help.

Adrian Van Krimpen of Grand Rapids asserted he was not a citizen when his name was alleged to have been written on a Helme petition.

State Labor Commissioner Fletcher, one of those indicted, according to George E. McKinley, Park Superintendent of Flint, asked him to send in Helme petitions left in his charge. McKinley was a Democrat and refused to circulate the petitions. Thomas Bigger of Marshall, State Boxing Commissioner, and Harrison Merrill of Kalamazoo, both indicted, hired workers to circulate Helme petitions among Democrats, according to witnesses.

Benjamin O. Bush of Kalmazoo, Democrat, testified he said to Bigger:

"What kind of a game is this? You are trying to defeat Ford on the Republican ticket and now you want to trim him on the Democratic ticket, too."

"Yes, we are going to trim him both ways," Bigger replied, said the witness.

Judge Edward Jeffries of the Recorder's Court, Detroit, testified he was asked by Fred Castator, a Republican Alderman, to urge Helme to run against Ford.

In the afternoon the prosecution offered the expense account filed by Frank W. Blair, Newberry Treasurer, before the primaries, showing an expenditure of $176,568.06. Mr. Littleton objected strenuously, but was overruled.

The report showed the expenditures were divided as follows: Advertising, $147,880.16; office, $9,976.19; telegrams and telephones, $3,914.14; traveling, $9,104.52; election returns, canvassing, $4,875.38; salaries not otherwise entered, $4,143.75; total, $176,568.06.

Among the contributors was John S. Newberry, brother of Senator Newberry, who gave $60,000. There were several small contributors. Members of the Newberry family gave sums ranging from $1,000 to $15,000.

The Government attorneys sought to show this account did not contain the total amount expended and called Frank M. Sparks, associate editor of The Grand Rapids Herald, who testified that State Labor Commissioner Fletcher told him in March, 1919, that the expenditures were nearer $500,000 than $176,000.

Grand Juror Higbee testified that Roman F. Glocheski of Grand Rapids told the Grand Jury he was called to Detroit to see Paul H. King, Newberry political manager, and that he was hired for $150 a month and expenses to travel secretly among Poles. He testified at the Grand Jury hearing that in King's office in Detroit he saw great piles of money on tables and desks and that there must have been hundreds of thousands of dollars on hand.

One of the features of the Newberry campaign as revealed by the testimony was the large number of banquets given by the committee in practically every county. Manager King would telegraph to a County Chairman that he would be in a certain county at a given time and "to get the boys together for a feed." In the northern counties lumberjacks, woodcutters and miners hobnobbed regularly at the banquet tables with the head Newberry workers.

The banquets were generally followed by laudatory letters from Newberry to the workingmen. Never had a Senatorial candidate paid so much attention to them.

ASSESSED AT $420,000

Buyers Will Probably Remodel Former Popular Hostelry Into Store and Office Building.

The famous old St. Denis Hotel, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Eleventh Street, which closed its doors to patrons last year after a career of over sixty years, was sold yesterday by Joseph P. Day to a syndicate headed by Garfield Moses, Ely Bernays and Joseph M. Brody.

The property, which was scheduled to be offered at public auction in the Vesey Street Salesroom on Tuesday next, was sold for the Renwick family, represented by James A. Renwick, W. W. Renwick and Mrs. Elizabeth Wittingham. Edward R. Wittingham, one of the heirs, represented the estate as attorney.

The estate has owned the property for over 250 years, the members of the family being descendants of Henry Brevoort, whose famous cherry orchard stood immediately opposite this property on the block now occupied by Grace Church. Plans were drawn by James Renwick for Grace Church, who also figured with W. W. Renwick in the erection of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Through the Brevoort interest in the property Eleventh Street never cut through from Broadway to Fourth Avenue, that plot being part of the original Brevoort farm.

The hotel got its name from the first proprietor, Denis Julian, who made his Washington Place restaurant known as Julian's famous for many years. In the early fifties William Taylor & Co. took the hotel, making many improvements, and they conducted it for half a century, and during the greater part of that time it was patronized by many prominent persons, Mark Twain having lived there for a time.

The hotel is a six-story building, covering a frontage of 75 feet on Broadway with a depth of 198.2¾ feet. No plans for improvement were announced by the new owners. The property is assessed by the city for taxes at $420,000, and is one of the largest plots in that locality available for immediate improvement.

LAWYERS SEEK BUILDING.

A syndicate of lawyers whose leases expire on their present quarters this year are negotiating with a syndicate headed by Ennis & Sinnott, for the purchase of the sixteen-story Downing Building, at 106 and 108 Fulton Street.

Office space is at a premium south of City Hall and there is a general scramble to find suitable quarters by business men in general. Many old buildings that have been used for manufacturing and warehouse purposes for years are being bought up by operators and investors and remodeled into office space. There is but little new building in progress to meet the demand and the result is that the old structures that are undergoing alterations are leased at good square foot prices long before the work is completed.

The Downing Building, for which a sale is now pending, was purchased on Monday by the Ennis & Sinnott syndicate through the Charles F. Noyes Company. It was sold by Elias A. Cohen and others and has frontages of fifty feet on Fulton Street and twenty-two feet on Dutch Street. The depth from Fulton Street is 102 feet. It is located midway between Nassau and William Streets and near the Fulton Street subway station of the Seventh Avenue route and near the heart of the insurance district.

The syndicate is holding the property at a valuation of about $850,000.

"Carry On" Home on 69th Street.

Mrs. Francis Rogers has purchased from Florence Walsh, et al., represented by Ennis & Sinnott, the three-story and basement dwelling, 336 East Sixty-ninth Street. The building occupies a plot 16.8 by 77.4, on the north side of Sixty-ninth Street, between First and Second Avenues.

Mrs. Rogers will use the property in connection with Lenox Hill Settlement work as a "Carry On" house for disabled soldiers. Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., negotiated the sale.

Three Brooklyn Factories Sold.

G. P. Butterly sold for N. Longman's Sons to Kuhne, Libbey Company, Inc., now located at 51 Front Street, New York, the smelting works, 25 to 31 North Portland, near Flushing Avenue, three two-story brick buildings on a plot 110 by 100. The purchaser will rebuild the structure. For W. M. Evans to the Manhattan Shoe Polish Company, the two brick factories at 46-48 Lexington Avenue, near Classon Avenue, on a plot 80 by 100, and for Knowles-Bradley Company, to Hugo Hermann, the factories 411 Van Brunt Street, with L, to 123 Van Dyke Street, Erie Basin. The buyer owns the abutting property, 128-130 Beard Street, adjoining the water front and will improve the combined site.

$200,000 Coney Bungalow Deal.

The Elgin Construction Company, Inc., Louis Jakobson President, has purchased from the Dann Realty Corporation forty-three stucco bungalows at Sheepshead Bay, Coney Island, for approximately $200,000. Some of these structures are completed and the balance will be ready by May 15. The bungalows which contain four and five rooms and bath, water, gas, electricity, on plots 20 by 85, adjoin Tappens in the block bounded by Emmons Avenue, Brown and Batchelder Streets.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENT.

Forty-five Manhattan Plans in January, Costing $14,000,000.

A decided improvement in the Manhattan building operations for January, as compared with the same month last year, is shown in the report announced yesterday by Superintendent Rudolph P. Miller.

During the past month plans were filed for forty-five new buildings to cost $14,044,000, as against sixteen costing $1,151,050 for January, 1919. A large increase is also shown in alterations, the applications including changes to 309 buildings at a cost of $3,973,220, as against 189 applications costing $682,215 for the same month last year.

The classification of new building projects for January shows that plans were filed for one dwelling costing $160,000, for four tenements costing $900,000, for two stores and loft buildings costing $325,000, for ten office buildings, one of which will house a church, costing a total of $3,900,000, as against one costing $306,000 last year; for four manufacturing structures costing $1,695,700, for two places of amusement costing $1,200,000, and for twenty stables and garages costing $768,300.

BIG DEAL IN BROOKLYN.

Home Insurance Company Buys Old Institute on Montague Street.

The Home Insurance Company has purchased for its Brooklyn home the building at 172 and 174 Montague Street from the trustees of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. The structure was formerly occupied by the latter society, now in the Academy of Music. The Montague Street property adjoins the plot formerly occupied by the old Academy of Music, on which is a taxpayer building.

The Home Insurance Company occupies a portion of the building just purchased and the Aetna Fire Insurance Company is another tenant. It is stated that the structure will be extensively remodeled in the near future, providing additional room for the new owners.

Downtown Trading.

The Charles F. Noyes Company sold for the Davis & Lawrence Company to H. Rehlen & Brother the seven-story and basement fireproof building at 10 and 12 Christopher Street, corner of Gay, on a plot 40 by 90. The purchasers have been located many years at 371 Pearl Street.

Leitner, Brener & Leitner, Inc., sold for a client to the Rev. Father Trout the seven-story loft building, 36 by 80, at 137 Grand Street, near Broadway.

The eight-story mercantile building at 473 Broadway, extending through to 36 Mercer Street, has been sold by Mrs. Timothy Chesseman of Garrison, N. Y.

The Madison Square Boys' Club sponsored by Albert H. Hines bought from Moses K. Kahn the three dwellings at 312 to 316 East Thirtieth Street on a plot 62.5 by 100 feet. Ashforth & Co. negotiated the deal. A campaign to raise $125,000 with which it is planned to build a club house on the site to contain a gymnasium, swimming pool, library and reading room, will be started in April.

SALESMEN.
We give selling a high-class automobile "service," and experience in automobiles, auto accessory and business service lines is preferred, but not absolutely essential; if you are a "successful" salesman in any line and can show earnings of $4,000 and upward per year you should be able to qualify.

We are seeking the type of salesmen we would like to become permanent members of our sales force; our salesmen are credited with an account for six years, and in addition to the full commission the first year they receive a renewal commission during the succeeding five years; this plan is new and has most attractive features for permanent salesmen.

We co-operate with our salesmen to the limit, and believe this to be the best "opportunity" for real salesmen in New York today; it is surely worth investigating if you want to improve your position and increase your earnings.

SALESMEN—GROCERY TRADE.

The qualifications are as follows: A young mind, active intelligence, stamina, honesty. If you meet these specifications and can prove it, we will be glad to discuss an association with you. LA SALLE PROBLEM METHOD
TRAINS YOU FOR
JUNIOR ACCOUNTING IN 5 MONTHS.
SENIOR ACCOUNTANT IN 15 MONTHS.

If you are making less than $50 a week and would like to earn this amount or more in a high-grade accounting position, real opportunity is open if you are willing to undergo at least several months of intensive training. The use of spare time a few evenings a week for 5 to 8 months has been sufficient to qualify for the $50 positions—12 to 18 months for positions paying $60 to $100 a week.

The rate of advancement depends upon your general qualifications, determination and ambition. You will be under the direction of William B. Castenholz, the best known accountancy teacher in America, and a large staff of expert accountants, including several members of the American Institute of Accountants.

A knowledge of bookkeeping is not necessary, as La Salle trains from the ground up, but an aptitude for accounting work will be an advantage in shortening the term of preparation for the bigger positions.

The records of thousands of ambitious men and women on file at our office show what has been accomplished by them and can be done by you.

GREAT SALE OF USED CARS.
Beginning Wednesday, Feb. 11, to close Sunday, 8 P. M., Feb. 15, of a collection of USED CARS to be sold at 25% less than the market price of today. This opportunity will not come again for a long time as we all know that within 30 days it will be a hard thing to get a USED CAR in good condition.

The reason for this sale is that we have hundreds of new car orders and most of them have trades and the new car buyers are commencing to take delivery. It has handicapped us for room, otherwise we would hold this line of USED CARS a few more weeks and it would be a profitable proposition.

This is an opportunity for those that anticipate buying a fine USED CAR that is guaranteed to leave our place in fine condition.

Our Time Payment Plan makes it easy for those who do not have the ready cash. The prices of the following cars range from $100 to $1,600.

Abraham Lincoln and the Eight-Foot Whistle

ABRAHAM LINCOLN used to tell about a craft that had an eight-foot whistle and a six-foot boiler—and whenever it whistled it stopped.

Many business organizations are today on a par with that craft. Their "business boilers" are not adapted to the progress the business organization is making. And each time they start with "full speed ahead" a hitch results somewhere.

Certified statements based upon periodical audits are the business man's pressure gauge. They not only tell him how much "steam" he has up, but keep him constantly informed on the use he is making of it.

HEARING NEXT WEEK ON WELFARE BILLS

EXPLAINED BY MISS PINCUS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—The social welfare and labor legislative program will be discussed at hearings before the Senate Labor Committee Wednesday. One of the measures is the Knight bill extending the workmen's compensation law to cover occupational diseases, which the Republican leaders have agreed to favor.

Other measures include provisions for health insurance, eight-hour day for women and children in industry and the bill repealing the so-called "conductorette" law which through its regulation of working hours made it impossible for women to continue work as conductors and ticket sellers on surface, subway and elevated lines in New York City.

The legislative program indorsed by the Women's Joint Legislative Conference, including minimum wage, eight-hour day and health insurance bills, will be ready for introduction in the Legislature next week, Miss Jane Pincus, Legislative Agent for the Conference, announced here today.

Assemblyman Theodore Roosevelt will introduce a minimum wage bill in behalf of the conference, which includes in its membership the Women's Trade Union League, New York State League of Women Voters, Northeastern Field of the Y. W. C. A., New York League of Women Workers, New York City Women's City Club, Consumers League, and League of Women Voters of New York City.

"There is a widespread demand for these bills," said Miss Pincus today. "The only opposition comes from a small group of high-salaried, skilled and professional women and some of the leisure class women represented by the New York City Federation of Women Clubs.

"The Minimum Wage bill does not call for a flat wage rate, but simply establishes a commission which in turn appoints wage boards composed of an equal number of employers and employes and the general public. These boards after careful investigation recommend the lowest wage for industries at which women can work and live in health. This bill does not affect the high-salaried women.

"The Eight-hour bill provides that only those women who now work nine hours a day, or fifty-four hours a week, in factories and mercantile establishments shall work eight hours a day, or forty-eight hours a week."

The proclamation called attention to the "present period of industrial and social unrest," and said the question was whether the propaganda of disloyal agitators was to prevail. MILITARY TRAINING CHANGE.

Governor Asks Legislature to Transfer Direction to Education Board.

ALBANY, Feb. 11.—The transfer of the functions of the State Military Training Commission to the State Education Department was recommended by Governor Smith in a special message to the Legislature today. The Reconstruction Commission has urged this action.

The Governor said the objectives of military training could best be obtained as part of the school curriculum and without the disadvantages of divided control, and that the present system was costly. "None of the functions which it proposes to accomplish need in any way suffer if the work is controlled by the Department of Education," he declared.
